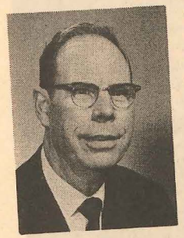
Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker, right, receive a book of letters from KBC executive secretary Harold G. Sanders at a luncheon honoring the retiring director of the state's annuity department. For a complete story on the events surrounding Walker's retirement, see pages 5 and 9.

Staff Changes

O. G. Lawless, association missionary for Warren County Association since 1966, has resigned to become pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Bowling Green. The 64 year old missionary will begin his new work April 1.



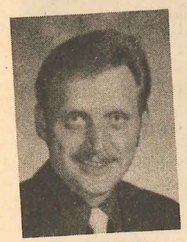
Lawless

A graduate of New Orleans Baptist Seminary, Lawless has been pastor to several congregations in Tennessee and Kentucky. He has also worked with the mission department of the Tennessee Baptist Convention and served in the 40's as missionary in Freedom, Barren River and Allen County associations in Kentucky.

He is married and the father of three children.

Ferd Graves, pastor of First Baptist Church, Middletown, has announced his retirement. The 68 year old pastor will officially retire June 30 after completing more than 19 years as pastor of the church. He has been in the pastoral ministry over 43 years. Graves plans to remain in Middletown and will be available for part-time preaching.

Harold L. Greenfield resigned as pastor of Kosmosdale Baptist Church, Valley Station, to become superintendent of missions of Caldwell Baptist Association, effective March 1. He received his AA degree from Bethel College, Hopkinsville; BA degree from Union University, Jackson, Tennessee; MA degree from Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, and BD degree from Southern Seminary, Louisville. He engaged in further study at Southern Seminary during his pastorate at Kosmosdale.



Greenfield

Prior to his ministry at Kosmosdale Greenfield served as superintendent of missions for Little River Baptist Association, Cadiz. His ministry began as an ordained Baptist preacher at Sugar Creek Baptist Church, Caldwell Baptist Association, in 1956. He was pastor of Woodland Baptist Church in Greenville from 1959 to 1965.

George Warren, minister of education at Twelfth Street Baptist Church, Paducah, for five years, has resigned to accept a similar position with First Baptist Church, Pampa, Texas. The Paducah church has established the only religious ministry to the mentally retarded children in western Kentucky. Warren served for the past three years as Sunday School director of West Union Association and has been used throughout the state to lead training conferences. Mrs. Warren is the former Nell Miles of Martin, Tennessee. They have three children.

Michael C. Sigmon joined the staff of Calvary Baptist Church, Lexington, on a part-time basis. He has assumed responsibilities of youth minister and will be assisted by his wife. The Sigmons are students at Southern Seminary. They are natives of Hickory, North Carolina.

Apple Pie Evangelism

On a visitor's card from last Sunday's service was the name of a young couple who had moved into our community recently. They were members of a Baptist church back home and they indicated interest in becoming members of our church. I found the home, rang the door bell and was graciously received into their home. It was an attractive home and they were delightful people. As we talked they spoke of their church back home, of their need of a church home here and of their search among the churches in our community.

I tried to introduce our church to them; explaining our full program, our present building and future plans, our need of their life and witness in our church. As I continued, the door bell rang and standing outside was a neighbor with a delicious looking pie in her hand. I was introduced to her, a good neighbor, a member of another church in our community. She had baked an extra apple pie for them and was delivering it. She also gave them an invitation to attend her church. Then she graciously excused herself. I soon left, leaving them an invitation to come back to our church.

Weeks went by and I didn't see the couple return. In their neighborhood one evening, I decided to stop and check on them. Were they in church? Yes, they had joined the church where their neighbor attended and were very happy. I left thinking, "You just can't beat an apple pie."

Do you have neighbors not in church? Then you are ready to practice "Apple Pie Evangelism." I believe it will work; I saw it happen!

Toynbee — Tillich — Macquarrie

Three Present-Day Goliaths

By James Leo Garrett, Jr.
Professor of Christian Theology, Southern Seminary, Louisville

Fifteen years ago Hendrik Kraemer, then probably the leading authority on Christianity's relation to non-Christian religions, declared in his book, Religion and the Christian Faith (Westminster, page 20), that "for the first time since the Constantine victory in A.D. 312 and its consequences, the Christian Church is heading towards a real and spiritual encounter with the great non-Christian religions."

Since 1956 certain of the non-Christian religions have demonstrated new vitality. Likewise, the advocates of accommodational alternatives for Christianity have become more numerous and more influential. It has become common for so-called Christian writers to expound a lower estimate of the uniqueness of God's self-disclosure in Jesus Christ. Three of the most notable of these accommodationists have been Arnold Toynbee, the noted British world historian; Paul Tillich, the late theologian-philosopher of Germany and the United States; and John Macquarrie, the Scottish-born Anglican theologian, formerly of New York and now of Oxford.

I

Arnold Toynbee in his book Christianity Among the Religions of the World (Scribner's, 1975) called upon "all the living higher religions" to "make a new approach towards one another in face of a fearful common adversary," "the worship of collective human power." He suggested that the "common ground" might be found to be self-centered "human nature." Toynbee advocated that Christianity be purged of its "traditional . . . belief that Christianity is unique" and of "the exclusive-mindedness and intolerance that follows from a belief in Christianity's uniqueness." Toynbee argued on the basis of God's love that God must have made various revelations other than that in Jesus and asserted that "exclusive-mindedness is a sinful state of mind [,] . . . the sin of pride."

II

Paul Tillich in his book Christianity and the Encounter of the World Religions (Columbia University Press, 1963) called for a "mutual judging" of religions "which opens the way for a fair evaluation of the encountered religions." Tillich agreed with the tendency not to seek to convert Jews to Christianity and expressed the hope that this attitude would be extended to Muslims. He urged that dialogue should replace conversion in the Christian relationship to non-Christian religions. According to Tillich, Christianity must "break through its own particularity" and "penetrate" into its own depths, so that Christianity will lose its importance as Christians become free to see God's presence "in other expressions of the ultimate meaning of man's existence."

III

John Macquarrie in his Principles of Christian Theology (Scribner's, 1966) assumed "that in all religion there is some genuine knowledge of God, genuine revelation, and genuine grace." Macquarrie rejected the view that one religion is true and all the rest false." Rather he argued that "one can commit oneself within one's own community of faith and in terms of the symbols established in that community, and yet believe that for a person in other circumstances, the same God reveals himself in another community and under different symbols, and that there may be nothing defective or inadequate about that person's commerce with God" (page 156).

One should not, Macquarrie continued, "deny" that revelation has occurred in another religion, though as an outsider one cannot truly affirm such either. According to Macquarrie, "The spiritual predicament of mankind today cannot be thought of in terms of Christianity (or any other particular religion) against the rest, but rather in terms of the contrast between the knowledge of God and the grace of holy Being on the one hand, and materialism and positivism on the other" (page 158).

