People And Places

Billy Jack Canupp, director of publicity at Cumberland College, has been chosen to appear in the 1974 edition of Personalities of the South. He is a 1970 graduate of the college and has been employed by the school since July 1971.

John R. Claypool, former pastor of Crescent Hill Baptist Church in Louisville, presented Southern Seminary's Lectures on Preaching March 5-8 at the seminary. He is currently pastor of Broadway Baptist Church in Fort Worth, Texas.

E. Thomas Cleveland, director of financial aids and dean of admissions at Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama, presided at the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators in Atlanta, Georgia. Cleveland was a former school teacher in Jefferson County and holds the B.D. degree from Southern Seminary. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cleveland of St. Matthews. His home church is St. Matthews Baptist in Louisville.

Cleveland

Russell Heights Baptist Church, of the Russell Creek Association, held ordination services for two deacons recently. They were Kenny Coffey and Kirley Coomer.

Aubrey Dix, an unusually outstanding layman who died in Campbellsville in January, was the subject of a tribute written by Campbellsville pastor Chester Badgett. Dix, along with his wife and brothers, gave long years of faithful service to the Campbellsville Baptist Church and its missions. He was ordained a deacon by the Campbellsville congregation in the '50's and with the assistance of his brothers played a major part in building many of the churches and missions in Taylor County. Some of these missions which are now churches are Lowell Avenue Baptist in Campbellsville; Raikes Hill, on the Taylor County and Casey County line; and Yuma Baptist Mission. His work at Yuma was terminated due to failing health but he maintained intense interest in Campbellsville Baptist Church and its ministry until his death. Pastor Badgett said, "the life of Aubrey Dix was an inspiration to all of us and the vision which he left us with will stimulate us in strengthening the Lord's work."

Walter D. Hulette, pastor of the Bullittsburg Baptist Church, reports the death of Edward A. Delph, one of the outstanding members of the Bullittsburg Church. He served as a deacon and a trustee of the church as well as being on many of the church committees. He witnessed for the Lord everywhere he went and even while he was seriously ill in the hospital, according to Pastor Hulette.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Jester, retired missionaries, are to return to Ogbomosho. He has been asked by the Foreign Mission Board to return to teach Old Testament in the Nigerian Baptist Seminary for the spring semester. They are to return to the states in June. On their return trip they will visit Baptist work in East Africa and Ethiopia.

Honest With God

Psalm 77:1

Have you ever dared to really be honest with somebody — let that person know the real you — and still experience acceptance and love? How fantastic! What freedom!

We can talk a lot about God accepting and loving us "just as we are," but until we dare to be honest with Him, we'll never know that He really does accept us and love us like we are.

Recently a young adult shared her deep frustrations about not being aware of God's presence in her life. As she talked about her searching and her doubts, she became most honest with herself, with a friend, and with God. It was then that she was receptive to the good news, "God loves you." With this assurance came new beginnings in her communication with Him.

In Job's garbage dump experience with God, he had his moments of honesty. "Therefore I will not restrain my mouth; I will speak in the anguish of my spirit." (Job 7:11) Job asked the "whys" of life. "God, why this? Why that?" Amidst these questions, these expressions of what he was really feeling, reconciliation happened. He knew again of God's love.

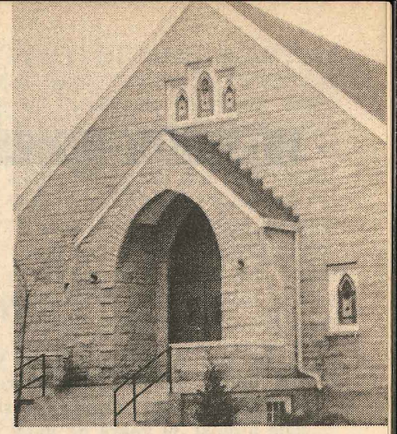

In Jonah's "belly of the fish experience," when he called to God out of his distress (Jonah 2:2), he became aware of God's love and concern for him. God spoke to Jonah again about the job He had for him.

Jesus' encounter at the well with the woman of Samaria was one of helping her to become honest with herself and with God. Out of this experience she and many others came to a personal encounter with God.

If we could only learn that we really don't need to play games with God. He accepts, loves, and ministers to us as we are. With the Psalmist we can say, "I cried unto God . . . and he gave ear unto me." (Psalm 77:1) When we learn to live out of this freedom, He can use us to share this good news with others.

TONGUES:

A Challenge To The Churches?

By Malcolm Tolbert
New Orleans Baptist
Theological Seminary

The modern so-called charismatic movement has created a new challenge for our churches. A few years ago the matter was much simpler. If a person spoke in tongues, he joined a pentecostal church. That was a neat solution to the problem for the non-pentecostal churches.

But today the situation is different. Since 1960 we have seen the rapid spread of the charismatic or neo-pentecostal movement. Now when people have the experience of tongues-speaking, they no longer feel the need to leave their church. Indeed, the opposite is often true. They have a commitment to stay in their church and help it become more "spiritual." This has led to many questions and problems. At the very least the pentecostals and non-pentecostals face the question of how they are to relate to each other in the same church. At the worst, the church faces the question of how it is going to come to grips with a militant movement that is attempting to change its character.

Another problem arises from the fact that the non-tongues speaking people frequently become very insecure. Am I really missing out on a deeper dimension of the Christian life? What does the Bible really teach? What is a genuine spiritual life? These and kindred questions are raised more than ever in the church.

What I shall attempt to do is to describe how I as one Christian approach the problem of the new pentecostalism. There are, it seems to me, three basic questions which need to be considered. First, what is to be my attitude toward tongues-speaking Christians? Second, what does the Bible teach about this matter? Third, what must the church do in face of the divisiveness often connected with the movement?

With regard to my attitude toward the charismatics, I believe that I should accept them as brothers. If a person tells me that he has had an experience with God in which he began to say things that he does not understand, I am willing to listen. If he says that as a result of this experience, he is happier, has more assurance, and God is more real to him, then I can only say that I am glad for this.

I do not believe that people need to speak in tongues to be happy, assured, and have a sense of God's presence. But if a Christian says these benefits have come to him as a result of such an experience, I am not disposed to argue with him. People have all kinds of experiences. And each person has the privilege of witnessing to his own. I am not upset, threatened, or turned off when a tongues-speaker tells me of his experience.

However, when any person begins to interpret the Bible in the light of his experience, I must be on guard. The gospel is neither my experience nor some other person's. It is the proclamation of God's mighty redemptive act in Jesus Christ.

Many people have a distorted approach to the Bible because they want to use it not only to justify their experience (which is not necessary) but also to prove that everyone else has to have the same kind. This is one of our common mistakes. We tend to universalize our experiences.

The Bible teaches that the Spirit of God comes into the life at conversion. The Bible teaches that faith and love are the universal evidences of his presence. The Bible teaches that you cannot separate your experiences with Jesus and the full presence of the Holy Spirit into your life as some charismatics do. The Bible teaches that speaking in tongues is a lesser gift, not essential to the life of the church. The Bible teaches that the genuine characteristics of a spiritual person are faith and love. These are the universal expression of the Spirit's power. The Bible teaches that spiritual gifts are given to persons according to the will of God and for the good of the church. No one spiritual gift will be possessed by all members of the church. The Bible also teaches that tongues-speaking is not to be allowed to divide or demoralize the church. (For interpretation of specific texts see Speaking in Tongues by Humphreys and Tolbert, Insight Press, Box 625, Gentilly Boulevard, New Orleans, Louisiana 70126.)

