Daley Observations

What about Lay Pastors?

There is a shortage of competent and available pastors for Southern Baptist churches. This is true in spite of the fact that there are already many more ordained Baptist preachers than there are Southern Baptist churches and all six Southern Baptist seminaries have record enrolments. The Southern Baptist Convention annual lists about 30,000 names of pastors of churches and about 20,000 names of ordained Baptist preachers who are not pastors.

Why 20,000 ordained Baptist preachers who are not pastors is another story but is not the concern of this editorial. Some of these 20,000 are engaged in valid ministries other than the pastorate. Others of them are available but will never be called as pastors.

At the same time there are always hundreds of Southern Baptist churches without a pastor though they want one and sincerely try to find a suitable one. It seems unfortunate that with such a need for pastors and such an available supply of preachers churches and pastors don't find each other.

Why don't they get together? There are several reasons only one of which I will point out. This is the fact that many Southern Baptist churches cannot or will not pay a pastor enough to take care of the basic financial needs of him and his family. They expect pastors to make bricks without straw and for his family and him to live off less income than most church families receive. Many sincere Baptist preachers simply cannot afford to be full time pastors.

Southern Baptists historically have been mostly rural people. Consequently many of our churches have been small and in spite of Baptist penetration of towns and cities in recent years, a large majority of Southern Baptist churches are still small.

The latest records indicate that about 62 percent or about 21,000 of the 35,000 Southern Baptist churches have a membership of less than 300. About half of these have an average attendance of less than 100. Though small most of these congregations want a full time preacher. More than that, they want a capable and trained pastor.

The question is whether such small congregations can or will support a full time pastor and also provide the resources to participate worthily in a local and worldwide missionary ministry. The answer for most of these small churches is "No."

Based on the offerings of average Baptist families, a regular attendance of 100 to 150 is required for a church to support a full time pastor and to participate to any extent in a community and world outreach. Where does this leave the large number of Southern Baptist churches with less than 100 in Sunday school and worship attendance?

It leaves them in a fix. They have to find pastors with other sources of income or they have to use the left overs and misfits in the Baptist ministry. These misfits move from place to place and stay only long enough for their records or shortcomings to show up. Often a church is worse off with than without such a pastor.

What then is the hope for all these small full time churches so far as pastoral leadership is concerned? Ideally, many of them should merge with one or more adjoining Baptist churches to form one church with resources for able pastoral leadership and worthy educational and training programs. But the prospect for an appreciable number of small Baptist congregations to merge anytime soon is very dim.

These small churches have to look for preachers with another source or sources of income. There are more of these now serving Southern Baptist churches than most realize and many are doing a commendable job. But there still aren't near enough of these to go around.

There is another source for pastoral leadership in small congregations which Southern Baptists are overlooking but which was surely used in the New Testament churches. This source is in the congregation itself where usually there are one or more outstanding laymen who with a little specialized training could handle the preaching and other pastoral responsibilities acceptably.

With the growing flight from urban areas rural Baptist congregations will have more and more professionally trained persons as members. Some of these will be very able as well as deeply committed and could take care of the pastoral responsibilities for a small flock in addition to their profession or vocation.

Churches would not necessarily have to wait for volunteers. Under the leadership of the Holy Spirit congregations could call these out. Such laymen may well believe God wants them for pastoral ministry in addition to their other work.

They could be or not be ordained as the church and they felt was the will of God. There is strong New Testament precedent for laymen to be called for the work of the ministry. In fact, our distinction between clergy and laymen is more historical and traditional than it is New Testament.

In God's plan there must be a pastor for every church and a church for every pastor. Though we will never know nor follow his perfect plan in this world, we could come nearer if we submitted our ways to his will rather than claim his will for our ways.

All "Christians" Are Not Christian

Many of us are perplexed today when we hear and read reports of fighting in Ireland between Catholics and Protestants and fighting in Lebanon between Christians and Moslems. We know of religious wars in earlier eras but somehow we assume that in this enlightened age religious groups would not be fighting and killing one another.

All of this is a grim reminder that man's behavior doesn't improve in proportion to his level of enlightenment. It also reveals that just because someone is called a "Christian" it cannot be assumed that spiritual regeneration has taken place.

Though the names, "Christian," "Protestant" and "Catholic" are given to these warring factions, their conflicts are not so much religious as political. In many countries there is no practice of separation of church and state as in America. In these places religion and politics are intermingled. So it is not always easy to determine what is political and what is religious about such groups.

Lebanon is an example. For one in Lebanon to be called a Christian does not necessarily mean he is a believer in our understanding of being a Christian. It only means his parents were called Christians, not that he has experienced a personal conversion. It doesn't even mean his parents were true Christians because their identity as Christians could also be a matter of heritage instead of experience.

Christianity spread from Jerusalem to the area of modern Lebanon in the first century and likely has existed there in some form ever since. The Crusaders met Christians when they passed through this part of the world on the way to the Holy Land. These Christians were said to have lived in the hills among the cedars of Lebanon. Ever since then their descendants have been called Christians because in Lebanon children automatically are given the religion of their parents.

A Lebanese child carries the religious identification of his father. His identification card gives his religion with other basic personal information. And so a child is by birth, not by experience a Christian or a Moslem.

It is easy, then, to see how the Lebanese are characterized as Christians or Moslems whether or not their religion is based on personal conviction. The conflict in Lebanon is more political than religious.