IV

It is significant that each of these three — Toynbee, Tillich and Macquarrie — draws the line of demarcation between true religion and false religion, not in terms of the revelation of God in Jesus Christ versus other religions and ideologies but in terms of his own personal religio-philosophical postulate versus views that would deny or obscure this.

For Toynbee true religion is a faith that overcomes "the worship of collective human power." For Tillich true religion is that which expresses "the ultimate meaning of man's existence." For Macquarrie true religion is "the knowledge of God and of the grace of holy Being" as distinguishable from "materialism and positivism" (positivism" meaning "scientism"). In each case true religion is definable without reference to Jesus Christ.

While each of the three writers specifically denied that syncretism should be the goal, Toynbee urged the finding of "common ground" among all major religions, Tillich called upon Christianity to break through "its own particularity" and for Christians to see "the spiritual presence" in other religions, and Macquarrie taught "that in all religion there is some genuine knowledge of God, genuine revelation, and genuine grace."

The views of Toynbee, Tillich and Macquarrie bring to sharp focus the crucial contemporary issue of the relation of the revelation of God in Christ (not merely institutional Christianity) to the religions of mankind and their claims to truth. Two important aspects of this issue are: (1) Are these views true? (2) What would likely be the relation of such views, if widely embraced by present-day Christians, to Christian world missions?

For some the question of truth can be solved in terms of untruth by recognizing the sharp difference between these views and the teaching of Jesus, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but by me" (John 14:6 RSV), and the declaration of Peter, "And there is salvation in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12, RSV). For others the question can be similarly resolved by surveying the inadequacies in the doctrines of salvation of various religions as evidenced by case studies and religious phenomena. For still others, however, these views offer an appealing and attractive alternative to the "exclusivist" claims within Christianity.

This question of truth is ultimately the question of the uniqueness and indispensability of the revelation in Christ and indeed of the uniqueness and indispensability of Jesus Christ. The latter questions are at the most crucial level questions of faith. Is it valid to receive the grace of God in Jesus the Son of God and to come under his divine Lordship and then extract from the teaching of Jesus and his apostles the explicit and implicit claim to the exclusively sufficient revelation of God? Such extraction would seem to be a lessening of an essential. No one should, to be sure, seek to bind the outreach or the free grace of God.

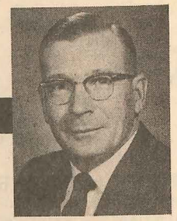
DALEY OBSERVATIONS



An Encouraging Cooperative Program Report

The report of gifts from the churches through the Cooperative Program for the first six months of this fiscal year is included in this issue. Every Kentucky Baptist should examine it, give thanks for the increase over the same period last year and search his heart concerning the Lord's expectations of him in this respect. The same heart searching is appropriate for every church.

Gratitude to God is most appropriate for the hundreds of thousands of Kentucky Baptists and most all churches related to the Kentucky Baptist Convention for their loyalty to this proven plan for undergirding our cooperative work all the way from where we live to the end of the earth. Without this kind of response by thousands who present their tithes and offerings regularly to the Lord through His church, such a story of Cooperative Program gifts could not be recorded.

This Cooperative Program record is more encouraging when we remember the continuing inflation and rise in costs of living for most families and the ever-growing cost involved in keeping a vigorous local church program going. For many families whose income isn't keeping up with the rising prices the temptation many times is to cut back on their giving through their church and keep a larger share for their own needs and wants.

Many churches find themselves in the same kind of bind. Pastors and staff members have to have more income to meet their needs while church supplies, literature and other materials continue to rise in cost. And so many churches comparing their incomes with their needs are often tempted to take care of their needs first even if it reduces their gifts to world-wide mission efforts.

Other churches today find themselves in changing or otherwise unique communities with great challenge for special local ministries. To meet the challenge these churches feel led to keep for local use a larger share of their income than they once did. How to reach such decisions is between these churches and their Lord, but again it is an inspiring testimony to see so many churches enlarging their local ministry and not forgetting the critical needs in the rest of the world.

Among other things that encourage us as we think of future mission giving through Baptist churches is the definitely growing concern by Baptist men and boys to learn and thus give more to mission causes. Traditionally, we have tended to leave most of the praying, studying and special giving to missions to Baptist women. Now through World Mission Conferences (formerly Schools of Missions), more and more mission education through the Brotherhood and boys' organizations and the church-wide observance of special weeks for state, home and foreign mission prayer, study and giving, the outlook grows brighter for our men and boys to become more and more interested and involved.

One or two words of caution against overoptimism might be appropriate at this point. The first is to realize that the increase through Cooperative Program giving, however encouraging, is hardly keeping up with inflation. This means at the present rate we might maintain what we are now doing but not much, if any, more.

Another is always to beware of wolves in sheep clothing who by mail, radio or otherwise encourage us to divert God's tithe from our churches to their independent ministry and whose financial records usually are not actually known by many. Of course this does not apply to preachers like Billy Graham who invites and deserves our help in one of the greatest evangelistic ministries in history. Billy Graham never asks for our tithes which should go through our churches but for gifts beyond the tithe.

Pastors and churches have a special opportunity to help maintain and increase mission gifts by a worthy observance of Cooperative Program Day, April 16. In many instances it should be an educational emphasis; in churches which don't participate regularly in this plan, it would be appropriate to receive a special Cooperative Program offering.

To finish the Cooperative Program year by meeting or exceeding the goal would be a most appropriate expression of appreciation to our retiring executive secretary, Harold Sanders, and surely would encourage our new leader, Franklin Owen.

Such an accomplishment would also make it possible for all the Kentucky Baptist departments, agencies and institutions which depend in full or in part upon Cooperative Program gifts to perform their planned ministries. Otherwise there will have to be some cutting back as in some recent years. May it not be so!

A. W. Walker Is Retiring But Not Quitting

The retirement of A. W. Walker on April 1 as secretary of the Kentucky Baptist Annuity Department will leave a special emptiness in the Baptist Building family. In the more than seven years he has served this office he has endeared himself to his colleagues in demonstrating the same friendliness, helpfulness and devotion which have characterized his entire ministry.

For most of his years in the ministry A. W. Walker has been known as a beloved and successful pastor. The members of the churches he served felt none excelled and few equaled him.

Long before he became a denominational worker he demonstrated unusual denominational loyalty. As a pastor he took advantage of nearly every suggestion made by the denomination for a more effective local church ministry. He assumed most of the recommended denominational plans would work and they did for him and the congregations he served. At the same time he was excelling as leader of local church programs he and his congregations were always among the first in cooperation and contributions in associational, state and Southern Baptist Convention projects and emphases.

Coming from such a long and successful pastoral ministry, there were those who understandably wondered if he could shift gears and fill such a specialized ministry. All doubt was quickly dispelled as in a remarkably short time he became a recognized specialist in his field. He passed up no opportunity to help pastors see the importance of making provision for retirement years and to impress upon churches their obligation to take care of the material needs of their pastors now and in the years ahead.