The third important consideration in our approach to the tongues movement is the welfare and unity of the church. Tongues-speaking in and of itself does not produce divisions in the church. Divisions arise when we cannot accept people with experiences that differ from ours. But most of the disunity has been caused when tongues-speakers have actively tried to promote the experience for other members of the church.

The fact that a person has spoken in tongues should not cause me to be unwilling to accept him as a brother. On the other hand, a non-tongues-speaking church cannot allow an active campaign on the part of the charismatics without causing a split in the church.

The church must take firm and immediate steps to stop any such campaign. When the leadership of the church is not involved in the movement, this presents no great difficulty. However, when the leadership, especially the pastor, becomes actively engaged in promoting tongues-speaking, the church has difficulty in dealing with it. Many churches across the country have been badly split by the movement. In almost every one of these, the pastor became a tongues-speaker after he assumed the pastorate of the church.

When the church discerns that her pastor is actively seeking to lead others to speak in tongues, the sooner she acts the better. In any case, the church is going to suffer. But if the church through her leaders can induce such a pastor to resign immediately, the damage will be less. ■

DALEY OBSERVATIONS

Honor To Whom Honor Is Due

No man in the nearly 200 years of Kentucky Baptist history has come nearer rendering more perfectly his mission and ministry than H. L. (Bert) Dobbs. The almost 39 years he gave leadership to Kentucky Baptists in the ministry of healing is likely unmatched among Baptists anywhere.

When he agreed to become administrator of the Kentucky Baptist Hospital in 1935, it appeared he was taking over a sinking ship. He not only made Kentucky Baptist Hospital an excellent medical and healing institution but has led in building outstanding Baptist hospitals in Lexington and Paducah and initiated the plans for Kentucky Baptist Hospital, East, now under construction in the St. Matthews area of Louisville. The Kentucky Baptist Hospital School of Nursing is also a monument to his achievements.

Dobbs is not an overwhelming nor spectacular personality who insists on his way without respecting the views of others and explaining every step to the Kentucky Baptist Convention elected directors. On the other hand he has been right so many times it has been hard to disagree with him. He moved carefully, cautiously but with determination toward goals which appeared impossible to many fellow Kentucky Baptists.

His relationship with the Kentucky Baptist Convention through the years has been exemplary. The Baptist hospital ministry in Kentucky has not received the percentage of Cooperative Program funds in recent years which it once received. Dobbs has accepted with appreciation whatever was allotted by the Convention and has reached far and wide for contributions from persons and foundations interested in maintaining the private sector of healing service in America.

Dobbs is regarded as a conservative in administration yet he has been the initiator of many progressive steps in medical services in Kentucky and elsewhere. He was one of the founders of Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance plans in Kentucky and says he is as proud of this as any of his accomplishments.

He is well known for his choice and training of young hospital administrators. All those presently serving as vice presidents (administrators) of Kentucky Baptist hospitals including his successor, Homer Coggins, are trainees of Dobbs and are known affectionately as "Bert's Boys."

The patient's welfare has always come first with Dobbs and thousands of former patients attest to this. He is not a tired old man planning to rest the rest of his life. He made this plain in response to his admirers who were saying farewell. He returned from a leave of absence in Florida for the occasion. He was sporting a well groomed mustache and a sunburned face envied by many of his admirers. Mrs. Dobbs was the same vivacious self known by her friends.

Don't be surprised if a future news release doesn't report Dobbs' involvement in some phase of direct or indirect hospital ministry. In the meantime he can decide from now on whether to be known as president, vice president, trustee, chairman, delegate, administrator, director, or president-emeritus. To his friends he will always want to be known as "Bert."

Help To Whom Help Is Overdue

The plight of the Norbert L. Roberts family, 4208 Foreman Lane, Apt. 2, Louisville, Kentucky 40219, was described March 5 on a WHAS television news program. The next day when this unfortunate family was the subject of conversation among our office workers it was learned that Mr. Roberts works at Tube Turns and is a fellow employee of the husband of one of our bookkeepers, Mrs. Florence Thornton.

The story in short is this. Mrs. Roberts, 43 years old, has been afflicted for 13 years with a very rare malady known as Huntington's disease. It is a disease of the nerves and causes a gradual deterioration of all bodily functions. Mrs. Roberts has to have nursing care and is now in the Meadows Nursing Home, 9701 Whipps Mill Road, Louisville.

Mr. Roberts works an eight hour shift and tries to care for a 16 year old daughter. The monthly cost for nursing care of Mrs. Roberts is $248 and the apartment rent is $130 a month. The take home pay of Mr. Roberts is a little over $400 a month which means about $60 is left for all other expenses for a month.

In the 13 years of Mrs. Roberts' illness the family has long ago lost the home they were paying for, any savings they had and now are heavily in debt. The fellow employees of Mr. Roberts have helped him with his expenses as well as the company but after 13 years all resources are about exhausted. Mr. Roberts tells me the most pressing creditor is the former nursing home where Mrs. Roberts was a patient. The overdue bill there is $2,307 and Mr. Roberts is trying to pay $20 a month on this debt.

The unusual part of the story is that because Mr. Roberts is employed at this rate of salary the family does not qualify for any aid from city, county, state or federal welfare programs. If Mr. Roberts became unemployed or divorced his wife, welfare payments might be available.

Now for a kind of appeal seldom made by this Western Recorder editor to churches and individuals. Most Baptist churches have benevolence funds and most Western Recorder readers could spare a dollar or five dollars a month. Miss Anna Mae Banks, an employee of the company where Mr. Roberts is employed, has served as a coordinator for relief funds to the Roberts family. She has agreed to see that any gifts for the Roberts family as a result of this appeal be personally delivered to them and that she will report to me periodically so that I can report to our readers what response has come from this appeal.

Checks should be made to the Roberts Relief Fund and sent in care of Miss Anna Mae Banks, Chemetron Tube Turns, P.O. Box 987, Louisville, Kentucky 40201. An initial gift could help the Roberts with overdue debts but a small monthly gift would seem to be more helpful in the long haul ahead for this family.

I know this kind of an appeal has all kinds of objections. To begin with this is not an assignment by the Kentucky Baptist Convention to the Western Recorder though I know nothing to prohibit it. I know it would be setting a precedent which could not be continued. I also know every reader and church have valid benevolent needs within their own community.

Maybe I am touched because one of our Western Recorder workers died recently after an extended bout with cancer. I remember when all his sick pay was exhausted his fellow workers began a weekly love gift for the medicine and basic necessities.

I also know what it is to have a hospital bill totaling over $2,300 and a doctor's bill a little short of $1,000. Were it not for an excellent health insurance plan provided by the Western Recorder and the consideration of the Kentucky Baptist Hospital, my family would be in a plight similar to the Roberts family.

All I can promise is this. I will respect anyone's opinion disagreeing with this kind of an appeal. But I will also guarantee that any gifts sent will be given directly to the Roberts family and that a report of these gifts will be made in the Western Recorder.

BAPTIST FORUM

WE'RE ALL REAL

Dear Editor:

I share the concern of my good brother, LaVerne Butler, on how to handle the minorities among us, but I don't know of any constitutional way to confine the word "real" to his middle group. Rather, I think we'd have to admit we're all "real," and that there is a common denominator that marks us all, and that the sooner we realize it the better. All the Southern Baptists I know from all three camps believe that:

1. Jesus is the only Lord and Savior.
2. Repenting faith in Jesus Christ brings direct access to divine grace.
3. Baptism is profession (not salvation nor dedication of another).
4. The individual is free and the majority interpretation of God's will rules in the church.