This does not mean there are not genuine Christians in Lebanon. Indeed, some Lebanese are true Christians as a result of missionary efforts of Southern Baptists and others.

An interesting sidelight is that much of Southern Baptist missionary activities in Lebanon are with the Arabs who ordinarily would be Moslems. And so in the current conflict Christian Arabs in Lebanon could well side with the Moslems instead of with the so-called Christians.

Playboy and Mr. Carter

Speculation is running high on what effect Jimmy Carter's interview with Playboy Magazine will have in the presidential race. These words are written on the first day after the report of the interview and therefore cannot take into consideration any developments between now and the time these words are read. Nor are these comments based upon the Playboy article but upon news releases in the secular press.

Fellow Baptists will experience some shock when first reading the account of Mr. Carter's views. Upon reflection many Baptists will recognize his views as those they have always heard in Baptist Sunday school classes and pulpits.

The interview will bring some negative reactions from Baptists. Among these are:

- The inappropriateness of the interview in the first place. No responsible person has raised any questions about Mr. Carter's sexual views or practices.
- The choice of Playboy Magazine as the channel for his views. If Mr. Carter wanted to make known his views, another channel with more moral rectitude could have been used. To dignify Playboy Magazine by using it as a channel for his views and to contribute to the financial bonanza the report will bring to this publication are very questionable.
- The use of at least one "gutter" word in describing his views. In the A. P. news story only one word appeared which was entirely out of place but we like to think a Baptist Sunday school teacher and a presidential candidate did not use such words.

The interview will bring some positive reactions, especially after getting over the initial shock. Among these reactions are:

- The honesty and frankness of Mr. Carter's answers. Should the interview cost him his election, he should have a consolation medal for his candidness.
- The confession of weakness and temptation. He told it like it is and most people can identify themselves with him and his temptations.
- The effect of his religious convictions upon Mr. Carter's conduct. He takes his religion and the New Testament teachings seriously. All Baptists are taught to match their creed with their conduct and their profession with their practice in daily life. If Mr. Carter truly does this, he excels some of his fellow Baptists.

It is doubtful Mr. Carter helped himself with the interview. But some who regard the interview as inappropriate will appreciate a candidate who sets forth in plain language his moral convictions. In an age of shameful revelations of sexual immorality of those in high political positions, it is good to have a presidential candidate on record concerning his personal morality.

Baptist News in Brief

Mondale Favors Family

U. S. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, stumping for the Carter-Mondale Democratic presidential ticket in President Gerald Ford's home state, called for an evaluation of federal policies on family life during a black Baptist convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

The vice presidential candidate, addressing the 96th annual session of the National Baptist Convention of America, said, "We need an administration that makes the family a number one priority in its order of business. There is no adequate substitute for a family. When the family is in trouble so are all other institutions, including the church."

Texans Elect Hildreth

The adoption of a record operating budget of nearly $25 million for 1977 and the election of a pastor to head the state's stewardship program were the main items of business of the Texas Baptist executive board meeting.

Lory Hildreth, 59, pastor of the 2,500-member First Baptist Church, Texarkana, Tex., was elected director of the stewardship commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

He succeeds Cecil A. Ray, who left the position in January to become general secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Baptist Convention.

The ambitious $24.6 million budget for 1977 represents a 10 percent increase over the 1976 budget. Receipts received thus far in 1976 total almost $1 million over the budgeted amount.

Shotwell to BSSB Staff

Larry Shotwell, minister of education and administration for Wilshire Baptist Church, Dallas, recently was named general field services consultant in the Sunday School Department of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville.

Shotwell, a Baylor University graduate, received the M.R.E. degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Ft. Worth. He has been minister of education of First Southern Baptist Church, Colorado Springs, Colo., and minister of education and youth of Kirkwood Baptist Church, Atlanta.

Indianans Defeat Drive

A proposal to conduct a $2 million capital funds drive for the development of Highland Lakes Baptist Center was soundly defeated by elected "messengers" to the first special called session in the 18-year history of the State Convention of Baptists in Indiana.

The campaign had been proposed by the convention's executive committee and a Highland Lakes development committee as a way to complete the facility on the 400-acre site located 25 miles southwest of Indianapolis. The master plan of development, approved by the convention in 1972, calls for all types of facilities at the camping, conference and retreat center.

The motion to conduct a capital funds campaign lost by a vote of 176-108.

The drive would have asked individuals to give a "share" which would be $1 per day for three years. The proposed goal would have been 2,000 shares.

Opposition to the proposed campaign centered in fears of what this drive might do to finances in local churches and the state convention.

Concern was also expressed that a capital funds drive during the next three years would focus attention away from the "North Central Missions Thrust," which is an effort to double the number of churches in the seven north central states, including Indiana.

Double Exposure

Bold Believers in Giving is the Convention-wide Cooperative Program theme for this year. It is an effort to lead Southern Baptists to an even greater awareness of the mission needs of the world and to challenge them to respond boldly through a greater involvement in mission giving. Sunday, Oct. 31, is designated Church Commitment Day. Ask your church budget committee to recommend increased church goals for Cooperative Program and associational missions giving. Lead the church in a period of prayerful commitment in voting to approve the new mission giving goals for your church.

Illinois Votes $1 Million

Illinois Baptists' board of directors, meeting in semi-annual session at East Bay Camp near Bloomington, Ill., approved a special $1 million campaign to provide seed money for new churches, named a legislative liaison to the Illinois General Assembly and adopted a 1977 Cooperative Program unified budget of $2.3 million.