Although he has reached mandatory retirement age as annuity secretary for Kentucky Baptists, A. W. Walker is not about to be without an active ministry. While continuing to live in Louisville, he will serve as associational missionary on a part-time basis for nearby Sulphur Fork Association. He and his mate, Mary Lee, also plan to give as much time as possible to the life of Davis Memorial Baptist Church which they have recently joined.

While missed as an official member of the Baptist Building team, he will remain a familiar figure and a vital part of the Kentucky Baptist fellowship. He richly deserves the gratitude of Kentucky Baptists for services already rendered and prayers for ministries still planned.

A Call For Action Against Morally Offensive Movies On Television

(Adopted by the Christian Life Commission's Advisory Committee, March 3, 1972)

Since the Columbia Broadcasting System has broken a barrier by releasing for the first time for showing on television an edited version of "The Damned," a previously X-rated movie, there is imminent danger that offensive movies may now be channelled more frequently into American homes. This danger is recognized by many who are concerned about the moral climate of our nation including CBS affiliate WBTV in Charlotte, North Carolina which refused to show "The Damned" and said in a televised editorial on February 28 and 29: "The CBS Television Network has undertaken to remove the very worst parts from the film, but enough remains to make the picture thoroughly unfit for home viewing . . . X-rated movies even partially cleaned up, are not the sort of thing that young people should be watching."

Programs which degrade sex, glorify violence, and deny moral decency have no place on the airwaves which belong to the people or in our homes which belong to God. We endorse network programing which provides wholesome entertainment, and we vigorously oppose programing which undermines moral standards without which no nation can long endure.

We call on Southern Baptists, and others concerned about television programing as well, to write to express appreciation to networks and sponsors for programs that are morally wholesome. We further urge the writing of letters and the exercise of selective buying to resist the showing of offensive movies on the television screen.

We also petition U.S. Senator John Pastore, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on communications, to conduct a hearing to investigate the showing of morally offensive movies on television, and we request that the Christian Life Commission be given the opportunity to present testimony against the showing of these movies on the public airwaves.

We call on the Federal Communications Commission to do its duty to protect the public interest by prohibiting any television network's distribution of morally offensive movies.

We ask agencies that are Christian Life Commission counterparts in other denominations to join in opposition to offensive programing by enlisting their members to express themselves through letter writing and selective buying practices.

We declare ourselves in favor of a congressional bill to prohibit the showing of X- and R-rated movies on television, and we pledge ourselves to work to secure its passage.

We call on state Christian Life Commission members and other interested individuals to communicate with local sponsors of offensive television movies to ask them to stop supporting such programs and, if the sponsors refuse, to publish the names of these offending companies in newspaper ads.

Ecuadoran Baptist Leaders Say 'Want More Responsibility'

Baptist pastors in Ecuador want to take more responsibility for evangelizing their homeland, according to views expressed during a retreat at the Baptist encampment at Manglaralto, Ecuador.

Thirty-three pastors and Southern Baptist missionaries met for three days at this Pacific Coast site.

A missionary spokesman assured the pastors that the missionaries are willing to follow national leaders and work with them.

Pastor Carlos Maldonado of Guayaquil said that Baptist work in Ecuador had gone forward because of the love of other people. "Now we are capable of carrying on," he added. "We have come of age."

Southern Baptist missionaries began work in Ecuador in 1950.

Other pastors expressed appreciation for the presence of the missionaries and their continuing contribution. They agreed, however, that the time has come for national workers to assume more leadership and responsibility for the work.

Guillermo Vasquez, a pastor from Quito, told the group, "We are at the point of reaping what has been sown in past years. There are no barriers that cannot be overcome. The time is ripe."

One goal explored was the organization of a national Baptist convention.

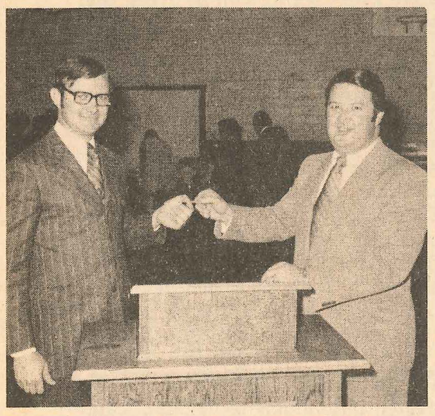
Regarding the future of Baptist missionaries in Ecuador, the concensus among the pastors was that they "have not reached the point of saying 'hasta luego' ('so long') to the missionary. There is yet much the missionary can do."

Some pastors say it is not a question of nationals versus foreigners, reported Southern Baptist missionary Stanley D. Stamps. Rather, they say, Ecuadorans and missionaries should "work side by side, yet with a national focus." (BP)

Mission Constituted Into New Church

Richpond Baptist Mission in Warren County was constituted into a church during special services Sunday, January 16.

A small community six miles south of Bowling Green on 31W South, Richpond had no Baptist witness until June, 1971, when Hillvue Baptist Church in Bowling Green started a Sunday School class with seven in attendance in an old store building, which presently serves as the home for the church until a building can be erected. The class grew to 21 and was divided into two groups. In October, four classes were established with an average of 35 in attendance. The missions committee, at the urging of Hillvue pastor C. Wyman Copass, who felt a Sunday School class by itself could not be justified without a program of worship, made plans for a week-end revival. During the services 39 people made public decisions to become a part of the mission, 19 of them by profession of faith and all in one service. A church was born overnight.



Billy C. Burton, left, receives the key to the newly organized and constituted Richpond Baptist Church from C. Wyman Copass, pastor of the Hillvue Heights Baptist Church, Bowling Green, mother church of Richpond.

Under the direction of the Hillvue Heights Baptist Church, the mission was organized into a church with 49 charter members, 29 coming from the mother church. Average attendance since then has grown to 110, with 20 waiting for baptism and an average offering of over $300. The church has already purchased 2½ acres of land on which a new building will be erected as soon as money is available.

Billy C. Burton was called as the pastor the day the church was organized. He was ordained to the ministry by the Hillvue Heights Baptist Church on May 23, 1971. He is a native of Madisonville and a graduate of Western Kentucky University. He plans to enter Southern Seminary this fall. Burton served as pastor of the New Gasper Baptist Church in Warren Association before being called to Richpond.

Your gift record

Would you like to know how well your local church has shared in the worldwide mission work of Kentucky and Southern Baptists during the past six months?

Well, the record is in this issue of the Western Recorder. All churches are listed according to your association. The record is for (1) Cooperative Program gifts during that six months period and (2) other designated mission gifts.