So far as I'm concerned, they're all real Southern Baptists. No one forces the above beliefs on them, but as a matter of fact they have all voluntarily come to those beliefs. To me these are the real fundamentals, and I rejoice in my current sense of unanimity with all Southern Baptists! For years I have been advocating in this paper and elsewhere the ascertaining and declaring of our common faith. Surely the time has come to do it, not by a constitutional change, but by occasionally passing a simple resolution of our current sense of unanimous belief, so we can tell what a real Southern Baptist is for the time being.

Cynthiana, Ky. Winn T. Barr

RESOLUTION

Dear Editor:

Whereas, Pulaski County Association of Missionary Baptists has opposed the wet forces and alcoholic beverages in every fashion, and

Whereas, Brother Eldred M. Taylor, Pastor, First Baptist Church, Somerset, and Chairman of the Steering Committee of the United Dry Forces of Concerned Citizens, Somerset, has taken an uncompromising stand against alcoholic beverages, and

Whereas, he has courageously withstood the harrassing threats that would destroy morality in the community,

Therefore, be it resolved that the Executive Board of the fifty-seven churches which compose the Pulaski County Association of Missionary Baptists, go on record on this 2nd day of March 1974, as commending Brother Eldred M. Taylor in the stand that he has taken against alcoholic beverages and that we commend First Baptist Church in supporting her pastor in that stand and,

Be It further resolved that we, the Executive Board Members, join with Brother Eldred M. Taylor in his stand against alcoholic beverages and other organized forces of evil within the city of Somerset and Pulaski County now and in the future.

MARCH 25-26 —

Family Life Conference Set

Wayne E. Oates, professor of psychology of religion at Southern Seminary in Louisville, will be the featured speaker at the Family Life Conference sponsored this month by the Long Run Baptist Association.

The conference is designed to aid families in the ability to understand and cope with the kinds of stresses experienced by families in today's society. The program has been structured to address the needs of adults of all ages.

The conference will be held each evening at Walnut Street Baptist Church, 220 West St. Catherine Street, Louisville, on March 25-26 at 7:00 p.m.

Focusing on the theme, "Spiritual Adventures in Times of Family Stress," Oates will deliver a message both evenings followed by small group discussions.

The group sessions will be geared for

► Couples without children
► Childbearing families (oldest child—birth to 2½ years old)
► Families with preschool children (oldest child—2½ to 6 years old)
► Families with school children (oldest child 6 to 13 years)
► Families with teenagers (oldest child 13 to 19)
► Families in the middle years (to retirement)
► Retirement
► Single Adults

Oates is a writer, teacher, and minister to people in times of need. Author of 22 books in the field of pastoral care, including the best selling, Workaholic, he has announced his resignation from the faculty of Southern Seminary. He will leave this summer to become distinguished professor of psychology of religion at Southeastern Baptist Seminary in Wake Forest, North Carolina, his home state.

Pre-registration for this conference should include the selection of the group in which you want to participate and a $5.00 fee per person or couple. Further information can be secured from the Long Run Office, 400 East Chestnut Street, Louisville 40202.

Kentucky Schools Represented Among Missionary Appointees

Graduates of 33 of the 43 four-year Southern Baptist colleges and universities were among the 229 persons appointed as Southern Baptist missionaries during 1973.

Eighty-one of the new missionaries were graduates of Baptist institutions. The appointees included career missionaries, missionary journeymen (college graduates under 27 years of age employed for a two-year term to work overseas with career missionaries) and missionary associates (persons 35-65 years of age appointed for renewable four-year terms).

"Although the percentage of Baptist students who attend these Baptist schools has decreased in the past 10 years, in 1973 approximately 40 percent of the career missionaries and 35 percent of the journeymen appointed were graduates of Baptist colleges," said Louis R. Cobbs, secretary of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board's missionary personnel department.

During the past 10 years almost 40 percent of the missionaries sent out by the Foreign Mission Board have been graduates of Baptist colleges.

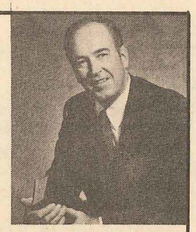

During 1973, Baylor University in Waco, Texas, led the Baptist schools with 11 graduates appointed. Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Arkansas, was second with seven. Mississippi College, Clinton, and Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, each produced six missionaries, and Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Texas, had five.

Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tennessee, and Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama, were represented by four graduates each. Georgetown College, Georgetown, Kentucky; Union University, Jackson, Tennessee; Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and East Texas Baptist College in Marshall saw three graduates each appointed to missionary service.

Four Baptist schools each graduated two appointees: Campbell College, Buies Creek, North Carolina; Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Texas; Louisiana College, Pineville; and Mercer University in Macon, Georgia.

Campbellsville and Cumberland Colleges each had one graduate appointed. (BP)

Leadership Followship

FRANKLIN OWEN

Executive Secretary, Kentucky Baptist Convention

I made rendezvous with my brother, Carroll, at Murray the other day. He is pastor of First Baptist Church, Paris, Tennessee, and a real wise brother, if I do say so. We talked about leadership and the difficulties of leadership today.

The reaction against Watergate and so many things like it has tremendously weakened the public confidence in leadership. A negative way of mind has set in. It is hard for leaders to lead. This is a real danger in government, in the denomination, in everything. The danger that people grow so cynical and so distrustful of leadership that they will not follow any leader, no matter how dedicated or how honest he may be with them.

We must guard against over-cynicism. Sam Walter Foss wrote some beautiful lines when he said, "I would not sit in the scorner's seat nor hurl the cynics ban..."

Leaders of honest intention need to take courage today and push on and people need to discern and credit honest intentions or we shall all end up in a paralysis of progress.

A pastor tries to present a program of advance to his church, but the people, habituated to negative distrust of leadership, turn it down and the church remains stalemated. Someone proposes that an executive officer share his thinking with the body on a matter of consideration, but the body yells "no" and won't allow its own executive the floor. It happens in politics, it happens in religion. It can happen in your church, even if you have a good, trustworthy leader.

None of us want to be duped. We don't want to be misled by charlatans, but we can be misled just as badly by the obsession of negativism, suspicion, distrust; we can kill the spirit of leaders who could lead us out of the jungle of confusion. Let us pray for wisdom and courage as leaders and followers. Let us keep our capability for positive thinking, lest progress die.

—Frank Owen

Conference Leaders Needed For Youth Congress

Two hundred Southern Baptist youth, ages 16-25, are needed to lead small (core) groups at the 8th Baptist Youth World Conference in Portland, Oregon, July 31-August 4, 1974.

Franklin D. Farmer, resource chairman, has called for the services of 200 youth who would like to "be at the very heart of the international, Baptist World Alliance-sponsored conference."

Young people serving as core leaders will be asked to come earlier than the July 31 starting date to enable time for training and orientation.

Application deadline for the core leadership positions is March 31. Core leaders will have to be in Portland by 6 p.m. on July 28 for the training-orientation, Farmer said.

Young people interested in applying should contact Franklin D. Farmer, supervisor, youth section, Sunday School Department, Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee 37234.

Core leaders, their families or churches will provide their own travel costs, room and board costs during the conference and registration fee. The BWA will pay room and board for core leaders during the training and orientation period.