In other action, the board of the Illinois Baptist State Association (IBSA) heard a proposal to purchase the 500 acre East Bay Camp, okayed purchase of a $40,500 airplane for staff travel, approved a one percent increase in percentage of Cooperative Program funds going to the Southern Baptist Convention's worldwide missions causes, and authorized two new staff positions.

The $1 million campaign for 1977-80, part of the denomination's "North Central Mission Thrust," is modeled after the SBC Stewardship Commission's "Together We Build" technique. It will be church-centered but also allow for direct approach to individuals or foundations, both in and out of the state.

The board enlarged the responsibility of Robert J. Hastings, the IBSA's director of communications and editor of the Illinois Baptist, to serve as a liaison with the state legislature.

The role, a spokesman said, does not call for him to serve as a lobbyist but as a source of information only, leaving to the churches and the IBSA any initiative they may wish to take on legislative concerns.

Of a total annual budget of nearly $4 million, the IBSA expects $2.3 million to come through the state's Cooperative Program from participating churches, with the IBSA keeping 59 percent for its work and sending 41 percent, up one percent from 1976, to SBC causes.

The new staff positions involved authorization to employ a director of the state convention's foundation and an associate director for Sunday school work.

Tennessee Elects Editor

Alvin C. Shackleford, editor of the Indiana Baptist for the past 11 years, was elected in Brentwood, Tenn., as editor of the Baptist and Reflector, 141-year-old weekly news publication of the Tennessee Baptist Convention, effective Nov. 1.

Shackleford

Mrs. Eura Lannom, a Baptist and Reflector staff member for 33 years, has been acting editor of the paper three years, following the resignation of James A. Lester.

A native of Georgia, Shackleford, 44, also was director of public relations for the State Convention of Baptists in Indiana.

Before coming to Indiana he was technical director in the public relations department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, Dallas, 1961-65, and editor of The Beam, then published as a magazine by the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC) Radio and Television Commission, Ft. Worth, 1957-61.

He attended Auburn (Ala.) University and earned a bachelor of arts degree from Mercer University, Macon, Ga., a bachelor of arts degree in journalism from the University of Georgia, Athens, and a master of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Ft. Worth.

ABS Honors Porter Routh

Porter Routh, completing 25 years of service as executive secretary-treasurer of the Executive Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC), was honored for distinguished service to the SBC and the Bible cause by the board of managers of the American Bible Society during its quarterly meeting in New York.

"Throughout the years Dr. Routh has represented us among Southern Baptists," Edmund F. Wagner, ABS President, commented, "and he is largely responsible for the marked increase of support we have received from that denomination."

In 1951 the ABS received contributions from Southern Baptist churches totaling $90,000. In 1975 Southern Baptist contributions totaled $238,554.

N. C. Defeats Privette

Coy Privette, president of the North Carolina Southern Baptist State Convention, was defeated in a runoff in the primary election for the Republican nomination for governor.

Privette, who lost to David T. Flaherty, a former North Carolina secretary of human resources, resigned his pastorate at a church in Kannapolis to campaign for the nomination, but he retained the presidency of the Southern Baptist state convention.

RNA Names Nashvillian

W. A. (Bill) Reed Jr., religion news editor for The Nashville Tennessean, was elected in Minneapolis as national president of the Religion Newswriters Association (RNA), succeeding Richard Ostling of Time magazine.

Reed became both the first southerner and the first black to serve as RNA president. He is a Baptist layman.

CLC Studies TV Morality

The Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission launched comprehensive programs of research and action on television morality and beverage alcohol abuse and passed resolutions calling for national action on public schools and urging careful attention by Christians to the moral issues in the national elections.

Members of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC) social concerns agency also voted a $450,000 budget for 1976-77, including six percent salary cost of living adjustments for staff, and elected Forest H. Siler, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lawton, Okla., as chairman.

The action on television morality will involve a comprehensive survey of television programing content, a series of public hearings on Christian morality and television programing in selected cities across the United States, and conferences with network officials, Federal Communications Commission members and U. S. Congressmen. Commission staff will also prepare literature, including a special packet for denominational leaders.

Baptist News in Brief

Executive Committee OK's $63.4 Million

The Executive Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention semi-annual meeting in Nashville recommended a national 1977-78 Cooperative Program unified budget goal of $63.4 million and authorized the SBC's six theological seminaries to conduct parallel fund raising campaigns with a national theme.

In other action during the two-day meeting, the Executive Committee honored its executive secretary-treasurer, Porter Routh, who is completing 25 years as the body's chief executive, and set an Executive Committee operating budget of $611,700 for 1975-76.

The committee also accepted an offer of $200,000 a year, for up to five years, from the SBC Sunday School Board to be transferred to the Southern Baptist Foundation and divided equally between two of the smaller SBC seminaries to build up their endowments. The contributions of $100,000 each will strengthen the programs of Midwestern Seminary in Kansas City and Golden Gate Seminary in Mill Valley, Calif., and consequently have the effect of strengthening the Sunday School Board's efforts in Christian education, an Executive Committee spokesman said.

The recommended 1977-78 Cooperative Program budget will be presented to the 1977 Southern Baptist Convention annual meeting in Kansas City for approval. The 1976-77 national Cooperative Program figure, already approved, is $55 million.

The seminary fund-raising campaigns will be implemented by a 16-member committee, including the seminary presidents, which will be named by SBC President James L. Sullivan to plan the campaigns in keeping with Article VI of the SBC's business and financial plan.