Now, check on your church's intention to give, or budget item — how much did you plan to give in six months? Are you over or under what you planned? Was it as much as you think it should be? Are you behind in your pledges? Should your church be giving more now? How about the next six months — will you help us reach the annual goal of $4.2 million by August 31? And will your church give more in your new budget? Thanks for all that you and your church did to share our Baptist witness to the love of God in Christ Jesus around the world.

Deciding on which college?

For many Baptist parents and their graduating high school seniors, this is a time of deciding what college they will attend this fall. I am one of those. My last son is a senior and has been studying colleges with the hope of enrolling in one in the fall.

Have you (1) talked about the fine Baptist colleges we have in Kentucky —and other states? There is one which will fit your senior. A Baptist college offers much that is of deep concern to the serious-minded youth of our day— a sense of God's presence, a purpose for living, service to humanity, training for that service.

Have you got a catalog from our Baptist colleges? If not, write the Director of Admissions at Georgetown College, Georgetown; Campbellsville College, Campbellsville; and Cumberland College, Williamsburg. Or, write to the president if you feel closer to him.

Have you taken your senior and perhaps some of his friends to visit on the campuses of your Baptist colleges? If not, do it. You would do well to write the president or director of admissions when you can come so that they can "bake you a cake" — that is, be ready to make your visit meaningful.

People And Places

John M. Sykes, Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church, Ashland, and Joe O. Lewis of Georgetown College were among the participants in a writers' conference for adult Sunday School materials in Nashville at the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board on February 28 - March 2.

Wayne C. Roberts, minister of music at First Baptist Church, Madisonville, was recently selected to become a new member of The Centurymen, an all-male choir composed of 100 ministers of music from across the Southern Baptist Convention. All members of The Centurymen are qualified conductors in their own right and most have impressive credits as career vocalists.

First Baptist Church, Sturgis, recently voted to pay the transportation and board costs for a lay member to attend the Southern Baptist Convention in Philadelphia. The action was taken in an effort to involve the laity more in the life of the denomination.

Don Martin, 1969 graduate of Clinton High School and junior at Cumberland College, was recently ordained as a Baptist minister at Pleasant View Baptist Church in Clinton, Kentucky. Roger Lovett of Oak Ridge gave the question, Bill Cardwell of Middlesboro gave the charge and Kenneth Sieber of Clinton was moderator. Martin, who is majoring in religion, is pastor at First Baptist Mission, Oneida, Tennessee.

Mrs. W. E. Florer, widow of the late Rev. W. E. Florer, passed away in Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Florer taught Sunday School classes for over 63 years. She helped organize the WMU in Bethel and Logan Associations, Bowling Green. In addition to WMU work, she actively engaged in teaching and mission work.

In observance of Race Relations Day the Harlan Baptist Church and the First Baptist Church of Harlan had a joint service. The choir from the First Baptist Church brought special music and the pastor, J. E. Raglan, brought the message. The two congregations voted to worship together rather than have a pulpit exchange. Earl S. Bell is pastor of the Harlan Baptist Church.

Elwyn Wilkinson, director of Baptist student work at Cumberland College, was one of ten persons participating in a workshop on "Models of Student Ministries." Held at the church program training center of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, the workshop was directed by Arthur Driscoll, consultant, national student ministries.

The Kentucky Baptist Religious Education Association is having a Spring Retreat May 18-19 at Cedarmore. Attendees should have reservations in to Cedarmore right away. A $2.00 registration fee should accompany each reservation.

In memory of Mrs. H. O. Price who died January 12, the executive board of the Bethel Baptist Association has voted to send Camp Joy $100.00 to use as needed. Mrs. Price had served faithfully in the Bethel Association in various positions. She worked with the WMU, as director for a number of years.

Willard G. Beasley was recently ordained to the gospel ministry by the Union Ridge Baptist Church, Aurora. There were 15 ordained ministers and 17 deacons comprising the ordaining council. Beasley plans to resign his work at an industrial plant in Calvert City. He will move into the church's parsonage in the near future and give his full-time to pastoral responsibilities.

Beasley

The Vota Vita class of the Jeffersontown Baptist Church has adopted a resolution of respect to the memory of Mildred Harris. She was remembered for her "consecrated life and faithful service in His kingdom's work."

Albert Kemp of Providence has died at 68 years of age. He was pastor of Richland Baptist Church in Hopkins County before retiring because of ill health. His pastoral ministry spanned 37 years. His first church was the Creswell Baptist Church of Caldwell County where he served for nine years; he also served Victory Baptist Church of Providence, six and one-half years, and Vann Avenue Church of Evansville, Indiana, eight years.

He is survived by his wife Minnie and two sons Harold and Bobby Joe.

Second Semester 1972 at Georgetown College was the most successful in recent years for retention of students. Only 93 students did not return the second semester. This semester, 27 states and 11 foreign countries are represented in the Georgetown College student body. Kentucky leads the list with 627 students. Ohio is second with 279 students.

First Baptist Church of Sturgis observed Race Relations Day with a Sunday evening worship service. The message was brought by Howard Dupee, pastor of Phillips Chapel C.M.E. Church in Sturgis. The service also featured a gospel music concert by the Breckinridge Job Corps choir. There were approximately 400 people attending the service. This was the first interracial worship service in the history of the Sturgis church and believed to be the first held in the community.

Jack Jones, minister of music at Rosemont Baptist Church, Lexington, will travel to Israel in March along with 24 other members of The Centurymen to participate in the filming of an hour-long NBC-TV special to be aired on Easter Sunday, April 2, from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. EST.

First Music Festivals Attract 565

A total of 565 persons from 17 churches in five associations participated in the first two of 18 regional music festivals to be held this spring in the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

At Louisville on February 24, the Central Regional Adult Festival had 377 members of 12 adult choirs in four associations within the region for an evening of sharing the singing and listening to music to the glory of God.

Meanwhile, on the same night at Florence, some 188 persons and three soloists from five churches provided a musically inspirational evening for a northern Kentucky audience.

The next ten festivals are scheduled from March 24 to April 1, with adult and youth festivals scheduled at Bowling Green, Louisville and Mayfield on March 24; children's festivals at Bowling Green, Louisville and Williamstown on March 25; adult/youth festivals at Henderson and Ashland on March 31; and a children's festival at Central City and an all-ages festival at Paintsville on April 1.

Choir directors who are unable to contact their regional directors are invited to contact state music director E. F. Quinn, P.O. Box 43433, Kentucky Baptist Building, Middletown, Kentucky 40243, immediately to enroll their choirs.

Bus Outreach Package Offered To Churches

A free bus outreach information package for churches engaged in a bus outreach program has been prepared by the Sunday School department of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board for release April 1.

To obtain a free package containing helpful information for the bus outreach director, send the name and address of your church and its bus outreach director to D. Lewis White, Bus Outreach Consultant, 127 Ninth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tennessee 37234.

FMB Adds $10,000 For Bangladesh Relief

An additional $10,000 for relief work in Bangladesh was appropriated by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board during its March meeting in Richmond, Virginia.