Additional information

Duties: The core leader will work with a group of 10 youth and/or adult delegates. The core leader:

1. Will receive program material already designed by a Satellite designer.
2. Will be trained by the Planning and Implementation Team and specifically by the appointed Satellite leader during the prescribed training period before the conference.
3. Will be available for person-to-person contact at times other than the stated morning groupings.
4. Will encourage each member to contribute to and take an active part in the morning Satellite program.
5. Is responsible primarily to his/her cluster leader and the Community leadership team.

Applicants should include their full name, address (street or P.O. Box number), city, state and zip code, age, school and grade or occupation, also where they are church members. A note or letter of approval should be signed by one of the following: the young person's pastor, youth director, church youth teacher, Baptist Student Union Director or similar Baptist youth leader.

The Babies Are Dying By The Score!

"The babies are dying by the score!

"Yesterday R— found one little section with about seven huts where three babies had died the night before. Today R— and G— found another group of about 15 cornstalk sheds where six had died the day before.

"Naturally this is only a drop in the bucket for there are at least 1,500 of these little brush sheds (where displaced persons from villages farther north are now living)

"We carried eight loads of mothers and babies to the baby clinic today. Many of these babies have measles and other killing diseases. Dr. M— told me that if a baby has not had sufficient protein and gets measles there is just really no hope. Many are just starving to death, or get so weak that when they get flu they die.

"There is cholera here and just south of here, so you see what we dreaded has arrived. We have been able to get some penicillin and other drugs in Nigeria and N—; these are the only such drugs in town.

"We need thirty tons of grain a week so that each of these people may have about four pounds a week. This is basic to their survival. They must eat. Even if we can get the grain free (from government sources), we will need at least $1,160 every week to haul it and get it out.

"Even if we wear out a truck in the next six months, it will be money well spent, because it will save lives, a lot of little children and babies included!

"Gas here is $1.26 a gallon. There is no one who has a truck who is willing to carry any grain to any area without the total transportation being paid in advance and in full.

"G— and R— come back every day ready to cry, because things are in such a mess. We have permission from the mayor to do anything we wish; they feel that they have failed to get anything done, and no one can deny that we are in a disaster!"

The famine in the Sahel area is the result of a prolonged drought extending over five or six years. Crops have failed and herds of animals used for food have been decimated. The countries affected are: Chad, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Senegal and Upper Volta.

In the past nine months, Baptist compassion has brought $50,000 to the Baptist World Alliance for relief in the six affected countries of Africa, just south of the Sahara desert. The Alliance in turn has made grants through Baptist channels for relief in these countries as fast as funds arrive.

Lodging List For WMU Meeting

The annual meeting of the Kentucky WMU will assemble at First Baptist Church, Bowling Green, April 4-6.

Housing and breakfast meals are available in homes of members of the host church for $3.00 per night. Reservations should be mailed to: Mrs. Adrian Pierson, 1500 Morehead, Bowling Green 42101.

For those wishing to stay in area hotels the following list is provided.

The headquarters hotel is the Holiday Inn I-65. Other hotels in the area are:

Topper Motel, US 31W By-Pass; Town Towers Motor Hotel, US 31W By-Pass; Western Hills Motel, Intersection of US 231 and 68; Rodeway Inn of Bowling Green, Greenwood Interchange; Baker Hill Motel, US 31W and 68N; Bowling Green Motel, US 31W; Cardinal Motel, US 31W By-Pass; Colletdale Motel, US 31W By-Pass; Continental Inn, North Interchange, I-65; Country Ham Motel, US 31W By-Pass; Crossland Motel, US 31W By-Pass; Downtown Hotel, 1046 State Street;

Adulterating Of Scripture Hit

A Princeton Theological Seminary scholar warned students at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, not to mix human tradition with the "inspired oracles of God."

Bruce Manning Metzger, this year's Day-Higginbotham lecturer at Southwestern, said, "We in our preaching must never be guilty of adulterating the word of God."

He gave this admonition after tracing the way that traditions have grown up through the centuries to supplement the scriptures.

"The 'itch' to elaborate on the New Testament has existed down through the ages," he said. One of the most common ways has been to "name" the people who are left unidentified by the text.

Tradition, he illustrated, has given names to the Wise Men and even decided there were three of them because of the three different gifts brought to Jesus.

It also has supplied names for the shepherds to whom the good tidings of Jesus' birth were proclaimed, for the 70 disciples sent out by Jesus, for the soldier who pierced his side with a spear and for the wife of Pilate, among others.

These give evidence of the "fertility of pious imagination" that has refused to respect the silence of the scriptures, he said.

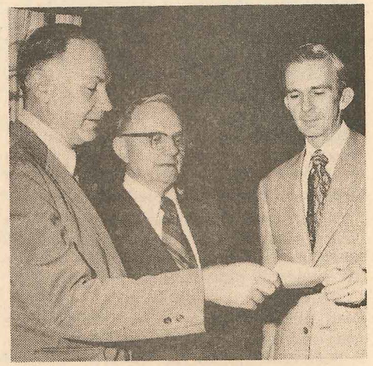

About 10 years ago, he said, there was some discussion of seeking a briefer, more unified version of the New Testament.

But because of the way in which the text emerged and the way that God has spoken through it, there is no significant opinion today that seeks a revision, he added.

Many other writings existed among the early churches, he noted, but the remarkable thing was the degree of unanimity that was attained in the first two centuries A.D.

"It was a clear case of survival of the fittest," he said.

"The religious minds of the early church were able to recognize the authenticity of the New Testament books," he explained, "and any attempt now to delete one or more books from the New Testament would cut off important historical roots and would result in the impoverishment of the church universal." LARGEST SINGLE GIFT — A check in the amount of $90,203.72 to the Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, is viewed by (from left) D. M. Aldridge, president of the school; W. W. Thompson, pastor, First Baptist Church, Jackson; and Jackson attorney William S. Dalton. The gift, the single largest contribution in the history of the school, came from the estate of the late H. C. Vires, veteran mine operator and Baptist layman of Jackson.

C'ville Offers Summer Program

"Getting the jump on college" proved to be so successful last year that Campbellsville College is once again offering the program to ambitious young people who will be graduating from high school in 1975 or 1976. From June 10-August 2 any student who has completed sophomore or junior years in high school with a B or better average can attend Campbellsville College for half the normal summer school tuition.

ASSOCIATION GIFT — By action of the executive Board the Taylor County Baptist Association authorized a gift of $1,000 for Campbellsville College. Jerry Cox, left, treasurer of the association and a member of Elkhorn Baptist Church, presents the check to Randy Davenport, college president.

Campbellsville's summer program includes a wide range of liberal arts courses to apply toward the bachelor of science or bachelor of arts degrees. Admissions director Al Hardy stated, "The students we had last summer were really enthusiastic. What more could you ask for? We have air-conditioned dorms, junior olympic swimming pool, near a 10,000 acre lake, Christian atmosphere, and college at half-price. It just makes sense to lots of high school kids who want to make the summer more than just a waste of time."

Those who are interested in this program are encouraged to call or write Al Hardy, Admissions, Campbellsville College, Campbellsville, Kentucky 42718.

Baptist Churches Start In "Craziest" Places

Southern Baptist home missionary LaVern Inzer got a surprise when he went to an abandoned mine site to pick up a supposed tool shed he planned to convert into a temporary sanctuary for the Reese-Antelope Valley Baptist Chapel in Nevada.

On one door of the 12' x 12' frame building was a sign saying "Men," and on the other door was the word, "Women."

Inzer said he was "determined to have the wash house building, because we needed it for the Lord's work.

