Make Ready for Three Great Undertakings

The old adage holds true, "The secret of victory lies in making a good ready." Certainly the success of any great spiritual undertaking can only be expected in prayerful, patient preparation. Southern Baptists are putting their hands to some great undertakings in the near future. These projects have come out of much prayer and thought. Their success largely hinges on the thoroughness of preparation being given, and to be devoted, to these efforts.

In the immediate future is the effort to reach the more than 2,300,000 non-resident members of Southern Baptist Churches. Transfer Church Membership Week will be observed September 13-20 in a second annual concerted effort to do something about this disturbing problem of "displaced members" who no longer live in the community where they are on the church roll. BAPTIST AND REFLECTOR has carried a series of articles by some of our Southern Baptist leaders dealing with the challenge of this segment of church members and offering practical suggestions for reaching and enlisting them in active relationship with the church in the locality where they now live. In making a good ready to solve this problem it is essential to realize that far more than getting people to "move their church letter" is involved. Transfer Church Membership Week is concerned to win these non-resident members to make their lives count for Christ through the church in the community where they now reside.

Then just beyond lies another great undertaking, Preparation Week September 20-27. This is to make a good ready toward the goal of "A Million More in '54" "The Pull of the People" a book by Dr. J. N. Barnette will be used in study and preparation in 1953 to reach the aim in 1954.

This quest is no high-pressure effort for head-lined effect. It is a great co-operative project born in a spirit of concern to reach the unreached and enroll them in Bible study and win them to Christ. It calls for careful, thorough surveys of the community, enlistment and training of additional workers, provision of more space, organization of new classes, new departments, new missions and branch Sunday Schools. It looks toward permanent results. The new Sunday School year beginning October 1 will be wonderfully opened by Preparation Week the last of September.

Still a third great undertaking, scheduled before the meeting of our state convention in Knoxville November 10-12, will be the Stewardship Week October 18-25, with schools of stewardship in hundreds of churches. Attention to the Scriptural doctrine of stewardship will deepen Christian living and strengthen the witness to Christ given through the churches to the ends of the earth. Make "a good ready" that these three undertakings may be blest to the glory of our Saviour.

Among the Associations With the Editor

Greeneville—the beautiful edifice of First Church of this city was the meeting place for the One Hundred and Sixty-Seventh Annual Session of Holston Association of Baptists for its first day and an evening session, meeting on the following day with Pine Crest Church, Johnson City. Moderator Freeman Wright presided over the sessions of this, one of the oldest of all of the associations and also one of the largest, with 103 churches. The beautiful auditorium of Greeneville, First Church was packed at the first session. Pastor W. M. Grogan and his people have one of the loveliest church edifices in all of our state. It was completed last year with the exception of the tower which is soon to be constructed. We had the privilege of attending the night session. This great association is confidently expected when all of the letters are tabulated to report 2,000 baptisms during the past year. T. C. Meador of First Church, Erwin, told us at the close of the session that Holston's Minutes this year would be dedicated to Dr. W. R. Rigell, pastor for the past twenty-three years of Central Church, Johnson City. Dr. Rigell, soon completing his ministry with Central Church of Johnson City, has been a beloved, useful leader in not only this association but Tennessee as well during these past years. The evidences of God's blessings upon the churches of this association can be noted in numerous ways: in the increase in baptisms, in the increase in property value and in the increase in memberships in the various organizations.

Morristown—Nolachucky Association met in its One Hundred Twenty-Sixth Annual Session with White Oak Grove Baptist Church near Morristown, H. B. Harris, pastor, and with the Warrensburg Church on the second day, John Hipsher, pastor. The annual sermon was brought by Pastor William J. Powell of Alpha Church on "Things a Disciple Should Know." A proposed revision of the Constitution engaged much of the attention of the body during the time we were permitted to be present with them. This association has forty-five churches; Brother Robert L. Seals is moderator. The people of White Oak Church bountifully entertained the body at the noon-day meal. The flat beds of five farm trucks placed end to end, were loaded with all manner of delicacies enjoyed by the 400 or 500 messengers and visitors present at this session.