Two seminaries, Southwestern in Ft. Worth and Southern in Louisville, already have $8 million and $10 million campaigns underway respectively.

The Executive Committee's 1976-77 operating budget of $611,700 represents a $42,700 increase over the 1975-76 budget and includes a six percent cost of living adjustment for Executive Committee staff salaries.

The Radio and Television Commission was given full responsibility for setting up closed circuit television image magnification for annual convention sessions, when needed, with the SBC Pastors' Conference and agencies of the convention reimbursing the commission for special services as they have in the past.

Other Executive Committee business included granting of permission to the Sunday School Board to publish a new magazine, Living with Children, selection of the Atlanta Hilton as the 1978 SBC headquarters hotel and adoption of resolutions on the retirement of six Southern Baptist leaders.

The committee expressed appreciation for the service of John P. Baker, who will retire Dec. 31 as executive secretary of the Northern Plains Baptist Convention; O. L. Bayless, who will retire Feb. 28 as editor of the Rocky Mountain Baptist; Kendall Berry, who will retire Dec. 31 as executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Foundation; C. E. Boyle, who will retire Dec. 31 as editor of the Northwest Baptist; John J. Hurt Jr., who will retire early next year as editor of the Baptist Standard; and Arthur B. Rutledge, who will retire Dec. 31 as executive director-treasurer of the Home Mission Board.

Routh Marks 25 Years

Porter W. Routh, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention's Executive Committee, was honored for 25 years' service Sept. 20. The recognition took place at a testimonial dinner held by SBC leaders at Nashville's First Baptist Church. Nearly 500 persons attended.

Routh

Paying tribute to Routh were Albert McClellan, director of program planning of the SBC Executive Committee, Nashville; James L. Sullivan, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, Nashville; Robert S. Denny, general secretary, Baptist World Alliance, Washington; Doyle E. Carlton Jr., SBC Executive Committee member from Florida; and Bob Bell Jr., religion editor, Nashville Banner.

Carlton presented Routh with an appreciation gift from members of the Executive Committee.

W. C. Fields, public relations secretary of the SBC Executive Committee, presented a slide program highlighting 25 years of accomplishment under Routh's leadership.

H. Franklin Paschall, pastor of the host (Routh's) church and Executive Committee member, was master of ceremonies. Quoting Fields, he observed, "By any gauge, Routh is a big man. He wears a size 46 coat. And under it beats a heart that is 28,000 miles wide."

Small SS Meet Nov. 25-27

Needs of churches with Sunday school enrolments of 150 or less will be the focus of a Sunday school leadership conference for small churches at Ridgecrest (N. C.) Baptist Conference Center Nov. 25-27.

Registration information is available from Ridgecrest Baptist Conference Center, Box 128, Ridgecrest, N. C. 28770.

Freedom of Expression

by Hudson Baggett, Editor, The Alabama Baptist

Though freedom of expression is guaranteed by the First Amendment, the process of getting it began long before the Declaration of Independence and the War of Revolution. Fight for this freedom began when the Pilgrims and Puritans left England for our shores, but the battle for it goes on.

Back in 1710, sixty-five years before Concord and Lexington—a young German named John Peter Zenger arrived in New York with some good ideas and a lot of courage to speak his mind. He played the organ in church and his wife taught a Sunday school class. By 1733 he was publishing the New York Weekly Journal. Zenger was arrested in 1734 for criticizing the corrupt governor, William Cosby, who had Zenger arrested and tried. The real issue in the trial was freedom of speech. Zenger was acquitted. His trial was later called "the morning star of American liberty." It was also the great-grandfather of the First Amendment.

No doubt Zenger was inspired to speak his mind by his knowledge of such prophets as Amos and by people like Peter and John who defied the court to teach in the name of Jesus (Acts 4:18).

We may be wrong at times in our opinions, but the right to criticize those in high places is a precious one which distinguishes our type of democracies from governments who operate with a closed system.

Presidents and others who try to stifle freedom of expression are treading on dangerous ground. Yet, what has happened in this direction, revealed by startling revelations, is frightening.

Obviously, freedom of speech has limitations. Former Supreme Court Justice Holmes once remarked that "no one has the right to yell fire in a crowded theater." But what if there is a fire? Do we have the right to remain silent when there is danger?

There is a story about Roger Williams sailing on a ship with a fellow passenger who was constantly telling everybody the ship was heading for a deadly reef. He said it so often, and in such ludicrous tones, that the passengers—and even the captain—finally told him to keep quiet. Some even proposed that they throw him overboard. Later, the ship hit the reef. Said Roger Williams, "They had drowned the giver of the warning, but the reef remained."

Thus, there are both restrictions and responsibilities related to freedom of expression.

Uncontrolled free speech can stimulate crime. Think of the crimes committed in the name of liberty.

Napoleon, for example, spoke much of liberty, equality and fraternity while bathing Europe in blood. One of Napoleon's marshals addressed the people in one country which he had conquered in these words: "We have come to bring you liberty and equality, but don't let that go to your heads; the first one who makes a move without my permission will be shot." That sounds like the "liberation" of Communism! (Did you know that the people of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are "guaranteed by law, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, and freedom of street demonstration"?) What a joke, but it can happen here unless we insist on freedom of expression being more than a "guarantee" on paper.

Freedom of expression is essential in Baptist churches. Regretfully, this liberty is often abused and used as a license to hurt, disrupt and get even with those we dislike. Of all places, freedom of expression should be responsibly exercised in local churches and denominational meetings. Remember that the "fruits" of freedom are as important as its "roots."