"We lifted it on the flatbed truck after knocking loose the fixtures and carried it 100 miles back to the valley."

The Reese-Antelope congregation had its record attendance of 44 one Sunday when they were still meeting in the wash house, Inzer recalled, "even though we have our own building now." The are only 15 families living in the valley, he added.

Before they obtained the wash house, the chapel members met in a line shack formerly used by cowboys for overnight stopovers during cattle drives. When the ranch was sold, the congregation had to find another meeting place. The wash house was a temporary answer, on another site. A mobile chapel later became their place of worship.

Seldom do Southern Baptist churches begin in their own well-furnished, steepled buildings. They need time to grow. New congregations often meet in homes, rented facilities, barns, club houses, hotels and buildings of other denominations.

Lakeview Baptist Church in Vermilion, Ohio, meets for worship in what once was a beef slaughterhouse. Refuting the argument that churches in temporary facilities portray a negative image to the community, the church was awarded a major building loan from a local firm and is nearing completion of their third unit on the same property.

"This church has been accepted by the community, or they wouldn't have gotten the loan," said F. J. Redford, head of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board's department of church extension.

"Only on rare occasions will, or can, a church group buy its own property and build when they first get together," said Robert H. Kilgore, head of the Home Mission Board's church loans department. Otherwise, he said, the congregation would have to spend its time and money worrying about the building(s).

Gateway Baptist Church, in the Greater Pittsburgh (Pennsylvania) Association, found a way to increase their mission outreach in the community without owning property.

The Baptists were renting facilities from a Seventh Day Adventist church and used the money that would have gone for building maintenance to create a neighborhood center and staff a Christian book store.

Otha Winningham, superintendent of missions for Keystone Baptist Association in Pennsylvania, said three churches in the association are using Seventh Day Adventist facilities, and the Baptist groups "are among the fastest growing churches in our association. The Adventist churches are attractive; their sanctuary structure is much like Baptist churches, and they have baptistries."

Candlestick Baptist Church, the only Southern Baptist congregation in Danbury, Connecticut, found a place to meet on Sundays — in a school building — after they ran out of educational space at the local Jewish synagogue.

Frederick W. Kunst, the church's pastor and a Southern Baptist home missionary, said the church moved into the new facility the same week the school opened.

The church has a recreational program in the school cafetorium — a combination gymnasium, auditorium, cafeteria — which is also used for fellowship suppers, Kunst said.

The Danbury church began in homes, outgrew them, moved to a Masonic Lodge, then to the synagogue and school. Now with an average attendance of 200 at worship services, the church has property and is planning to build, Kunst said. The church has 15 home Bible "fellowships," among other mission projects.

Southern Baptist have begun churches in some strange places. First Southern Baptist Church in Huntington Beach, California, met in a barn and then in a night club, before moving into their own facilities.

Another congregation, Eastern Heights Baptist Church in Jeffersonville, Indiana, adapted a chickenhouse for their sanctuary. Parkside Providence (Rhode Island) Baptist Church met for years in a hotel.

Sharron Woods Baptist Church in Plattsburgh, New York, met in a theater, moved to an Air Force chapel, and are presently renting space in a Roman Catholic facility, operated by the Christian Brothers of Instruction.

Baptist Astronaut Gains Awareness

Southern Baptist astronaut William R. Pogue said his 84 days on the Skylab III mission, the longest manned space voyage, made him realize that man is more than just an intellectual being and needs Christ in his heart to become a total person.

The mission also gave Pogue a heightened awareness of life and his relationships with people. The same thing has happened to others who have gone into space, Pogue, a Baptist deacon, said when interviewed with his pastor, Bill Darnell, of Nassau Bay (Texas) Baptist Church.

As a result of the Skylab mission, Pogue said, "I'm firmly convinced that there's more to life than the body and intellect — it's the soul. Raw intellectual capacity is just the shell."

The Baptist astronaut said he now realizes more than ever, "There's that kernel that most of us miss. When a person finds Christ, he becomes a total person."

Pogue said this discovery was renewed and heightened for him during the mission. Being convinced and having it proven are two different things, he said.

At a press conference, Pogue said the flight made him more attuned to his own thought process and the way he looked at the world.

"I hope it restored a proper balance in the way I look at life," he said.

"I certainly have a greater sense of the value of the individual and of the potential of the individual to contribute to society," he continued.

"Relationships with people and our attitudes and feelings are most important," he added.

Pogue said that during the flight he missed "mostly just being with the family and eating dinner."

The difficulties he and fellow astronauts Gerald Carr and Edward Gibson had during the first part of the mission were caused by too heavy a schedule but were cleared up when the crew and the ground control talked it out, the astronauts said.

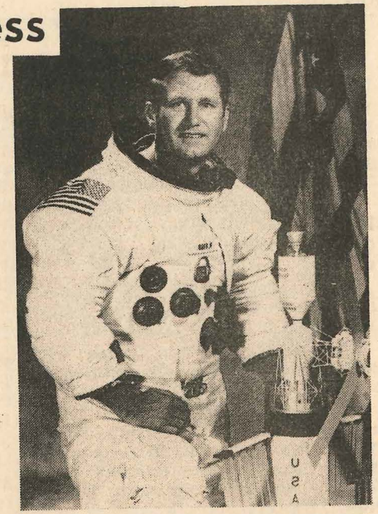

"It doesn't take much of an overrun in schedule to destroy a mission," Pogue said. "It's the difference between contentment and misery. The schedule was just a little beyond what we could have done well and properly."

Darnell, Pogue's pastor who was with the astronaut's family during the splashdown, said the crew had some problems during reentry and that it was a tense time.

"There was a squawk box that lets you hear everything that is said. We had prayer as they splashed down. It was almost like a religious service in their home," Darnell said.

Thirty percent of the men who belong to Nassau Bay Baptist Church are in NASA-related jobs, he said. Many of the others work for computer companies or are engineers.

Pogue said he has a completely open mind toward the future — "one of the advantages of the flight."

SKYLAB BAPTIST — Astronaut William R. Pogue, Skylab 3 pilot, has spent the longest time in outer space of any Baptist. Pogue, a member of Nassau Bay Baptist Church, Nassau Bay, Texas, a Houston suburb, was the second Southern Baptist astronaut to go into outer space. The Skylab 3 crew spent a record 84 days aboard the space laboratory.

Although he has worked with fellow astronaut Jim Irwin's High Flight Foundation, he said he had "one year of hard work ahead of me tying up loose ends of the flight."

After that? "Whichever way the Lord leads," he said. (BP)

KBC MEETS SBC — James H. Whaley (right), church training secretary for the Kentucky Baptist Convention, talks with Philip B. Harris, secretary of the church training department of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, during a recent meeting in Nashville. Church training representatives from 32 state conventions attended the meeting to learn about plans for the coming year, including the Church: the Sunday Night Place Spectacular in Fort Worth, March 21-23, 1974.

ANNUITY BOARD —

Senior Medical Plan Offered

A new medical insurance program for Southern Baptist pastors and church employees over age 65 offers them better benefits at lower monthly rates, an official of the Southern Baptist Convention Annuity Board said.

The new plan, called "Senior Medical Plan" has been devised jointly by the Annuity Board and the Aetna Life Insurance Company exclusively for Southern Baptist pastors and church employees 65 and over. It replaces a similar plan begun in early 1973 to bridge the gap between the insured and Medicare. Daniel said the new "Senior Medical Plan" offers the following advantages over what was previously available:

1) Hospital room and board charges not covered by Medicare are increased to $17 a day during the first 90 days, versus $15 formerly. After 90 days, charges not covered by Medicare are increased to $100 a day, against $40 a day previously.