Maryville—We attended the first day's session of Chilhowee Association meeting with Everett Hills Church in Maryville, J. Burch Cooper, pastor. Dr. Lloyd T. Householder, pastor of Broadway Baptist Church, Maryville is the moderator of this body which during the past year has experienced growth in practically every phase of the work. There are 59 churches. The past year they reported 919 baptisms, an increase of 108 over the previous period. The present membership is 16,854 with 12,850 enrolled in the Sunday schools, 5,527 in Vacation Bible schools, 5,222 in Training Unions, 2,545 in the W.M.U. and 630 in the Brotherhoods. Gifts to Missions last year were $76,260.09 and total gifts (for all purposes) $524,803.81. We gathered these figures from Miss Iva Williams, the Clerk, as she made the digest of church letter. "The Influence of Christians" was the subject of the annual sermon by Marcus Reed, based on Matt. 5:13-16. One of the most impressive reports on obituaries that we have ever seen and heard was presented by Mrs. Lloyd Householder together with Miss Marjorie Hopkins as soloist and Mr. Lloyd Householder, Jr. at the console of the organ. A fine spirit is evident in this association whose churches are making good progress. The second day's session met with Rocky Branch Church. We note with regret that Dr. P. B. Baldrige is going from this association and from our state to Clear Creek Mountain Preachers' School in Kentucky to serve on its faculty. Everett Hills Church graciously entertained the body at lunch, and we had an opportunity afterward going over the facilities of this fast growing church and hearing their plans for further expansion.

Courts Redford New Board Head

RIDGECREST, N. C. — (BP) — Dr. Courts Redford, 54, Atlanta, Ga., was elected executive secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Home Mission Board at its semi-annual board meeting today at Ridgecrest, N. C. He succeeds Dr. J. B. Lawrence, who has been executive secretary for twenty-four years and is retiring December 4, 1953.

The forty-five member board from twenty-two Southern and Western states accepted the nomination of Dr. Redford when his name was presented by its ten member committee with Dick Hall, Jr., chairman. Dr. Hall is pastor of the First Baptist Church, Decatur, Ga.

Dr. Redford has been assistant secretary since 1943. He has helped in the general work of the Board with special responsibility for a summer student program, the mission work in Alaska, Panama, Canal Zone, and Cuba.

Born in Calhoun, Mo., his family moved to Oklahoma soon after it became a state, settling on a farm near Granite, later they moved to another farm near Lone Wolf in the adjoining county. He attended rural grade school and graduated from the Lone Wolf High School. He was converted at the age of twelve and felt the call to preach about the time he graduated from high school. He is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla., and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex., and attended the University of Missouri. He returned to Shawnee, Okla., as educational director of the First Baptist Church and was professor of Bible and religious education at Oklahoma Baptist University. He went from this position to be stewardship and brotherhood director for Missouri Baptists. Three years later, he became president of Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar, Mo., and served there thirteen years until he came with the Baptist Home Mission Board in Atlanta in 1943.

He married Miss Ruth Ford of Oklahoma and they have nine children.

Dr. Redford is the author of several books, some of which are: Spiritual Frontiers and Crusade in Home Missions. He has written a number of denominational tracts and writes for Southern Baptist magazines.

Daily Russian Service Held At Bible Conference Grounds

RICHMOND, Me.—(RNS)—One of this year's features at the Bible Conference Grounds here was a daily service in Russian.

The services were held by Dr. I. V. Nep-rash, founder and director of the Russian Missionary Service.

There is a substantial group of White Russians, many of them Baptists, in and around this rural Kennebec River town.

Religious Groups Face New Fight on UMT

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(RNS)—Opponents of Universal Military Training will have a chance to renew their arguments before the newly appointed National Security Training Commission, but no public hearings will be conducted before this commission submits its recommendations to President Eisenhower.

Edgar Shelton, executive director of the commission, said that religious groups opposed to UMT can present their views by letter or by individual conference with members of the commission. For the most part, the commission will rely on a review of the testimony which these groups presented to the House Armed Services Committee in 1951, he indicated.

Religious leaders of all faiths have generally opposed UMT.

We call attention especially to the third quarterly report of the Treasurer of the Tennessee Baptist Convention, Dr. Chas. W. Pope, which is printed in this issue of the BAPTIST AND REFLECTOR.

It is a splendid report with receipts for the Cooperative Program amounting to $1,489,533.67 which is a gain of $145,928.58 over the same period of last year. With just a little extra effort at this point during the remaining Sundays of the Convention year which closes October 31, Tennessee Baptists will reach their goal of $2,000,000.00 for the Cooperative Program.

Powell's Chapel Church, Concord Association, Harry F. Nichols, pastor, is rejoicing over an excellent revival. L. S. Sedberry, Nashville, was the visiting preacher and Claud McAdams, Shop Springs, was the singer. This marks the seventy-eighth anniversary of the church. Mrs. Patrick Barrett, Church Clerk.