Executive Board Recommendations to the Convention

Article VIII of the Constitution of the Kentucky Baptist Convention mandates the Executive Board to make a report to the annual convention and it further states, "At least 30 days prior to this meeting the board shall publish in Western Recorder its recommendations except in an emergency that may arise thereafter."

The following recommendations are scheduled to be brought to the 139th annual meeting Tuesday, Nov. 9, 1976, for its consideration:

I. Cooperative Program Budget Goals and Percentages:

The annual Cooperative Program goals, as well as the percentages for the division of Cooperative Program funds between Kentucky Baptist Convention causes and Southern Baptist Convention causes, are determined by the Kentucky Baptist Convention in annual session. These should now be recommended for 1977-78.

The following recommendation, approved by the Convention at Elizabethtown, Ky., Nov. 11-13, 1975, set the 1976-77 Cooperative Program Goals and percentages as follows:

	1976-77 Budget	1977-78 Budget
I. Cooperative Program Goal
A. Operational Budget . . .	6,000,000	7,200,000
1. Southern Baptist Convention Causes*.	1,980,000 (33%)	2,448,000 (34%)*
2. Kentucky Baptist Convention Causes	4,020,000 (67%)	4,752,000 (66%)*
B. Challenge Budget	1,200,000	800,000
1. Southern Baptist Convention Causes*.	408,000 (34%)*	272,000 (34%)
2. Kentucky Baptist Convention Causes	792,000 (66%)*	528,000 (66%)
Total Cooperative Program Goal	7,200,000	8,000,000
II. Other Estimated Income . .	676,589	700,000
III. Total Budget Goal.	7,876,589	8,700,000

* The distribution of these items is voted by the Southern Baptist Convention.

 The distribution of these items is voted by the Executive Board, Kentucky Baptist Convention.

 These percentages will be used provided the $5,500,000 1975-76 operational goal is exceeded.

* These percentages will be used provided the $6,000,000 1976-77 operational goal is exceeded.

II. General Recommendations for the 1977-78 Budget

1. We heartily recommend that all our churches seriously consider increasing their support to the Cooperative Program in their new budgets.

2. That Cooperative Program Day be observed Apr. 16, 1978, or the nearest convenient Sunday. Churches which do not regularly include the Cooperative Program in their budgets are urged to take a special offering on this Sunday. We hope all churches will consider the possible appropriateness of observing this additional offering.

3. We further recommend that the Vacation Bible School offerings be given to worldwide missions through the Cooperative Program.

4. That we approve the annual Thanksgiving offering for our Child Care Program.

5. That we approve the Mother's Day offering for charity work in our hospitals.

6. That we give approval to the annual offerings of the WMU Lottie Moon Christmas offering for foreign missions, Annie Armstrong Easter offering for home missions and the Eliza Broadus offering for state missions in September.

7. That we recognize the annual offerings of cooperating Baptist associations.

8. The Kentucky Baptist Convention does not recognize or approve any other special offerings aside from these mentioned above, and we heartily disapprove of any other appeals through our churches, organizations in the churches, or lists of members in the churches when such appeals are made by institutions or agencies sharing in Cooperative Program receipts. We recognize the right of our institutions to approach individuals for gifts of $100.00 or more.

9. That we again ask the Sunday schools to observe State Missions Emphasis Day for its institutional and educational value.

10. That we instruct all our institutions and agencies sharing in Cooperative Program receipts to furnish before Jan. 1 of each year a summary of their receipts and disbursements for the past year for publication in our annual; and a copy of their latest annual audits, made by a certified public accountant, to the office of our treasurer on or before Nov. 1 of each year. The treasurer is instructed to withhold Cooperative Program appropriations from any institution or agency which does not send in these reports by the dates indicated.

III. Program for Aging:

These two recommendations come as a result of a long, continuous study of the board's committee on aging.

A. At this point the Kentucky Baptist Convention should be encouraged to become involved in institutional care for senior adults only in relationship to a church, associational or regional grouping of churches or associations interested in providing such care. Community interest, involvement and participation would develop such a ministry in a localized area.

B. That an advisory person, presently successfully involved in levels of care from personal care through skilled care, be made available by this board to local churches, associations or groups who may be positively seeking a way to minister to the elderly in their local areas through institutional care. Our Convention's involvement at this point might include travel expense and honorarium for that advisory person—to be determined by the administrative office.

Construction is progressing on 70 two-bedroom apartments at Southern Seminary, Louisville. With more than 2,000 students, and over 70 percent married, the need for family housing continues. The project is set for January completion.

Puckett Addresses Midwestern

Addressing a record enrolment at Midwestern fall convocation services, Gene Puckett, editor of The Maryland Baptist and president of Midwestern's board of trustees, challenged the growing seminary family to a ''lifestyle of mission.''

Noting that Midwestern enroled 342 for the initial four-week term, a 10 percent increase over the same period a year ago, Puckett affirmed the vital importance of personal involvement, highlighting a developing emphasis on ''mission.''

''The new emphasis is a breath of fresh air,'' he stated. ''It does not suggest we discard the organized church with its programs and denominational convictions; but the new emphasis suggests we rediscover the sound biblical base for personal mission.''

Puckett was the first associate editor of Western Recorder.