The board also heard its executive secretary tell of improved financial prospects.

The appropriation for Bangladesh relief work brought to $111,500 the amount allocated by the board for that purpose thus far. Missionaries are using most of the money to build houses for Bengalis whose homes were destroyed during the war which led to an independent Bangladesh.

Executive secretary Baker J. Cauthen indicated that the board stands to receive approximately $1,400,000 in additional Cooperative Program funds in 1973, based on recommendations to the Southern Baptist Convention by its Executive Committee.

"This good word along with the encouraging prospects of this year's Lottie Moon Christmas Offering, which is still being tallied, gives us a much improved financial outlook," he said.

Cauthen added that this would help offset difficulties brought on by dollar devaluation and worldwide inflation. (BP)

Cooperative Program Day Nears, Plans Suggested

Cooperative Program Day is observed by churches of the Southern Baptist Convention as a mid-year emphasis on the importance and need for the Cooperative Program. It is a time of personal mission commitment, renewal and prayer for the people and causes supported and the people ministered to through the Cooperative Program.

Sunday School — Schedule devotionals in department periods. Two suggestions from which you might choose are found in the booklet "Stewardship Devotionals" (FB-33). Brief messages or testimonies may also be scheduled in classes. Those making presentations should tell how much your church is giving to missions through the Cooperative Program, something of how the money is used and why they believe in the Cooperative Program. Additional information may be obtained from the book Our Cooperative Program by W. E. Grindstaff. This book provides good historical information as well as inspirational thoughts. Speakers should then lead in prayer for increased commitment to the Cooperative Program as our plan of support of Baptist world missions.

Morning Worship — Distribute the Cooperative Program Day handout or a Cooperative Program tract. These are available from Stewardship-Promotion Department, Middletown, Kentucky. Sing hymns with a mission or ministry theme. Special music should have a mission message. Pray for specific people and causes supported through the Cooperative Program. Preach on the subject "Committed to World Missions." Tell how your church is committed to carrying the gospel of Christ around the world through the Cooperative

By Jesse Stricker
Director, KBC Stewardship Promotion

Program. Tell how much your church could do and how much more Southern Baptists could do if all members were tithers. Challenge the members to commit themselves to personal sacrificial giving. Ask a member who has committed himself to Christian service to give a brief testimony.

Cooperative Program Tour — During the afternoon have certain classes and/or departments that have been enlisted in advance prepare displays illustrating the work of the Cooperative Program. Exhibits could include such emphases as foreign, home and state missions, Baptist colleges and seminaries, hospitals, children's homes, Southern Baptist Convention commissions, etc. Displays can be set up in the various Sunday School departments or in areas around the fellowship hall if such facilities are available. Invite all members to come an hour and a half before Church Training to visit the tour area. Have a person responsible to be in each area to explain the display. End the tour with a light meal of sandwiches and soft drinks in an atmosphere of relaxed fellowship.

Church Training — Discuss the information that was presented in the tour and what the church can do to have a more vital part in mission outreach. Study the past giving record of your church. Discuss the current state and Southern Baptist Convention Cooperative Program budget. List mission activities in which the church can engage.

Evening Worship — Ask the men or the women's missionary organization to be responsible for the evening worship period. (The Brotherhood Commission has prepared special materials to be used during this service.) They can tell of present mission activities, proposed plans and, in addition, select one Cooperative Program supported cause and present detailed information about it. If the filmstrip Committed to What? has not been shown, you may want to use it. It is available free of charge from Stewardship-Promotion Department, Middletown, Kentucky.

Walker Retires As Annuity Department Director

On Friday, March 31, A. W. Walker will conclude seven years, eight months service as director of the annuity department of the Kentucky Baptist Convention. He reached the mandatory retirement age of 65 on March 18.

During the years as a state worker he has criss-crossed Kentucky countless times, putting more than 250,000 miles on the three cars he has worn out during these seven plus years.

Pastors of churches large and small have sat with Walker while he explained the benefits offered through the SBC sponsored retirement and insurance programs. His effectiveness in this work is attested to by the 747 new policies he has written. These efforts have resulted in Kentucky being consistently in third place for new policies even though the state ranks seventh in number of churches among SBC states.

Walker came to the state office from a 21-year pastorate at Carlisle Avenue Baptist Church in Louisville. Prior to that he served as pastor of Shively Baptist Church, Louisville, for nine years.

Among his many offices, the retiring annuity worker was chairman of the board of trustees of Kentucky Southern College and has served on the board of Georgetown College. He has also served on the board of Western Recorder and served four terms on the state Executive Board.

On three different occasions he has been moderator and chairman of the executive board of Long Run Association. He also served two terms as president of the Louisville Pastors' Conference.

Walker was on the Radio and TV Commission as Kentucky's representative for two terms and served as a member of the 10-man steering committee for the 1956 Billy Graham Crusade in Louisville. In 1960 he was chairman of the committee that brought Harold Sanders to Kentucky as executive secretary of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

A native of Henderson County, Walker is a graduate of Georgetown College and Southern Seminary. In 1957, Campbellsville College awarded him an honorary doctor of divinity degree. Other honors include a Kentucky Colonelcy for outstanding community service and a distinguished service award in 1964 from the Louisville YMCA.

During this time the retiring director was pastor of a church with a 1,200 Sunday School attendance and an annual budget of $160,000. During those years, about 4,400 people joined Carlisle Avenue Baptist Church and 1,604 persons were baptized. But the highlight of his ministry, according to Walker, was to see God call about 45 young people into special Christian service during his ministry.

Walker is married to the former Mary Lee Carter of Owensboro. The couple has two children, C. Keith Walker of Louisville and Mrs. Marilyn Ruth Reed of New York City.

On April 1, Walker will begin new duties as part-time interim associational missionary for Sulphur Fork Baptist Association.

Harold Sanders, right, presents a book of letters to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walker at a staff sponsored luncheon honoring the retiring annuity department worker.

CP the Cooperative Program and ...

The Annuity Board

By R. Alton Reed,
Retired President

As a Baptist, you probably have read many words concerning the Cooperative Program and how the funds keep the ministries of most agencies operating. Without the gifts you give in tithes and offerings through your church, most agencies could not exist and many causes would die.

One cause you support through the Cooperative Program provides a little food, housing and other vital necessities to a group of worthwhile people. This work is called Relief and the money from the Cooperative Program is given to the Annuity Board to distribute. None of it is spent on administration, salaries or any other purpose. The entire amount the Board will receive in 1972 is earmarked for aged ministers or widows and children of preachers. They all served the Lord faithfully.

Deciding who needs help is the heavy burden of the Relief Committee made up of elected trustees. For a moment suppose you are a trustee who has to decide on several requests, both of which are heart-breaking.