Bank Robber Surrenders After Bible Study

NEW YORK—(RNS)—A young artist walked into a police station here and confessed that he had held up a mid-Manhattan bank 14 months ago. He said he had made up his mind to surrender after weeks of serious Bible reading.

Joseph Napoli, 24, said he was the man who handed a note—saying "I've got a gun, give me your money or else"—to a teller in a West Side bank in June, 1952, took the $950 the teller handed over, and fled.

Napoli said he had been remorseful ever since but had read his Bible continually before deciding to confess.

He told police officials he had stuck up the bank in order to pay up accumulated debts and to finance further art studies.

Hines Is New Pastor Fowlkes Church

Marvin E. Hines began his work as pastor of the Baptist Church at Fowlkes Sunday night, July 19, coming from a 5½ year pastorate at Ramer. While at Ramer the church went to full time, completed and paid for a new parsonage, installed new church pews, added 92 members to the church, installed ceiling fans in the auditorium, and built a six-room Sunday school annex. Gifts amounted to more than $25,000.00, Sunday school attendance average 70, and Training Union 35 for the 5½ year period.

One of the unique features of Brother Hines' pastorate at Ramer is the fact that the church called Lyndell Lawless as pastor and he assumed his duties at the evening service on July 19 so that the church did not have a single service without a pastor. Brother Hines 34, was the oldest pastor in terms of service among all denominations in McNairy County.

The Hines' have two children, and the family has received a warm welcome to the field at Fowlkes.

A revival has just closed with Bernard Scates of First Church, Ripley, doing the preaching and "Red" Presson of Dyersburg, leading the singing. There were two additions to the church bringing the total number of additions to six since Brother Hines assumed the pastorate.

The many friends of Mr. Stanley M. Armstrong will be saddened to learn of his death at Gatlinburg, July 29, where he and Mrs. Armstrong have made their home for a number of years. Mr. Armstrong was a recognized choir master and song leader and took part in revival meetings throughout the South.

Pastor John H. Taylor reports a wonderful revival meeting at the Dry Creek Baptist Church when eighteen were saved, thirteen united with the church, twelve of these being by baptism, and on the following Sunday a record Sunday School attendance was reported. Brother Barney L. Flowers was the preacher in the services. This church is in Salem Association.

Standards for Christian Leaders

Concerning this letter to Timothy, from which the above texts are chosen, the following is quoted from an able expositor who preached and wrote nearly a quarter of a century ago. "No young man can peruse it without coming into contact with great principles which are as important today as when they were first expressed; and no minister of the Gospel can neglect it, without depriving himself of much that is invaluable for the right discharge of the duties to which he has been set apart. Nay, in an age when charity in the faith is in danger of degenerating into latitudinarianism, and liberty in the Church seems by many to be developed into license, we may all learn valuable lessons from this pre-eminently practical and plain-spoken letter." The notes that follow below will be grouped around some striking quotations from the printed text.

"Exercise Thyself Rather unto Godliness."

The Greek word used here suggests the translation, "gymnasium thyself." The connotation is significant. Like the athlete, the Christian leader is to "keep fit" spiritually. He does so by regular and strenuous exercise such as the facilities of a well-equipped gymnasium provide. This spiritual fitness means not only a more effective witness here and now but also a more abundant entrance into the life to come. This is one of several of Paul's inspired "faithful sayings." Exercise makes for strength and health.

"Be Thou an Example of the Believers."

If we follow the translation of Weymouth as he renders verse twelve, Christian leaders will try to be examples in five respects. The first is in "speech." Truly, all should be careful of what they say and how they say it. The second is in "conduct." The daily life we live is far more effective, either for good or for bad, than any of us can fully realize. The third is in "love." This reminds of "Love never faileth" (1 Cor. 13:8a). The fourth is in "faith." Remember that it is called a "shield" (Eph. 6:16). The fifth is in "purity." Jesus included this as a Beatitude (Mt. 5:8).

"Give Attendance to Reading."

The printed word is still a potent factor in the qualifications for Christian leadership. With the Bible at the center, in our reading; and then with good religious literature both from periodicals and books, written by those who love and try to shape their lives after the Bible; to be supplemented by as much of the informative and entertaining from the purely secular areas, as time will permit, leaders are better equipped to lead.

