

Earthquake Aftermath

When the great earthquake of September 1, 1923 had destroyed a large part of Tokyo and we had no Missionary to do our part of the rebuilding, and since we had an unusually large number of new Missions ^{series} in Fukuoka since 1921, it seemed to Maggie Lee and me that we ought as a Mission, to do something in Tokyo, we volunteered to spend a year in Tokyo—summer of 1924 to the summer of 1925. We built for the Mission a dormitory for students.