Southern Seminary Tops Past Enrolment Records

Kentucky students, numbering 335, are part of a record-breaking enrolment at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Total enrolment this year stands at 2,033 students, an increase of seven percent over last fall's record-breaking enrolment. An even higher increase was noted among students in the degree programs of the seminary's schools of theology, religious education and church music. There the total reached 1,696, an increase of more than 11 percent over last fall.

Total enrolment for the 1975-76 academic year exceeded 2,400 students, making Southern Seminary the largest private college or graduate school in Kentucky.

SWBTS Names Watson

W. Marvin Watson, former U. S. postmaster general, has been named national chairman for Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary's ''Eight by Eighty'' campaign which seeks to raise $8 million by 1980.

Serving with Watson will be evangelist Billy Graham who has agreed to be honorary national chairman. Graham is expected to lend his support and influence as the campaign begins to go into select target cities around the country.

Watson, who served in the cabinet during the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, most recently was executive vice president for corporate affairs of the Occidental International Corporation.

The ''Eight by Eighty'' campaign seeks to raise $3 million for capital improvements and $5 million for the seminary's endowment fund.

Meet a French Baptist Radio Preacher

by Oscar Hoffmeyer Jr., Associate Editor, The Baptist Message

The assuring strains of ''Dieu est si Bon'' launches the unfolding drama of L'Heure Baptiste en Francais over 13 radio stations weekly throughout south Louisiana.

When Elie Woerner, a native Frenchman, speaks those words (''God is so Good'') he develops a special rapport with more than 200,000 of Louisiana's 900,000 French-speaking citizens in 18 parishes (counties).

The French Baptist Hour, first broadcast over Lafayette's KVOL in 1945 became part of the Louisiana Baptist Convention's mission program in 1955. Woerner assumed direction of the program in 1973 and until recently produced the program in the cramped confines of a bedroom in his home. Today, the energetic, witty, Frenchman packages the entire production when he begins the week each Monday morning in a new three-room, studio office.

He writes the script in longhand in French just as he will later preach the message. ''I write eight pages in a notebook. This will last 11 or 12 minutes on tape,'' he explained. Each item of the ''Ordre de Service'' is coordinated before he starts the taping. ''Dieu est si Bon'' introduces the program and is the theme song for the French Baptist Hour.

Bibles, prayer and the invitation for him to visit are offered to his listeners with the address for them to write requesting any or all of the three. After reading a scripture and a song special Woerner delivers the sermon and closes with an invitation. He translates the text of each song prior to its being taped for the library.

Woerner tapes each program segment and splices them into a master tape, timed to 28 minutes, copies the master and sends it to the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission in Ft. Worth to be reproduced in multiple copies and mailed to radio stations.

Responding to the 150 letters he receives per month without the services of a secretary consumes much of Woerner's time. ''Some of the people can't read, some have doctor of philosophy degrees, some are priests and nuns and some are unrelated to any church, but the same words are understood by all,'' Woerner explained, giving some examples.

''I enjoy your French program very much. I've been wanting to write to you, but I don't know how to write,'' an elderly listener said. ''So now I moved next to my daughter-in-law. She is the one who is writing for me. I would like for you to come and visit me and my sister. I would like to talk to you. . . .'' Woerner said the elderly people in their 70's spoke only French and were ready to accept Jesus.

Some refer to this Baptist preacher as they would a Catholic priest; others write to request Bibles in English or French, which are sent without charge. One request came in ''Dear Bible Company: Would you please send me one of your no-profit Bible.''

Woerner was educated in England and Wales and later at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, Tex. He is the son of a French Baptist minister who is semi-retired living in Douai, France. He married the former Glenda Smith of McLean, Tex. They are parents of two sons, David, 17, and Timmy, 15. The radio preacher is still a citizen of France. Members of his family are citizens of both countries.

Because of his military obligation to France he was recalled in 1961 during the Nigerian crisis. While there, he served as pastor of English language churches.

Louisiana Baptists provide support through the state's Cooperative Program and state missions offering for the French radio ministry and make no charges for any of the materials mailed or services performed. Even the air time is paid to each station.

Woerner has been promised part time secretarial help for next year to answer letters and mail Bibles. He plans more publicity for the program and he would like to initiate a cassette ministry that will be sent to listeners free as the Bibles are sent.

VERBIAGE

I was brought up in an era of more formal speech and behavior. Most young men and women recognized as a goal of maturity that of learning to behave like our elders and coming to the time when we could stand among them as intelligent adults, well poised, in self respect and acceptable composure. (That was before the rebellion.) Maybe we were a little too stiff, too formal, but I know that some of the changes that have now come about are not necessarily improvements.

Consider the question of today's acceptable speech. Crude expressions have not only come into common use as the parlance of the street but the same vernacular has become accepted for platform and rostrum use. For example: What we used to call a "heartfelt" impression has now become known as a "gut feeling." Now I ask you, is that improvement? Whereas we once had "heart religion," now we have "gut religion." To me, it seems more appropriate for one to feel it in his heart than in his guts. (Excuse my necessary use of the term I criticize.)

While on this subject should I mention the printing of words in much of the public press that used to be unmentionable, except possibly in the frankest, limited company? Then there is the growing tendency among church people to speak of "hiring" and "firing" ministers of Christ instead of "calling" them and asking for their resignations.

We used to call our offsprings "children," not "kids." Oh, we have always called them kids in a loose manner of familiar speech, but in writing or in any kind of reasonably formal utterance we referred to them as children. Now you read bumper stickers, "Have you hugged your kid today:" Speakers on rostrums talk about Sunday school and training "for the kids." Back when I used to speak of kids, my elders would remind me that "a kid is a goat."