It is surprising how modern in application are some of the ancient writings. On the other hand, the modern popular writer often proves disappointing. But in any case, the Christian's mind (through carefully selected and balanced readings) should be "thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (2 Tim. 3:17b).

"Neglect not the Gift."

The Apostle formulates this injunction positively in his second letter to Timothy: "stir up the gift of God" (1:6). Christian leaders have gifts or talents which are trusteeships or stewardships from God. It may be that of preaching, teaching, organizing, counseling, writing, making money, healing, building, or a number of other gifts. Whatever it is, it is God-given and should be used for His glory and for the advancement of His cause and kingdom. To fail to use is to abuse. Further, to fail to use is to lose. They are always to be regarded as functional and not ornamental.

"Meditate upon These Things."

The central concept, here, is to concentrate one's thoughts and energies upon the task at hand. In Biblical terminology, this means dedication. One cannot be a dependable leader, in any relationship, without concentration or dedication. This is even more the case with Christian leadership. Paul, in another place and writing concerning himself, says, "This one thing I do" (Phil. 3:13). Half-hearted discipleship results in faulty workmanship. The work of the Church, as it advances the cause of Christ, is too important to admit of partial or incomplete dedication.

"Take Heed . . . Unto the Doctrine."

Goodspeed translates, "Look out for yourself and for your teaching." One's teaching is a reflection of one's being. Christian leaders forfeit their right to lead if and when they stray away from the teachings of the Bible. But if their doctrines are derived from the Scriptures and they are able to show a "Thus saith the Lord" in support of them, they should by all means be heard and heeded. To ignore and turn aside from the teachings of God's Word is to invite tragic disaster and utter ruin. We are to "continue in them." Therein lies salvation for ourselves as well as for those who hear us. So mote it be.

LAUGHS

Here and There

"Tell me, sir," said the newspaper reporter, "how have you been able to make such a success of your business and at the same time gain such a wide knowledge of world affairs?" "Simple," said the tycoon, "I read books." "But when do you find the time?" "I keep a pile of books on my desk," was the reply, "and I open one whenever I'm on the telephone and the person I'm talking to says, 'Just a moment, please.'"

An American tourist was traveling abroad for the first time. Entering England, he was confronted by two passageways, one marked "British Subjects," the other "Foreigners." He promptly headed for the first one. When he showed his American passport, a guard informed him that he would have to enter the other way. "But I'm no foreigner," the tourist protested. "I'm an American!"

The company commander had what was almost a phobia for inspecting the rookies as they performed guard duty. One day after he had been ordered by the sentry to halt he asked with an amused air, "Sentry, what would you have done if I hadn't obeyed your orders?" "I would have summoned the corporal of the guard, sir." "Oh, is that so? Well, when the corporal arrived, what would you have had to say to him?" The sentry looked his superior in the eye. "Sir," he said soberly, "I would have said, 'Corporal, I'm on duty at this post. Drag that body aside—it's in my way!'"

My mother tells about sitting in church behind a 4-year-old girl who was being cared for by her grandmother. It was a hot Sunday and the little doll had the acute squirms. She kept twisting and turning and whispering. And her grandmother kept telling her to keep quiet. Finally the little girl reached the end of her rope. "Why do you want me to keep quiet?" she whispered loudly. "Are you afraid I'll wake up all these other people?"

The Lord's Prayer is the most perfect of all prayers, but it has had to withstand a great deal of mumbling and confusion, especially from children trying to learn it from poor enunciators or from muttering crowds. One little boy begged: "Give us this day our jelly bread." A New York City child petitioned: "Lead us not into Penn Station."

At the height of the dispute over extending excess profits taxes, Speaker Joe Martin said he and Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan'l Reed were really "Not so far apart. There was just one word separating us. Dan said 'no' and I said 'yes'."

On August 3rd when the bugle blew for supper 227 had registered for Training Union week at Linden. These represented 21 associations, all enthusiastic, ready for fellowship, food, conferences, inspiration and new friends. These testimonies will enable us to know some of the values of Camp Linden.

An Intermediate who has attended Camp Linden for each Training Union week says: "I enjoy camp more every year. I have been each year since this camp was built. On Thursday when Brother Renick gave that wonderful sermon, it meant more to me than anything else at Camp ever has. God has been much closer to me since that night. It made me especially happy because two boys from the Mid-State All Star Baseball team were spoken to by the Lord. Also my girl friend dedicated her life to the Lord. I got to thinking after Thursday night that maybe it was the Lord's will for us to lose that championship ball game. It was possibly the faith and fellowship that moved those boys closer to the Lord. I know now that "All things work together for good."