The first one comes from an aged minister who wrote, ". . . I'm now past 74 and still grateful the Lord can use me a little yet. But I can't take it like I once did. I have no income and no retirement. I hate to beg, but any help will be greatly appreciated . . . ."

Another letter came from a pastor who writes in behalf of an aged widow of a minister. He said, ". . . her husband died at 84. He had been on relief because he had no annuity. Can the Board continue to give a little help to this widow? This poor woman is very worthy of it, as she and her husband toiled faithfully in small mountain churches . . . ."

As a committee, you decide if help can be given. You pray and agonize and you count pennies to make sure you don't spend more than your fellow Baptists were able to give for relief. After you decide you utter one more prayer. This prayer is of thanksgiving for the churches who are making provision for the retirement, death or disability of their pastors through the Protection Program. These churches, by doing this, say to their pastors, "We want you to live, not in want and dependency on others, but with the honor and dignity you so richly deserve. We never want you to have to beg for relief when you are too old to serve in the ministry."

If all churches provided such protection, no money would be needed from Baptists through the Cooperative Program for relief.

Six Months – the half-way mark

Churches' Giving Report

The Business Office has shared the individual churches' giving record to the Cooperative Program and other designated mission gifts for the first six months of the convention year ending February 25, 1972. It is very encouraging. We are $46,558.67 over last year in receipts from the churches for the Cooperative (mission) Program. This represents a 2.4% increase over the same six months last year. We thank God for you and your church's concern for the spread of the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ as shown by your Cooperative Program gifts. Let us press on to go over the top in our total goal for the year ending August 31.

In these first six months (September 1, 1971 through February 25, 1972), the churches combined to give $1,983,055.63 through the Cooperative Program. Our goal for six months is $2,100,000. We are therefore $116,944.37 under the six months' goal. This is an improvement over the first six months last year.

Let each church check its giving record below. They are listed by associations. Plan and pray now that your church will (1) not only complete any pledge it made by August 31, (2) but also determine to give above that pledge and to put a larger item in their new budget for next year.

Again, on behalf of all Baptist mission efforts and lost billions of people for whom He died, thank you for your mission gifts.

Harold G. Sanders

—Harold G. Sanders
Executive Secretary-treasurer

Uniform Sunday School Lessons Celebrate Centennial Year

One hundred years ago, on April 18, 1872, the widely popular plan of Sunday School lessons known as the Uniform Series had its birth. The organization of a committee to plan such lessons was accomplished in Indianapolis, Indiana, in connection with the meeting of the Fifth National Sunday School Convention.

"This was a highly significant forward step in the history of the Sunday School movement," says Howard P. Colson, editorial secretary of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board. "The 1872 action followed years of confusion in Sunday School lesson publishing."

The Uniform Lesson system came into being and was popularized mainly through the influence of two men — a young Methodist preacher, John H. Vincent, and a Baptist lay Sunday School superintendent, B. F. Jacobs, both of Chicago.

About 50 percent of Southern Baptist churches now use Uniform lessons. The series is currently known to Southern Baptists as the Convention Uniform Series. These Sunday School Board lessons are written only by Southern Baptist writers, even though the selection of Bible passages and topics is done by the interdenominational committee, explained Colson in commenting on the plan.

During the century of Uniform Lesson history, Southern Baptists have exerted a strong influence on the committee, said Colson.

"In 1878, John A. Broadus, professor at Southern Seminary in Louisville, was elected to the group and in time became probably its most powerful member. Upon the death of Broadus in 1895, John R. Sampey, also professor at Southern Seminary, was chosen to succeed him. He served on the committee for almost half a century and was chairman for 27 years. Clifton J. Allen, now retired editorial secretary of the Sunday School Board, served on the committee 27 years and was its chairman from 1960 to 1967. During more than one-third of its existence, the group has had a Southern Baptist chairman," Colson said.

Eight members of the staff of the Sunday School Board are presently members of the committee on Uniform Series. In addition to Colson, they are Ernest Hollaway, supervisor of the adult section of the Sunday School department; Wilbur Lamm, editor of The Adult Teacher; John Warren Steen, editor of Sunday School Adults and Sunday School Senior Adults; James Fitch, supervisor of the young adult section of the Sunday School department; Franklin Farmer, supervisor of the youth section of the Sunday School department; Johnnie Godwin, editor of The Youth Teacher and member quarterlies; and Morton Rose, assistant to the director, church services and materials division.

LIFE AND WORK SERIES

The Will Of The Risen Lord

Acts 1:1-11

Luke, a scholarly physician, and the faithful friend and beloved companion of Paul, was the author of the Book of Acts. The "former treatise" was the Gospel which bears his name. Who Theophilus was is not known. We may infer the probability that he was a friend of Luke, a man of great social distinction and a Christian of wide influence. The etymology of his name indicates that he was a friend and lover of God.

After the resurrection of Christ, He was both seen and heard by His disciples. On 10 reported occasions He presented Himself — five times on the day of His resurrection and five times during the subsequent 39 days. His appearance to, talking and eating with the disciples were proof of His resurrection which could not be gainsayed.

Promise of Holy Spirit

It was well that Christ remained with His disciples for 40 days after the resurrection. That period was long enough to settle their doubts, stabilize their opinions and give them courage.

Christ commanded the disciples to tarry in Jerusalem and await the arrival of the Holy Spirit. He was unwilling for the believers to undertake the task of worldwide evangelization until they were endued with power from on high. Christ assured them that they would be baptized with the Holy Spirit immediately. Only after being endued with the power of the Holy Spirit would they be qualified for the task which had been assigned to them. We, too, need the enduement of the Holy Spirit to enable us to witness for Christ where we are.

Commission of Christ

Because the disciples were still expecting Christ to bring national restoration and political independence to Israel, just before He ascended they asked Him if He would restore the kingdom immediately. He merely replied that was not the consideration of present or paramount importance. It was not their privilege to "know the times or the seasons," as those things were entirely with God. Christ stressed the fact that they were not to be absorbed in counting days but in witnessing for Him. Instead of peering into the future, they were expected to be busy witnessing for Him by their words, ways, works and warfare. For this work the believers needed a power beyond any provided by nature or any which they might have acquired through their fellowship with the Lord as He had wrought and taught in their midst.

The purpose of the coming of the Holy Spirit upon the disciples was clearly and definitely stated: "Ye shall be witnesses unto me." A witness is one who has seen, heard, experienced or known something and who is willing to tell what he knows. Christian witnessing is of two kinds — that of the lips and that of the life. The life speaks even when the lips are silent.

Witnessing to Christ's power to save is a task which is incumbent upon all Christians. This is our greatest task and our highest honor. No greater work than this can occupy the thought, the time, the strength or the substance of human beings. The sphere in which we are to witness is unlimited. Our supreme business is to preach the gospel of Christ to every person.