Did it all start when we began to use modern speech translations of the Bible instead of the stately, reverent, King James translation? (Or shall I say King "Jim"?)

Our Baptist Heritage

As we have seen, the denominational rivalries of the mid-19th century produced some keen humor. They also produced one of the most influential movements ever to arise among Southern Baptists: Old Landmarkism, or simply, Landmarkism.

An attempt to establish Baptist identity and uniqueness, Landmarkism was the product of the acute minds of J. R. Graves of Tennessee (who had pastored the Mt. Freedom Baptist Church near Nicholasville) and J. M. Pendleton, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Bowling Green. The Landmarkers began with the judgment that only local Baptist churches were true New Testament churches (though they did not deny that there were Christians in other denominations).

Jack
Birdwhistell

Since only local Baptist churches were true New Testament churches, they argued, only Baptist baptism was valid, only Baptist ministers were true ministers, and the Lord's Supper was only for members of a local Baptist church. Christians coming to Baptist churches from other denominations, then were considered unbaptized, and visitors to a Baptist church were not to share in the Lord's Supper (this practice is known as closed communion). Many Baptist churches already held views similar to these at the time of Graves and Pendleton, but their writings, especially in the Tennessee Baptist, gave these ideas wide popularity in the Old Southwest. The movement had its opponents, however, who recognized that there had always been diversity among Baptists in Kentucky regarding questions such as "alien immersion" and close communion.

It was Landmarkism that also spread the popular idea that, on the basis of Matt. 16:18, there must have been a succession of local Baptist churches since the time of Jesus. Therefore, it was argued, Baptists proceeded from a "trail of blood" which included such diverse groups as Donatists, Cathari and Waldenses.

Especially strong in western Kentucky, Landmark ideas have nurtured and strengthened the faith of many Kentucky Baptists. Others have gradually moved away from these views as denominational rivalries lessen and as Baptists recognize the contributions of other denominations.

Reconciled To Jesus Christ

Benefits of Justification — Romans 5:1-5

1. Peace with God.

Peace with God is an intelligent and calm sense of friendship and fellowship with him. Through Christ's death peace with God was made available to us.

2. Access to God.

It is through Christ that we have continuing access into God's presence and favor. A believer in Christ may "come boldly unto the throne of grace" and receive a royal welcome.

3. Rejoicing in the hope of glory.

Complete triumph has not yet been experienced or obtained, but the believer in Christ has the assurance of one day being in the presence of God and being conformed to the image of Christ, that is, having a body like unto his glorious body.

4. Exultation in trouble.

Christ enables the Christian to conquer his trials and tribulations. When troubles and trials are met bravely and courageously, and in dependence on the divine strength, the Christian emerges purer, better and stronger.

Proof of God's Love — Romans 5:6-8

Men are sinners by nature, by choice and by practice. It is truly wonderful that "God is love" and loves sinners. Christ died for those who were without merit. Voluntarily, vicariously and victoriously "Christ died for the ungodly." We shall never cease to be grateful that God expressed his unmerited, unchanging, unfailing and unending love for us in and through the death of Christ, thereby transforming us from slaves of Satan into children of God.

Blessings of Salvation — Romans 5:9-11

While we were without Christ and hope, God took the initiative in reconciling us unto himself. His wonderful salvation is threefold in its nature.

1. Past.

When the sinner, who was without Christ, God and hope, repented and believed on the saviour, he was regenerated, saved from the penalty of sin, delivered from wrath and reconciled to the Lord.

2. Present.

Christ saves the believer from the power of sin as he yields himself to him.

3. Future.

Christ, who saves from the penalty of sin at conversion and from the power of sin during the Christian life, will save from the presence of sin when he takes the believer out of this world, where sin is so prevalent, and takes him to heaven.

Life and Work Series

Called To Be Saints

All who have believed on Christ to the saving of their souls God calls "saints." He expects them to be dedicated to him and faithful in his service. When they are faithful to their trust, the Lord can rely on them to carry out his purposes.

I Peter 1:13-16

To counteract the tendencies to do wrong, Peter urged believers to live soberly and hopefully, looking to the return of our saviour. He challenged them to nourish in their hearts a steadfast hope, one that is defiant of changing circumstances.

Because God is holy his children are exhorted to be holy also. He has a perfect right to demand that his children be characterized by holiness. It is good to know that we can depend on God to provide the necessary strength for us to live in a manner which pleases him.

I Peter 2:4-5, 9-10

All of us whom Christ has saved are "priests" and are permitted and enabled to share in the continuing work of the Lord by offering ourselves in loving obedience to him and in loving service to our fellowmen for him.

The birth from above qualifies one for the royal priesthood. Whatever of dignity, privilege, responsibility and power there may be in royal priesthood, we must remember that it belongs to all believers in Christ and not merely some of them.

The functions of the royal priesthood may be summarized in three words—sacrifice, intercession, and benediction. As members of the priesthood we come into God's presence, bringing our gratitude, praises and worship; also interceding with him and others. God is seeking worshipers, workers and witnesses who through enabling grace will live, speak and act in such a manner as to be a blessing to others.