A Junior girl says, "Camp Linden has meant a wonderful inspiration to me and a knowledge that you can have wonderful enjoyment and still be a good Christian. I have enjoyed the conferences, the meetings, services, the messages and everything about camp. It is a wonderful place and I think every young person and old person too should go at least one time to Camp Linden."

Nancy Miller says, "When I go back, I will know better how to do in my Training Union."

Judy Lane, says: "I had not gone to Training Union much before I came but Camp has shown me what I have been missing."

John Lane says: "Camp has helped me to learn to get along better with people."

An Intermediate from Jackson says: "I feel that while I was here that God called me to preach the gospel. Camp Linden is a bright spot in my heart."

Annette Clark says: "If you really want to be inspired and enjoy being a Christian, you should come to Camp Linden. The leaders are wonderful and decisions are made for Christ in a wonderful way."

Warren Tinker says: "Camp Linden is like a little Ridgecrest."

Sandra Medlin says: "It's a good place to make friends and almost everybody gets to be friends before it's over."

Martha Milan had this to say. "I think Linden is a wonderful place. It was here last year that I gave my life entirely to the Lord's work."

Nell Nuckolls says: "I especially enjoyed the campfire services. They have meant so much to me."

Josephine Hargett from Crockett association says; "Camp Linden has meant a lot to me. It's the first time I've been to a church camp."

Ila Ruth Cook says: "Camp Linden has helped me in knowing the responsibility of Training Union and how I can help."

Norma Cox says: "Camp has inspired me to determine in my heart to be more faithful and loyal to my church."

Dorothy Jean Vaughn says: "Camp Linden has meant so much to be because of such good recreation."

Bobby Earl Ball says: "I think Camp Linden has brought me close to God because of the sincere teachers I have had."

Mary Ann Carter says: "The recreation is wonderful and the food great."

Fay Methvin says: "This week has meant reverence, serious thinking as well as fun and recreation. It has made me feel closer to God."

Ann Craddock says: "I only wish more of our young people from our Training Unions could come and participate."

Hazel Sadler says: "Thanks to all the people who have helped to make this Camp possible."

Monte Daniel says: "I decided last night to become a missionary nurse."

Mrs. William R. Brown says: "This has been a new and wonderful experience for me."

Janice Simpson says: "Camp Linden has been a wonderful experience. The fellowship with other Christians, presence of God, and chances to be a witness, have helped me find the will of God for my life."

Charles Hosay says: "Camp Linden, a congregation of friends, striving to be more faithful companions to Him who said, "ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."

Janice Dotson says: "Among all the wonderful experiences I have had at Camp Linden, the most inspirational was just to see the young people as they took such an active part in the various activities. Not only the talent shows and stunt night but the conferences as well."

Ann Fletcher says: "To me Camp Linden is a place of many wonderful things. First of all, it shows us the appreciation of the love of God. Then it has showed us the meaning of Training Union and the art of living together. So you see the leaders of Camp Linden are doing a wonderful job."

Camps in Retrospect

Camptime is over and hundreds of tired, happy boys and girls have put away autograph books and programs for another year. Perhaps little remains as a tangible evidence of camp experience—a battered mission book, an honor camper award, a curious assortment of souvenirs, a scrap of song, an occasional mention of "we did thus-and-so at camp." Yet surely, there must have been some lasting impression for good made on the minds and hearts of the 1490 young people attending the G.A., R.A. and Y.W.A. Camps in Tennessee this summer. There were 830 enrolled in the camps at Linden and 660 at Carson Springs. Of the total, 545 were boys.

Someone stirred the campers to give to cause of missions for the mission offerings totaled $796.98. They were prompted to give not only their money but themselves to the Lord. Twenty-three boys and girls accepted Christ as their Saviour. There were 99 dedications or rededications. Who could begin to measure the influence of a camp experience on the life of a young person? Perhaps the churches have already felt a surge of new life in their organizations. One little girl returned from camp to call her pastor's wife and request help on a problem. As it developed, the problem was that the child had discovered a list of things they should be doing in their G.A. and she wanted help in accomplishing them.

The summer camping program could never have experienced this measure of success had it not been for the cooperation and prayers of countless people all over the state and for the loving, joyful service of the camp personnel.