2) Maximum benefits have been increased to $50,000, contrasted with a $10,000 limit previously.

3) A "stop-loss feature" has been added to the new plan providing 100 percent reimbursement after the insured's 20 percent share of expenses reach $1,000.

4) Coverage is guaranteed for those making application within 31 days of their 65th birthday regardless of health conditions.

5) A level premium rate of $15.98 has been established for all qualified applicants thereby discarding the use of variable rate charges based on health conditions.

39 YEARS —

Dobbs Honored For Baptist Hospital Ministry

The 39 year career and service of H. L. (Bert) Dobbs with Kentucky Baptist hospitals formally ended with a gala appreciation and recognition banquet at the Galt House, Louisville, Friday night, March 1. About 200 persons including local and national representatives of medical and hospital associations as well as the directors of Kentucky Baptist Hospitals, Inc., and other Kentucky Baptist representatives attended. Most of them were accompanied by their wives.

Toastmaster for the occasion was Duke K. McCall, Southern Baptist Seminary president. McCall recognized the various groups and representatives present. He also introduced a long line of representatives to make presentations on behalf of organizations and societies with which Dobbs had served since 1935.

Some of these representatives and their presentations were:

► J. Edward McConnell, president of Kentucky Blue Cross and also president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. He presented to Dobbs a certificate of appreciation from the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, a "distinguished citizen of Louisville" award on behalf of Louisville Mayor Sloan and a Kentucky Colonelcy from Kentucky Governor Wendell Ford.

► Lawrence R. Payne brought greetings from the Baptist Hospital Association. Dobbs was chairman of the Constitution and By-Laws Committee of the association in 1943 and was the second president of the Baptist Hospital Association.

► Emmett H. Earls, president-elect of the Kentucky Hospital Association, expressed appreciation to Dobbs for his contributions to this association. He served three terms as president of the Kentucky Hospital Association and received its Distinguished Service Award.

► David A. Johnson, immediate past president of American Protestant Hospital Association, awarded Dobbs honorary life membership in this organization. Dobbs was president of the American Protestant Hospital Association in 1962 and served on its Board of Trustees nine years.

► Wade Mountz, president of Norton-Children's Hospitals in Louisville and Chairman elect of the Board of Trustees of the American Hospital Association extended greetings from this group. Dobbs had served on the House of Delegates of the American Hospital Association.

► Emmett R. Johnson, the first administrator of the Western Baptist Hospital, Paducah, spoke on behalf of the past and present administrators of Baptist Hospitals in Louisville, Lexington and Paducah. Johnson is now administrator of the High Plains Baptist Hospital in Texas.

► Harley Dixon, chaplain of Western Baptist Hospital, Paducah, expressed gratitude and presented a resolution of appreciation on behalf of the employees of the Baptist hospitals in Kentucky.

► Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach was unable to attend but sent two awards to Dobbs. He was made Honorary Captain of the Belle of Louisville and named an Outstanding Citizen of Jefferson County.

► Mrs. Linda Blair, director of nursing education of Kentucky Baptist Hospital, presented Dobbs an honorary faculty membership and named him an honorary diploma graduate of the Kentucky Baptist Hospital School of Nursing.

► J. Herman Mahaffey, M.D., a surgeon on the Kentucky Baptist Hospital staff and the 1972 president of the medical staff of Kentucky Baptist Hospital, spoke for the staff physicians and presented Dobbs an honorary membership on the medical staff of Kentucky Baptist Hospital.

Letters of appreciation to Dobbs are still welcome and will be added to the volume. They should be mailed to H. L. Dobbs, Kentucky Baptist Hospital, 810 Barret Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky.

► William Boswell, Cynthiana, chairman of the Board of Directors of Kentucky Baptist Hospitals, Inc., presented a certificate making Dobbs President-Emeritus of Kentucky Baptist Hospitals, Inc., and gave him the keys to a new automobile.

The recognition banquet was climaxed with responses from Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs. Mrs. Dobbs responded first with brief remarks climaxed with a fitting poem. Dobbs then responded with levity and serious remarks. He thanked those especially who came great distances for the affair. He also expressed appreciation for the presence of his son and daughter and grandchildren who were seated together next to the head table.

Dobbs thanked the directors for the new automobile and said he would need it to take home the gifts and presentations.

He said in an informal conversation before the banquet began that he and Mrs. Dobbs would leave shortly for Texas, the home state of both, and from there back to Florida where they have spent a well deserved leave of absence. He also said he was not planning an idle retirement but felt he would directly or indirectly continue to be used in the hospital ministry.

BANQUET — H. L. (Bert) Dobbs addresses the 200 people in attendance at an appreciation and recognition banquet held at the Galt House in Louisville. Dobbs formally ended his 39 year association with Kentucky Baptist hospitals at the ceremony. Local and national representatives of medical and hospital associations and the directors of Kentucky Baptist Hospitals, Inc., were present at the banquet with other Kentucky Baptists to honor Dobbs.

Church Mission Giving

The Business Office of the Kentucky Baptist Convention has prepared the report of receipts for the Cooperative Program and designated mission gifts, listing them by association and churches. Check your church's record of gifts. If there is any difference in your records and ours—report to G. B. Morton, Business Manager, P.O. Box 43433, Middletown 40243.

Thank you for this expression of missionary concern and for your sharing through the Cooperative Program.

Franklin Owen
Executive Secretary-Treasurer

LIFE AND WORK SERIES

Lord Of History

Mark 13:1-4

As Christ and His disciples left the temple to go to the Mount of Olives, one of the disciples, who was impressed greatly with the grandeur and beauty of the enormous stones in the gorgeous structure, proudly called His attention to the magnificent structure. Together they gazed upon a spectacle of such surpassing splendor and beauty that it was considered to be one of the wonders of the world, but all of its magnificence did not impress Christ in the least. He simply repeated His prediction that it would not be long until this majestic edifice would be leveled to the ground by the Roman armies.

Unable to grasp the full significance of His prediction, it is not surprising that His shocked disciples had a strong desire to know when an event of such proportions as that of the total destruction of the temple was going to occur. In answering them Christ did not specify the exact date of the impending catastrophe, but He did caution them not to waste their thoughts, time, and energies in seeking signs.

Mark 13:14-16

Christ and His disciples proceeded to the summit of the Mount of Olives. From that vantage point they had a view of the temple and its surroundings which was particularly striking. His prophecy concerning the destruction of Jerusalem was fulfilled in 70 A.D. under Titus. It also dealt with the conditions which will prevail during the interval between His departure and His return to the earth. He let it be known that in the era preceding His return and the end of the age there will be increasing lawlessness, wars and rumors of wars, increasing knowledge, craze for pleasure, confusion in the industrial world, financial insolvency, famines and pestilences, false teaching, apostasy from the faith, religious indifference and unconcern, disobedience to parents, and degeneracy of life.

Mark 13:24-27

Christ did not gratify the wishes of the disciples by lifting the veil of the future, but He did go far enough to predict that His final manifestation would be heralded by various supernatural events, such as the falling of the stars, the darkening of the sun, the failure of the moon to shine, and the shaking of the heavenly powers. In other words, unusual and tremendous events and results will occur when God intervenes and proves Himself to be the Lord of history. When Christ, the Lord of the universe, comes again He will gather His own from every part of the universe.