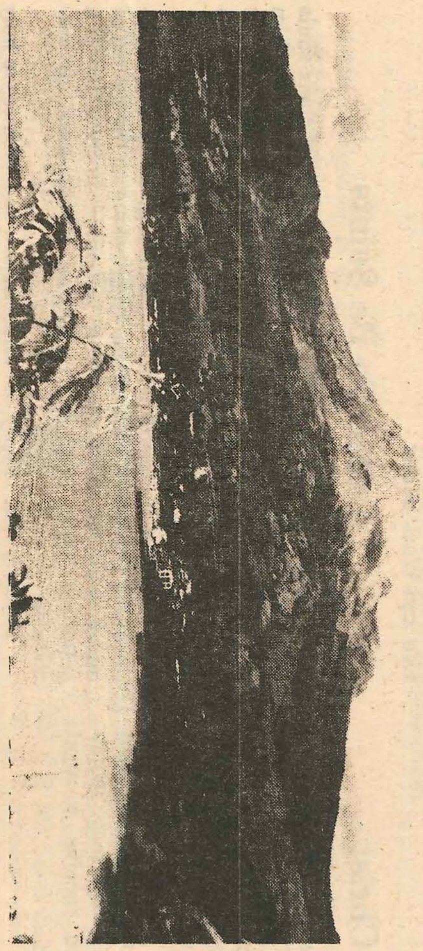
John 17:13-19

A large portion of the earthly life of Christ was given to prayer and meditation. In "The Lord's Prayer" (John 17) Christ did not ask the Father to deliver the disciples from temptation, suffering and sorrow, but that they might be preserved while passing through these experiences.

Neither did Christ pray for the satisfaction and honor of the disciples, but for their sanctification. He prayed that they might be set apart to do the specific work of representing him effectively. God's truth constituted the means through which they were to be sanctified. His representatives needed special cleansing grace to make them vessels fit for the use of the master.

As the Father had sent the Son into the world, Christ was sending forth his disciples as his representatives and messengers. What a high and holy privilege it is to be messengers of Christ to those who need his message!

Missions & Ministries



St. Pierre, Martinique, and 30,000 inhabitants were wiped out when Mt. Pelee erupted in 1902. Threats of a similar eruption on nearby Guadeloupe have put missionaries on emergency schedules working with thousands of evacuees.

Brotherhood and WMU Staffs Plan Together

National staffs of the Southern Baptist Woman's Missionary Union (WMU) and the Brotherhood Commission pooled their muscles for boosting missions education during a joint retreat in Rogersville, Ala.

In their first across the board staff consultation since 1968 WMU and the Brotherhood leaders pledged themselves to funnel missions information through every possible medium in a jointly prepared and jointly led strategy for missions education.

Leaders also charted a "bold mission" leadership conference at Glorieta (N. M.) Baptist Conference Center, July 9-15, 1977. The two missions organizations will offer training in major projects for the SBC's 1977-79 emphasis on bold mission.

Brotherhood and WMU will jointly sponsor new approaches to study, prayer and support of missions during the emphasis.

In addition, during the Glorieta conference, WMU and Brotherhood will offer a full range of training for their officers and their leaders. The two organizations will jointly stage evening sessions.

The 36 WMU and Brotherhood staff members discussed mutual concerns in camping, missions organizations on college campuses, promoting the home and foreign missions graded series of mission books, WMU and Brotherhood in language churches, and maintaining missions organizations in small churches. Task forces laid plans for prayer and study projects that will be promoted jointly during the bold missions emphasis in 1977-79.

State's Baptist Students At Danville Oct. 10-12

The 49th Kentucky Baptist student convention is scheduled at First Baptist Church, Danville, Oct. 8-10.

Principal speakers will be Ron Stone, pastor of Winchester's Central Baptist Church, and Glenn Hinson, professor of church history at Southern Seminary, Louisville.

Musical groups on the program include the Morehead State University BSU Choir; "Lord's Prayer," choir from the Kentucky School for the Deaf; Georgetown College BSU Choir; "Belmont Reasons," Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn.; and Eastern Kentucky University BSU Choir.

The 1975 BSU drama team, seminars in 12 areas, creative Bible study and recreational activities round out the two-day event.

The first session opens at 6:45 p.m. Friday evening.

Brotherhood Convention Set Oct. 7-8 at Berea

"Let the Church Stand Up" is theme of the 1976 Kentucky Baptist Brotherhood convention Oct. 7-8 at Silver Creek Baptist Church, Berea.

A report by 20 Kentucky Baptist men who formed a one-week reconstruction team to Guatemala in the wake of that country's physical disaster last spring will highlight this year's meeting. The group shares its testimony at the closing session Friday night following a bean soup supper.

Franklin Owen, executive secretary-treasurer of the state convention, will conclude the two-day meeting with an address on "Religious Faith, Moral Fiber and a Strong Nation."

Earlier, conferences will be held for Royal Ambassador leaders, Baptist Men's leaders, associational Brotherhood officers and Brotherhood work in general.

A golf tournament is scheduled to precede the start of the convention Oct. 7 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Berea Country Club. The evening session begins at 6:30 p.m.

Mission Giving

Our thanks to all the churches and associations for their mission support for Cooperative Program and designated Baptist causes during the fiscal year of our Convention which closed Aug. 31. You will note that they are listed by church names and in associational groups. We would appreciate your checking the record of your own church, and if there is any noted discrepancy in our records to report same to Mr. Barry Allen, our business manager, P. O. Box 43433, Middletown, KY 40243.

We thank God for the giving of our people that broke all existing records in convention totals during the past year. Pray for continued growing support. Though we are proud of this record we all know that if it were 100 times this much it would not adequately honor our Lord for all His benefits toward us.