All associational-wide committee members for "A Million More in '54" are urged to attend the State Sunday School Planning Meeting. This meeting will be held in the Belmont College Chapel, August 27-28, 1953. Registration and room assignment for associational-wide committee members will begin at 9 A.M. Thursday in Belmont College Chapel. The program will begin at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and close Friday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock. An excellent program has been planned. Will you pray for the success of this meeting.

A Package of Materials

A package of materials is being sent from the Sunday School Department of the Sunday School Board to pastors, superintendents, educational directors, associational missionaries, associational superintendents, all full-time state workers, and all editors of denominational papers throughout the southland.

This package includes a letter from Dr. J. N. Barnette; the 1953-54 Calendar; a special folder for the state and associational planning meetings entitled "Steps to Victory;" January Bible Study folder; "Know Your Prospects;" one copy of the Victory Card and "That My House May Be Filled."

Friends, please read carefully and prayerfully Dr. Barnette's letter and all the printed materials. Then let your imagination cut its capers as you dream, plan, pray, and work for the greatest victory in the history of Southern Baptist as we move together in this major missionary opportunity.

Almost a Million

Almost a million leaflets have been mailed out from your state Sunday School Department to the Sunday School Superintendents of each church during the last two weeks. The title of these leaflets are: "The Cradle Roll Can Enrol 90,000 Babies in '54"; "Together For a Million More in '54—Nursery Quota 80,000"; "Reaching 80,000 more Beginners in '54"; "How Primary Workers Can Share in 'A Million More in '54'"; "Two Million Juniors"; "How Intermediate Workers Can Help Reach 'A Million More in '54'"; "Young People Must Share in 'A Million More in '54'"; "Adults Provide an Open door to 'A Million More in '54'"; and "Using the Extension Department to Help Win 'A Million More in '54.'" These leaflets are to be used to stimulate greater interest in the objective "A Million More in '54."

The leaflets were prepared, printed, and sent to your state Sunday School Department ment free from Your Baptist Sunday School Board. Your state Sunday School Department assorted, wrapped and mailed to the Sunday school superintendents.

These leaflets are now in the hands of the Sunday school superintendents across the state. We pray that these leaflets will be placed in the hands of the present and prospective age group workers that they too may share in helping their church reach its part of "A Million More in '54" for Bible study.

C-N Enrollment Expected To Top 1000

JEFFERSON CITY. The largest enrollment in Carson-Newman's history is expected at the beginning of the fall term September 8. All eight girls' dormitories are filled, and a substantial number of other students are on a waiting list hoping to take any places made available in the event of possible cancellations. Waiting list for men's facilities already numbers over 40. However, homes are available in town for them. Total enrollment is expected to exceed 1,000 students, and plans for further expansion are under way. Anyone planning to enter this fall should get application blanks in immediately.

Several new courses in economics, courses in psychology and education that will meet all of the requirements for teacher certification, a complete revision of French and other language courses, and the addition of a new curriculum in sacred music will feature curriculum changes and improvements for the coming year.

Freshmen will arrive at Jefferson City Tuesday, September 8. Their three-day orientation program helping them become acquainted with the college and with each other will get under way at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday evening in the John T. Henderson Auditorium. Upperclassmen will register September 11. Classes begin Monday, September 14.

New faculty members coming to Carson-Newman this year will be Dr. Charles L. Rogers and Henry Dickenson in the Department of Biology; Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Miles in the Sociology and Music Departments; Mrs. Freddie Clark, Assistant Director of Guidance; Paul J. Haigh, Assistant Professor of Mathematics and Physics, and Mrs. Margaret Haynes in the Music Department.

Among students to be enrolled at the College this fall will be some from China, South America, Canada, Palestine, and the Philippine Islands. Also included in the student body will be Indians from Cherokee and the son of a missionary to Formosa.

Peyton's Creek Church, Monoville, in New Salem Association held an eight day revival with Rev. Dillard Hagan of Knoxville assisting Pastor R. D. Brooks. There were 16 conversions; 14 additions to the church by baptism and 1 by letter.

"I am just back from a very good meeting with the Baptist Church at Swan Quarter, N. C. My nephew, Rev. Reese Kyzar, a third-year student at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, N. C., is the pastor. It was a joy to serve with these good people. The only unpleasant experience I had (except those the devil always employs) was the mosquitoes work 'overtime.' I am ready to render any service I am asked to do."—J. R. Kyzar

Ground Breaking for Women's Dormitory

JEFFERSON CITY. Ground breaking ceremonies for a new dormitory for women were held on the Carson-Newman College campus August 18, at 7:00 p.m. Judge Hamilton S. Burnett, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, was the principal speaker.