Mark 13:32-33

Having declared His lordship over all of history — past, present, and future, — Christ indicated what the response of His followers to that lordship should be. Christ declared that the exact time of His return was unknown unto all except the Father. However, He was careful to let His followers know that He will come personally, bodily, visibly, suddenly, unexpectedly, and gloriously.

As Christ pointed out, unfortunately His disciples were lax in the important matter of taking heed to themselves. Moreover, they were not given to watchfulness and prayer as they should have been, and as He desired.

Watchfulness and prayer will greatly increase our spirituality, usefulness, and effectiveness as Christians. Prayer is the crowning protection against the evils of this age. It is the fountain of blessing, but in many of our lives there issue from them only trickling rills whereas there might and should be flowing rivers. When we are beset with evil on every hand, persistent praying will bring the strength which we shall need to live the victorious and useful and fruitful Christian life. Preparedness, watchfulness, and prayerfulness on the part of Christians are far preferable to trying to figure out the time of Christ's return. While awaiting His coming, let us separate ourselves from sinful activities, and yield ourselves to the Holy Spirit for service as ambassadors of Christ to those who sorely need reconciliation with God. ■

Giving One's Best

Acts 6:8-11

Among the seven reputable men who were chosen and set apart as "helpers" of the Apostles, whose time was being consumed unduly by secondary matters, Stephen had the first place. Stephen was one of the most beautiful characters and charming personalities whose name was recorded in the Bible.

1. Stephen was full of wisdom (Acts 6:3). Although he was young, Stephen was a man of great wisdom. If he had not been a man of wisdom, he would not have been selected with six others to handle the delicate and difficult situation which had arisen in the church. Another proof of his wisdom was that those who had perplexities and personal problems, with which they did not know how to cope, freely talked with Stephen about them. When the members consulted him about the administration of the church affairs, his suggestions revealed a keen insight and remarkable wisdom.

2. Stephen was full of faith (Acts 6:5, 8). Because of Stephen's great faith in God there was a fine intimacy between him and the other church members. They delighted in each other. Stephen had faith in men, and they had absolute confidence in him.

3. Stephen was full of power (Acts 6:8). Things happened where he went. He had a tremendous and wholesome influence. He had the kind of power which could not be resisted. He received that power from the Holy Spirit.

4. Stephen was full of courage (Acts 7:51). Filled with holy boldness, he spoke the Word of God fearlessly.

5. Stephen was full of the Holy Spirit (Acts 7:55). The Holy Spirit had the absolute mastery of Stephen, and enabled him to do the will of God.

6. Stephen was full of trust (Acts 7:59). It was his complete trust in God that made Stephen so Christlike and brought the angelic look into his face.

7. Stephen was full of love (Acts 7:60). His prayer while being stoned was convincing proof of the transforming power of the love of Christ in the human heart.

Acts 7:54-60

It was the custom of that court to allow an accused person to plead guilty or not guilty, and then to speak in his own defense. This privilege was granted to Stephen, and he delivered the address recorded in the previous verses of this chapter.

When the mob rushed on Stephen and tried to tear him to pieces, Stephen remarked in substance: "You may put me to death if you desire, but you cannot prevent the doors of heaven from opening wide for me, nor can you interfere with Christ standing at the right hand of God to welcome me home, for already I have seen Him in that very position." The furious mob surged like angry beasts upon the helpless prisoner and rushed him out of the city to administer capital punishment by stoning him. As they pelted him with stones, he prayed and committed his soul into the keeping of Christ. Evidently the first stones struck him while he was standing. As they continued to strike him he struggled to his knees and prayed for those who were taking his life saying, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge." His attitude, like that of Christ on the cross, was one of pity, love, and forgiveness. With unshaken courage, sweet composure, genuine faith, real concern, and fervent love Stephen died in the very prime of his usefulness. After living beautifully, he died bravely.

One of the spectators who seemed to be pleased very much with the pitiless fury of the mob was Saul of Tarsus. He guarded the cloaks of those who assaulted Stephen. By his presence, silence, and willingness to guard the garments of the murderers, Saul gave his hearty approval to Stephen's martyrdom. This scene, so like unto the crucifixion of Christ, was implanted indelibly upon Saul's mind. Stephen's demonstration of how a Christian can die for Christ made a lasting impression on Saul. His voice in prayer never ceased to echo in Saul's ears. ■

CP Giving Up 15% Thus Far

Southern Baptists gave more money through the convention's Cooperative Program (unified budget) and to designated causes during the first five months of fiscal 1973-74, than in the same period of record-breaking fiscal 1972-73, a recent report showed.

Cooperative Program receipts for October through February of the current fiscal year totaled $16,297,122.83, up 15.15 percent over the same period for 1972-73, according to figures released by John Williams, director of financial planning and assistant to the treasurer of the Southern Baptist Executive Committee.

Designated offerings through the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union reached a record $16,140,032 by the end of February.

Total designated offerings for October through February were $17,709,872.73, a 17.01 percent increase over the same two quarters in 1972-73.

Williams said that although a new one-month period in the history of Cooperative Program giving was realized in January, 1974, totaling $3,937,030, "This is the first February in Cooperative Program history that receipts ever went over $3 million.

Cooperative Program contributions reported in February alone, reached $3,485,787.72 compared with $2,952,762.46 for the same time in 1973, an 18.05 percent increase.

Extra gifts or overages of $596,000 from four states sharing funds received from their 1972-73 budgets, plus a longer month, accounted for January being a larger month than February, Williams noted. (BP) against liquor by the drink sales on Sunday in our city. This bill denies the right of local option on this matter and leaves it to the discretion of Fiscal Court members to decide the issue. The bill was to have been voted on Thursday. Citizens groups interested in preserving the democratic right of local communities to set standards for themselves by majority vote through local option on such matters as liquor sales had effectively defeated the bill, it was understood. When the liquor lobbyists polled the Representatives and found themselves defeated, they managed to shelve the bill until they had time to make the deals in the back room to switch votes and bring it to the floor in a surprise move later. Now it goes to the Senate where the liquor lobbyists have even more influence than in the House. It will probably pass and you and I in Louisville will have been disenfranchised again.

BROADMAN

This strategy was first used to do away with the Sunday closing laws. When the special interest groups were unable to get popular voter support, they came in through the back door by getting the Kentucky Legislature to take the right of the ballot box away from the citizenship and let the city council or Fiscal Court decide such matters. Now they are doing it again on a liquor issue, taking away from the voter and the local community the right to decide on what most of us consider to be a moral issue. The rumor is abroad that this same strategy will next be used to thwart the will of the majority in Kentucky on legalized gambling and offtrack betting.

I think it is time that we send a message to Frankfort! Let your representatives and senators know how you feel, not only on the particular issue involved — but how you feel about being disenfranchised at having your right to vote on moral issues taken away from you by vested minority interests.

CONCERNING ALIEN IMMERSION

Dear Editor:

There is no scripture basis for alien immersion. When Paul found disciples at Ephesus who had been immersed into the baptism of John, he did not accept them as properly baptized, but taught them the full truth, and rebaptized them.

Baptism, as with conversion, has two aspects. In conversion one becomes a new creature, a child of God. But he also becomes a member of "The general assembly and church of the first born who are written in heaven." In baptism, one declares symbolically that he has had this experience, that his old life is dead and buried, never to rise again, and that he is indeed a "new creature in Christ." But baptism is also the initiation ceremony into a group of Christians who hold certain distinctive beliefs. And the assumption is that one baptized into that group believes those things.

