Standpoint

Changes in our world are occurring at a maddening pace, more resoundingly than can be chronicled, let alone understood.

Amidst the resultant instability, perhaps something has been driven firmly into our consciousness. The fact of interrelatedness. The illusory fancy of isolation.

Surely, we conclude as never before that there is no hiding, no avoiding the interaction with our fellows. In the economic sphere, space probing, or in social corners, there is no solitude.

Have Southern Baptists yet to find the secret to serving as leaven in a world such as ours has become? For several years now, there has been a statistical leveling off, even a discernible downward trend.

Need our lack of vitality and our apparent ineptness deepen? Of course not! God can again empower us to become bearers and sharers of eternal life.

There remains the age-old answer. Simply that we put ourselves at his disposal. Completely, sincerely, submissively.

The statistical profile of our denomination is shown in succeeding pages only through the faithful, dedicated efforts of many—church and associational clerks, department staff members, and countless others. In grateful recognition of their work, may we look carefully in the mirror thus placed before us.