For the past eight years, the college has had a larger enrollment each year than the preceding year. Prospects are good for the largest enrollment in the 103 years of the college's existence. The college has been turning away female applicants or placing them on the waiting list since early June.

This new dormitory, to be located just north of Sarah Swann, will relieve the housing problem considerably. When completed, the dormitory will house 164 girls. Only one wing is to be built at present. It will have rooms to house 82 girls, a matron's suite, a guest room, prayer room, kitchen, and a large parlor. The rooms will be built in suites with a bath for every four girls. It will be colonial in design and modern in every respect.

Korean Armistice

Thanks for Freedom now to worship and homes unblasted by bombs; paid for again with tears and blood! Oh! how our hearts ache for the boys who have paid the price in torture, hunger, and cold.

Thanks to

Our mothers who will never hear that "Hi Mom" in this life again. We suffer with you, knowing it may be ours next time.

How can we thank those who have paid in full. Words are not enough; let us be busy during this Peace to be ready when beasts seek to devour again. Let us grow strong that it may take less blood, less tears, less boys next time. If they must fight, let them be ready. I have a boy!

Resolutions Praise Dr. A. H. Hopson's Ministry

Following a nine year pastorate at First Church, Lebanon, Dr. A. H. Hopson's going from our state to the pastorate of First Church, Huntsville, Alabama, was the occasion of resolutions of deep regret at losing him from Wilson County Association and from the pastorate of First Church, Lebanon, where he has served with great ability and devotion. Drawn up by the Executive Committee of the Association, J. H. Rushing, clerk, the resolutions termed Dr. Hopson's ministry, both as pastor of the church and moderator of the association "has been one which showed him to be a man who walks and talks with God," commending him to the church at Huntsville "as one who is able, willing and consecrated to Christ's Kingdom."

Virginia Baptist Editor Challenges House Action

RICHMOND, Va.—(BP)—The House of Representatives of the federal government at Washington, D. C., acted unwisely in raising the House chaplain's salary and making him, for all practical purposes, a full-time employee, thinks Dr. Reuben Alley, editor, Virginia Religious Herald. The action amounts to use of public tax funds for a religious purpose.

"By unanimous vote a few hours before adjournment the House of Representatives raised the salary of the House chaplain from $3,000 to $4,250 a year. Proponents of the bill pointed out that the present incumbent, Dr. Bernard Braskamp, had made the position "a full-time job" since coming into office three years ago. "He regards the entire House, their families, and all Congressional employees—about 2,000 people in all—as his ministry, his parish." Dr. Braskamp retired from active ministry in the Presbyterian church three years ago when he accepted the appointment by the House.

"That is the substance of a news report from Washington. Apparently everyone was happy with the decision to use public tax funds to pay a Christian minister who will be pastor of congressman. Though the implications are obvious and serious, not a single congressman raised objection. The exigencies of the case seem to make it expedient for the government to employ Christian ministers as chaplains in the armed services, but that is quite different from using public tax funds to pay the salary of a pastor for congressmen. Every intrusion upon the principle of separation of church and state appears easier."

Glorieta Auditorium Named for T. L. Holcomb

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(BP)—The Glorieta Baptist Assembly auditorium has been named the Holcomb Auditorium in honor of Dr. T. L. Holcomb, former executive secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.

The action taken at the August meeting of the Baptist Sunday School Board was announced by James L. Sullivan, successor to Dr. Holcomb.

The auditorium, when completed, will care for fifty conference and classrooms. The stage will have complete facilities for dramas and large musical programs. Dressing and rest rooms, storage rooms, pipe organ chambers, radio and television control rooms, lighting, etc., will also be provided.

Architecture of the auditorium is New Mexican "territorial." It will have a large tower, complete with Carillon bells, amplifier system, and reflective lights.

The first section of the auditorium is already completed and is in use this summer.

GREY CATS

Light renders two distinct services to loveliness. Modestly, and with great secrecy, light creates beauty; openly, and with obvious pride, it exhibits it. Without light, beauty would be impossible. Loveliness, as Richard Jefferies, our prince of naturalists, points out, is the triumph of light. "It reddens the cherry; it tints the rose; it ripens the wheat; it touches a woman's face with the golden-brown of ripe life—ripe as a plum. As the great painters of women's faces knew—Rubens, for instance—there is no other hue so beautiful as this human sunshine tint." Then, having brought beauty into being, it engineers the admiration of its handiwork.

I.