Ascension of Christ

It must have been a thrilling and awe-inspiring sight for the disciples as they beheld the Lord Jesus, against the law of gravity, gradually ascending until He was completely enveloped in a cloud and disappeared from their sight. What sober and deep thoughts must have occupied their minds as He left them! What took place after Christ disappeared from human vision, it did not please the Lord to reveal.

Return of Christ

As the awe-stricken disciples gazed into heaven, two messengers stood by them and informed them that it was not the Lord's will for them to remain there gazing. They were reminded that they had a task to perform and should get busy at it without delay. These heavenly messengers comforted the disciples with the blessed assurance that Christ would return. They said: "This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." His coming will be as literal as was His departure. As to the time of His return we do not know but, according to God's Word, He will come personally, visibly and gloriously.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Church Proclaims The Risen Lord

I Corinthians 15:3-19

Obviously there were those at Corinth who denied the glorious doctrine of the bodily resurrection of the dead. Because of their opposition to this great doctrine, this masterful treatise on the resurrection was recorded in this chapter. It was intended to establish the faith of all believers in Christ who might be subjected to any false teaching on this subject, so its truths are of vital importance.

Proclamation of Gospel

The gospel which Paul preached to the Corinthians was not conceived in his own mind but he had received it by revelation from the Lord. It was also connected very closely with the Old Testament. The gospel is the announcement of the good news that God has provided righteousness for unrighteous men. It is the good news of salvation which is offered freely in Christ.

There were three facts in the gospel which Paul preached to the saving of those who believed on Christ.

1. Christ's Death. Christ died on the cross to atone for our sins and to provide a way whereby we might be forgiven. By His death every believer in Him is set free from the penalty of his sin and reconciled to God. The vicarious death of Christ had been foretold in many of the Old Testament scriptures, like Isaiah 53, and Paul here referred to the fulfillment of those prophecies.

2. Christ's Burial. He was buried in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea. His burial showed the reality of His death and the fulness with which He shared human experience.

3. Christ's Resurrection. Early on Sunday morning Christ arose from the dead, laid aside His grave clothes and walked out of the tomb. This living Saviour was triumphant over death and the grave. The empty tomb was a great testimony to the reality of His resurrection. Not only was He raised from the dead, but He is still alive. Through His resurrection we have received the blessed assurance that the grave is not our goal.

These three events — Christ's death, burial and resurrection — constitute the outstanding truths of the glorious gospel which Paul preached to the Corinthians. These great facts should increase our faith in Christ, our love for Him and our devotion to Him.

Proofs of Christ's Resurrection

In verses 5-11 Paul called attention to certain eyewitnesses of the risen Lord. He stated that Christ was seen by Cephas or Peter, and then by the apostles. Knowing that there were those who would not accept that as sufficient proof of Christ's resurrection, Paul went on to mention that more than 500 brethren had seen Him at one time and that the greater number of them were still alive. Such a large number could not be deceived, neither would they concoct a falsehood. Then the Lord was seen by James, His half-brother. He was also seen by all the apostles and finally by Paul himself. So, the truth of the appearance of our Lord does not rest upon isolated testimony.

There are many factors and influences which enter into making a man what he is, such as heredity, environment, training, personal choices, etc. But, above them all is the grace of God. Salvation and the glorious privilege of Christian service are due to God's infinite grace through the person and work of the risen Christ. Paul magnified the grace of God by showing what it had accomplished in his own life. The hope of our world lies in the outflowing of God's marvelous grace, liberating, cleansing, remaking and illuminating those who are in bondage to sin. Grace is not a mere sentiment but it is a force, power and energy. It is active and energizing. Without grace we would never have amounted to anything. Grace transformed us from lost sinners into children of God and from servants of Satan into faithful and obedient servants of Christ.

Importance of Resurrection

The worst assumption imaginable is the one expressed in verse 14, "if Christ be not risen." If Christ had not arisen, He would still be dead, all the preaching through these 19 centuries would have been "vain" because it would have been the dissemination of a falsehood, all faith in Christ would have been exercised in vain and would have been worthless because it would have been rooted in a delusion, the faith of all living Christians would be resting on what never happened, all believers in Him would be unsaved or still in their sins, the righteous would have perished and the Christian life would be a misery. But, thank God, due to the fact that Christ did arise, our horizon shines with the light of eternal hope.

Isaiah: Prophecies, Promises, Warnings by W. E. Vine; Zondervan Publishing House, copyright 1971.

The designer of this volume utilizes the Old and New Testaments to make clear the teachings of the book of Isaiah. His was a dual purpose in arranging this publication: to endeavor to reveal the Scriptures and to produce upon the lives of believers the useful outgrowth of the warnings, promises and prophecies of Isaiah.

Understanding Speaking In Tongues by Watson E. Mills; Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, copyright 1972.

Owing to recent developments in many denominations in experiencing a charismatic revival, the author insists that a clarification be made between the make-up of glossolalia and the object of glossolalia. In this book he examines the origin of glossolalia and the history of glossolalia through ecstaticism in the Old Testament and intertestament, mysticism periods in Greece and Rome, and passages from the New Testament. He concludes that Christendom is obligated to accept both the non-participant and the participant in equal love.

Music Making With Older Children by Mabel Warkentin Sample; Convention Press, copyright 1972.

This study book is the curriculum and the methods of teaching that curriculum for course 6706 in the Church Music program of the new SBC Church Study Course. It is designed as help for fourth, fifth and sixth grade students to grow musically and spiritually.

Dare To Discipline by James Dobson; Tyndale House Publishers, copyright 1970.

In this book a psychologist offers advice to parents and teachers in plainly written discussion of the ways to maintain order, develop responsibility and build character. He asserts that love, in the absence of instruction, is not enough and discipline is not merely punishment alone; that a proper combination of love and discipline result in respectable and responsible children.

Learning Is For Life by Raymond M. Rigdon; Broadman Press, copyright 1971.

This author challenges adults to continue to acquire knowledge, to solve problems and to develop skills throughout their lifetimes. He attempts to convince today's adult that to continue to make life the classroom and normal opportunities and frustrations of life the subject matter is the way to combat frustration, personal failure and oblivion.

How To Follow Jesus by Herschel H. Hobbs; Broadman Press, copyright 1971.

The author attempts to picture the writer of the book of Hebrews as one who saw Christian believers as the true Israel of God. Each book chapter parallels a chapter in Hebrews.

The Jesus Kids by Roger C. Palms; Judson Press, copyright 1971.

The author traveled across the country to talk to those in the Jesus movement — their parents, pastors, policemen, etc. — and this book is a report on the youth movement that has startled people across the nation.

The Top Ten Of Robert G. Lee by Robert G. Lee; Baker Book House, copyright 1971.

This book is a compilation of sermons chosen by the author and the publisher as the ten most outstanding from Lee's file of thousands of sermons.

How Can I Grow As A Christian? by A. Stuart Arnold; Broadman Press, copyright 1971.

