SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD OF THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

Foreword

THIS 1947 VOLUME of the Southern Baptist Handbook is appropriately dedicated to the 928 associational clerks who co-operated in such a splendid way in the collection of data. Reports were received before March 1 on 1946 work from nearly 98 per cent of the associations. This record is a tribute to the interest and hard work of the associational clerks. For the few associations where the 1946 records could not be obtained the 1945 figures are used.

The effectiveness of the associational clerk and the state and southwide statistical officers reflects the care or carelessness of the church clerks in the rural community and the large city churches. The church clerk, in turn, depends on varied church officers for his information. In a real sense, each church officer can feel the thrill of writing Baptist history in the reporting of each record. But his work is more than reporting facts, it is definitely creative. For the published totals serve to inspire or discourage, to spotlight weaknesses and points of strength, to graphically portray trends.

This 1947 Southern Baptist Handbook illustrates the point mentioned above. It is largely a handbook of the churches. The record of the small hamlet church can be compared, from the objective viewpoint of efficiency and proportionate progress, with the urban church. In the eyes of God, there are no "big" churches and "little" churches. Each church is of infinite importance as it serves as a lighthouse of Christian truth in a community.

Gains and losses, alike, are recorded. For example, the largest membership gain in the history of the Convention is reported, a gain of 213,751 for the year, to make a total membership of 6,079,305. At the same time, there is a slight loss from the number of baptisms reported in 1945. Per capita gifts to both mission work and local expenses reflect the period of inflation by soaring to record figures.

It is our desire that the 1947 Southern Baptist Handbook will serve as a handy reference book for all denominational workers, in each pastor's study and in each church library. That use will justify its publication. But we trust that the vast amount of information might also be studied thoughtfully and prayerfully as a source of light to point the path for tomorrow.

THE TREND IS STILL UP

Two denominations are included this year for the first time, the Brethren Church (which must not be confused with the Brethren, Church of), and Baptist Maritime Province in Canada. The total giving is larger than in any year ever reported by the United Stewardship Council. The largest preceding year was 1929 when the total giving was $514,992,305, as compared with $613,808,510, and included five denominations not reporting this year. This is an increase of 19% over 1929 and 20% over 1945. The denominations reporting this year that did not report in 1929 all made contributions smaller than the average for the denominations of their size. The membership has increased in the last year and since 1929, but the per member contribution has also increased.

There is a noticeable gain not only in Congregational Expenses, but in benevolence offerings both for denominational benevolence and for total benevolence. One of the causes of fluctuation in reports of Budget Benevolence is because items included in the Budget vary from time to time.

The large increase, particularly in some of the Foreign Mission items is due partly to the large amounts of money that were given for post-war rehabilitation funds. These funds usually include money for food and clothing and for rebuilding.

It still remains true that many members of some of these denominations give nothing or record either to current expenses or to benevolence, and it is also true that the most that is given is given in relatively small sums, and the question of how to cultivate this field of unsaturated members is one that concerns those who are interested in securing mission funds. It is interesting that the increase, with the exception of one denomination which made an extraordinary increase, are so nearly uniform.

The Supplemental Report was issued in March, 1946 and related only to Foreign Missions. This year the total contributions to Foreign Missions are not shown, but the per member contribution to Foreign Missions is shown, except for one denomination that did not report the Foreign Mission giving. There has been an increase here for the reasons given above.

These statistics are furnished by national officers of religious bodies, members of the United Stewardship Council. Budget Benevolence includes contributions to the missionary budgets of the reporting bodies. Denominational Benevolence includes gifts to any benevolence in the denomination whether or not it is included in the national denominational budget. The totals for columns C, D, E, F, G, H, are all larger than for the preceding year. The Gifts per member are also larger for K, L, M, and N.