The Great Commission of our Lord and Master, as given in Matthew's gospel, has three stages. The first stage is "make disciples," for this and not "teach" is the meaning of the Greek word used here. This stage brings one into a personal relationship with the Lord Jesus, Who becomes now his Lord and Master. The second stage is "baptizing them." The Greek word "baptismos," which we have adopted as one of ours in the word baptism, means immersion or submersion and the phrase "into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost" shows that baptism was to be the ceremony through which one would become a member of the special group that came to be known as Christians. The third stage has been altogether too sadly neglected in our churches: "... teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded," which obviously involves an attitude of implicit obedience to all our Lord's commands on the part of baptized believers.

In the first century there was one Christian brotherhood, but in the course of the centuries errors in belief and practice led to division into the various denominations we have today, each believing that its own particular doctrinal belief is the true teaching of the New Testament. Common practice recognizes that the local churches of any particular denomination are simply individual chapters of the one denomination and therefore membership can be transferred from one church to another church in the same denomination since the members of all the churches belong to the same denomination.

Doctrinal integrity demands that this transfer of membership be restricted to churches of the same denomination. Alien immersion violates this integrity and jeopardizes the whole doctrinal position of a denomination. The requirement for re-baptism does not question the spiritual experience of the candidate, nor his sincerity, but is the safeguard for the doctrinal integrity of the group into which he wishes to enter. Our Baptist practice of receiving by letter or statement only persons "of like faith and order" is obviously the right procedure.

POOR ORGANIZATION

Dear Editor:

I read your editorial February 2 entitled "Dangerous Legislative Proposals," and I agree completely with your ideas. However in one paragraph you state that Sunday sales come about in Kentucky by government fiat and that county officials began licensing for Sunday sale at their own discretion. Kentucky has always had a local option law.

Here in Kenton County the people were given a chance to vote on Sunday sales in a referendum on January 6, 1973, and the people that voted said they wanted such sales. If you must give blame for disregard of religious convictions it must be to the people in the various counties for not organizing strongly enough against the referendum vote.

ORDAINING WOMEN

Dear Editor:

Thank you for keeping us informed about the life and action of other Baptist churches in our Convention. Otherwise we would not be stirred in alarm at the obvious doctrinal decline now taking place in some.

In regard to recent articles that have appeared in the Western Recorder; that is concerning the "ordination" of women to the gospel ministry; may we make some brief observations? Please note that I have enclosed ordination with quotes, as scriptural authority for ordaining women, as important to Christ and His church as they be, cannot possibly be scripturally ordained. Even though hands have been laid on them, this does not change the Bible.

Now I would not insult the Biblical knowledge of our brothers and sisters in the Lord who are responsible for such action; for they must by now know that there is nothing Biblical either by precept, example or suggestion that would justify such a course of action. Provided folks know what the Bible teaches on such matters; then what else could it be but rebellion against the God of the Bible? Brethren, if ignorance is no excuse, how much less excusable when one knows what the Bible says and then ignores it?

Neither did the church at Laodicea have scriptural grounds for denying Christ His preeminence in His church and thus voted Him out to the door; it was the people's decision. They did it then and some are following their example now.

While in the Epistle of Jude we are exhorted to "earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints," we cannot help but ponder the question of Jesus, "Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall He find faith on the earth?" Luke 18:8.

Kentucky B'hood Leads Growth

Kentucky, followed by Mississippi, Louisiana and North Carolina, led older Baptist state conventions in percentage growth in church Brotherhood enrolment during 1973, a report from the research services department of the Baptist Sunday School Board revealed.

Kentucky showed a growth of 8.8 percent; Mississippi, 6.5 percent; Louisiana, 5.4 percent, and North Carolina, 4.9 percent.

In terms of numbers, North Carolina had the largest increase, with 2,511 new men and boys enrolled. Total enrolment was 53,334, second only to Texas with 60,833.

Across the Southern Baptist Convention, 383 churches started new Brotherhood work, increasing the number of men and boys enrolled to 461,080, up 1.5 percent, and the number of churches with Brotherhood work to 14,225. It marked the third straight year Brotherhood enrolment went up.

Other state conventions showing increases were California, District of Columbia, Georgia, Florida, Hawaii, Kansas, New York, Northern Plains, Northwest, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

Sixteen state conventions lost in Brotherhood enrolment, the report said. They were Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Penn-South Jersey, Utah-Idaho, West Virginia.

Youth Workshop April 26-28

So you're looking for some help with your youth ministry. How would you like to talk about it with such people as Wayne Oates, Sabin Landry, Bob Taylor, Myrte Veach, and Don Blaylock?

They are among the leaders for the Sixth Annual Summer Youth Program Workshop scheduled for April 26-28 at Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville. The program will be designed to assist both professional and lay workers who work with youth.

Sessions will discuss counseling, evangelism, creative Bible study, fun music, drama, creative methods, and using the outdoors as a spiritual resource. "Sharing Now" materials for use in the summer of 1974 will be featured.

Cost of the workshop is $13, plus a refundable room key deposit of $1. The fee covers cost of the conference, workbook, room, and insurance. It does not include travel and meal expenses.

Last year 225 professionals and laymen attended the conference which began on Friday evening and concluded Sunday morning. For more information on the 1974 conference contact William R. Cromer, Jr., 2825 Lexington Road, Louisville, Kentucky 40206.

HONORED — On Sunday morning, February 3, fourteen Sunday School teachers were honored for having taught 25 years or more at First Baptist Church, Russellville. Plaques of appreciation were presented them by Sunday School director Bill Mac Smith. The teachers and time taught are as follows: Front row — Mrs. Oscar Peveler, 25 years; Mrs. Barney Goddard, 30 years; Mrs. Robert Piper, 31 years; Mrs. H. J. Appleton, 45 years; Mrs. Raymond Gorrell, 35 years; Mrs. Charles Vick, 43 years; Mrs. Ed Riley, 47 years; Mr. H. O. Price, 52 years. Second row — Mr. Forrest Duncan, 25 years; Mr. James C. Lyne, 25 years; Mr. Charles Vick, 26 years; Mr. Robert Piper, 32 years; Mr. Sam Milam, 37 years; Mr. Jim Didlake, Educational Director; and Mr. Bill Mac Smith, Sunday School Director. Not pictured is Miss Faye Davis, 25 years. These fourteen teachers have taught some 478 total years. Pastor of the church is Glenn Sullivan.

The estate of the late Mary B. Converse of Louisville has contributed over $65,000 to The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary to be used in the purchasing of library books and other materials in the field of hymnology.

Mrs. Converse donated the gift to the seminary in memory of her husband, Eugene A. Converse. Mr. Converse, a long-time member of Louisville's Crescent Hill Baptist Church, was a collector of old hymn books and other musical items. His collection, according to an arrangement developed before his death with music dean Forrest Herren, has been added to the seminary's school of church music. The collection dates to the 1840's.

Craziest Places

Many believe that having their own church building will result in higher attendance, Redford noted. "There's a logical time to build a building, but it doesn't come as soon as some would think," he added.

"We can document again and again where a church had 150 attending in a schoolhouse, and after they had built a church building, attendance fell to 100 — or the building produced no growth at all," Redford said.

In contrast, the Home Mission Board sponsored a "home Bible fellowship" in Richville, New York, a town of 250 people where six of seven church buildings weren't even in use, he continued.

"In two months we had 42 people for baptism," Redford said. "We need to convince people they can do as well in someone else's building."