This book was written to challenge today's Christians to grow through Bible study, prayer, worship and personal evangelism. It offers encouragement to individuals as they make full use of the means of grace and growth in endeavoring to gain the fullest joy in service and to be effective in their Christlike service.

Simple Sermons On Life And Living by W. Herschel Ford; Zondervan Publishing House, copyright 1971.

In this 32nd volume of "Simple Sermons," the author shares useful, spiritual wisdom gained from a lifetime of ministering to Christ's disciples of this age and sharing the Gospel with people from all walks of life and all economic classes. These sermons are on varied topics but each present a view of life from God's benefice.

The Upward Look by Will H. Smith; Exposition Press, copyright 1970.

This book consists of six essays or "chants" written to cast new light on such old problems as: how to pray, spirit of faith versus spirit of knowledge (conflict between science and religion), difficulties, plus others.

3 Goliaths

But the issue at stake belongs to Christian doctrine — which Jaroslav Pelikan has recently defined as "what the church of Jesus Christ believes, teaches, and confesses on the basis of the word of God" (The Emergence of the Catholic Tradition, University of Chicago Press, page 1). Does it believe, teach, and confess that sufficient revelation-salvation is operative through the more advanced non-Christian religions apart from Jesus Christ? If so, the present believing, teaching, and confessing is at odds with the prevalent doctrinal strand in Christian history.

The second consideration is contemporary missions. If embraced, how would the Toynbee-Tillich-Macquarrie views be related to Christian world missions? Would they serve to reduce the personnel and support for Christian missionary work now being conducted among Jews and Muslims? Or, among Buddhists and Hindus? Would they serve to slacken interest in and commitment to Christian missionary advance in the latter twentieth century? Would they accelerate the process of substitution of dialogue for conversion as the clue to the relation of Christian to non-Christians? Would they tend to weaken Christian evangelization when world population is exploding, when Islam and Buddhism continue to make converts, and when secular ideologies function as religions and unashamedly make converts?

The writer assumes the likelihood of affirmative answers, though the advocates of the Toynbee-Tillich-Macquarrie views must be responsible for offering evidence and supplying their own answers. The church of Jesus Christ needs answers, adequate answers, before it should embrace these views as belonging to that which it "believes, teaches, and confesses on the basis of the word of God."

WMU Annual Meeting Expected To Draw 2,000, Highlights Set

About 2,000 participants are expected for the annual meeting of Kentucky Woman's Missionary Union when the group convenes at the Florence Baptist Church, April 6 at 7:30 p.m.

In making this estimate, state executive secretary Miss Kathryn Jasper said, "While we do not expect 2,000 persons at any one session, we will have that many different persons during our three day meeting."

Preparing the Florence area for this invasion of Baptist women is the responsibility of Mrs. Carl Cummins, director of the WMU in the host church. Together with her local committee, Mrs. Cummins has secured rooms in homes for those ladies who do not wish to stay in area motels. She has also arranged for a mobile canteen to bring lunches to the church so the participants will not have to leave church property for lunch. Special arrangements have also been made for the state WMU executive board which will hold its meeting Thursday afternoon.

Among the highlights of the meeting will be a recognition service for the mothers of all missionaries, home and foreign. "We often recognize our missionaries," explained Miss Jasper, "but this time we want to recognize the mothers who helped mold the lives of these special servants."

In order to properly plan the recognition service, Miss Jasper asked that all mothers of missionaries notify her office of their intention to attend the Friday morning session.

Among the business items awaiting the ladies' attention is a proposed by-law change. In June of 1971, the group's executive board approved the addition of the following sentence to Article 7 of the by-laws: "If the elected member cannot serve she may name as alternate one of the members of that region presently serving on the Executive Board." WMU by-laws require that the proposed amendment be printed in Western Recorder prior to the annual meeting. The matter will be considered in the Saturday morning session.

Virginia Chaplain Becomes Third Woman Ordained To Ministry In SBC

Miss Marjorie Lee Bailey, chaplain at the State Industrial Farm for Women and Pinecrest Center in Richmond, Virginia, for the past six years, has been ordained to the gospel ministry by Bainbridge Street Baptist Church.

She is the first woman to be ordained by a church affiliated with the Baptist General Association of Virginia and apparently the third woman ordained to the ministry by a church in the Southern Baptist Convention.

Historical records indicate the first woman ordained to the ministry by a Southern Baptist church was Miss Addie Davis, ordained in 1964 by Watts Street Baptist Church in Durham, North Carolina, and promptly called as pastor of an American Baptist church, First Baptist Church of Readsboro, Vermont.

In October of 1971, Kathwood Baptist Church of Columbia, South Carolina, ordained Miss Shirley Carter, then chaplain at the South Carolina State (mental) Hospital, who in January of this year became a religious and family counselor at the South Carolina prison for women in Columbia.

Both Miss Bailey and Miss Carter are chaplains at the state prison for women in Virginia and South Carolina respectively.

A native of Abingdon, Virginia, Miss Bailey has been a resident of Richmond since she was two years of age. For the past six years she has been chaplain at the State Industrial Farm for Women and Pinecrest Center in Richmond.

Previously, she was director of the South Richmond Baptist Center for 15 years. She recently completed a year of clinical pastoral education at the Medical College of Virginia and is a graduate of Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Mississippi. She has also done graduate work at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas.

Jere Allen, pastor of Bainbridge Street Baptist Church, presided over the ordination service. He said the 23 ministers who constituted the presbytery called to examine the candidate for ordination were unanimous in their recommendation that she be ordained. Both the deacons and the congregation of Bainbridge Street Church endorsed the recommendation without a dissenting vote. (BP)

Leavenworth Prisoner Requests Permission To Start SBC Church

A prisoner in the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kansas, has filed a petition in the U.S. District Court requesting permission to organize a Southern Baptist church or mission within prison walls.

Berl Estes McDonald, the prisoner, claimed in the petition that his "civil and constitutional rights" to his "personal freedom of religion" are being denied by the penitentiary's religious program which he described as "stereotyped and sterile and without any emotional or spiritual worth whatsoever."

The petition was critical of the "interfaith" religious program at the penitentiary, charging that it consists only of "a printed prayer or two," some "sedentary church music, a printed reading from a dittoed program and a theological lecture," by the prison chaplain.

"The beliefs and practices of Baptists are not recognized in the program at Leavenworth although Christian Scientists, Mormons, Muslims, Moslems and other subordinate denominations are allowed to conduct special programs and services at various times," the petition said.

McDonald further claimed that Southern Baptists are confined to "lives of religious aridness and emotional and spiritual despair."

The petition requested permission for prisoners to "organize and maintain their own congregational church within the confines of the United States penitentiary."

It also requested that pastoral duties be performed by approved visiting Southern Baptist ministers, as well as by "a layman's committee and board of deacons composed of the prisoners who are members of the congregation."

It further requested authority to hold semi-annual revival services conducted by visiting evangelists. (BP)