A French proverb, which Dumas uses as the title of one of the chapters of his "Three Musketeers," affirms that, at night, all cats are grey. The aphorism is obviously designed to embalm the principle that it is the primary prerogative of light to enable us to distinguish between things that differ. In a poor light, chalk looks pretty much the same as cheese; wine as water; brass as gold; a weed as a flower; a mongrel as a champion; a painted courtesan as a peerless beauty. In the grey dawn or the gathering dusk or the falling twilight, foes and friends closely resemble each other. Many a battle has been won, as Gideon won his struggle with the Midianites, by throwing the enemy into confusion in the darkness and turning every man's hand against his brother.

Even in the terrific conflicts of the present century, it happened more than once that, in the night, great battleships fired upon vessels that flew their own flag. Fenimore Cooper's redoubtable hero knew better than to attempt, in broad daylight, to masquerade among the wigwags as an Indian. No competent chemist would make up a prescription in the semi-darkness; he knows that, like the cats in the proverb, his powders and potions and poisons look very much alike under such conditions.

II.

A darkened mind finds itself in the same dilemma. To a savage, a box of beads seems to be of equal value with a casket of jewels. In the early days of America and of these southern lands, vast tracts of fertile territory were obtained from the aboriginal inhabitants in exchange for a handful of glittering baubles. A cannibal sees no essential or fundamental difference between a man and a beast; they are both good to eat, especially the man. All the processes of mental enlightenment have the effect upon the universe at large that daybreak had on Dumas' cats. A toddler sees no difference between mushrooms and toadstools, between the tempting cherries of the deadly nightshade and the appetizing fruits in his own garden, between the sweets that his mother brought him from the store and the chocolate-coated tablets in the medicine chest. A baby, unenlightened on such matters, would as soon play with a snake as with a skipping rope.

What is the ultimate end of all education? It is good, of course, to initiate a child's mind in the mysteries of cube roots, physical geography, and algebraic equations. But all this is largely a means to an end. That end is the development of his mind and character. He must be taught reading and writing and arithmetic; but he must also be trained, in the fuller light that his teachers bring to him, to detect the difference between the beautiful and the gaudy, between courage and bravado, between liberty and licence. It is for want of just such insight that a man may mistake a daub for a masterpiece, a plausible scoundrel for a knight in shining armour, a hypocrite for a saint.

All cats look grey at night. With the dawn of knowledge and of wisdom, a man realizes the difference between the synthetic and the real, between sportsmanlike competition and ruthless self-assertion, between the spurious and the genuine, between the false and the true.

III.

Following the same line of personal evolution, he will learn, as the light grows from dawn to noonday, to distinguish between faith and superstition, between a well grounded hope and a nebulous, Micawber-like expectation, and between love on the one hand and sentimentality or sensuality on the other. For these three things—Faith, Hope, and Love—though authoritatively declared to be the three greatest factors in human experience, are surrounded by things that in the uncertain glimmer of an un instructed mind, can easily be mistaken for them.

In his "Born in Exile," George Gissing argues—perhaps with the Frenchman's grey cats in mind—that an important decision should never be taken after dark. The brain is either utterly exhausted or preternaturally excited. Artificial light is not conducive to exact intellectual equilibrium.

"Last night," says Gissing's heroine, "I wrote to father, but I shall not give him the letter."

"Ah, well," replies her friend, "one can't

Hammerskjold Sees Success of UN Linked to Religious Principles

NEW YORK—(RNS)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammerskjold told a group of Christian laymen here that the world organization's hope for success rests on its being "blessed by Almighty God and founded on changeless religious principles."

His statement was made in accepting from Wallace C. Speers, chairman of the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, a permanent visitors' register for the meditation and prayer room at U.N. headquarters.

Mr. Hammerskjold said that the spiritual backing provided by the Laymen's Movement and similar groups "have been a tremendous help" to political leaders seeking to create an effective world organization.

"In fact," he added, "this prayer room can truly be regarded as the real center of the United Nations even though it is located in a corner of the General Assembly building."

Mr. Speers noted that temporary visitors' record books which the Laymen's Movement began providing last February show that more than 40,000 persons have made use of the prayer room since then.

Book Received

Preaching from Pictures, by Kenneth W. Sollitt; W. A. Wilde Co., Boston; $2.50; 150 pp. This revised edition carries colored prints where possible in place of the black-and-whites used before. Twelve worship services are presented, built in each instance around a famous religious picture which is used with effectiveness to illustrate a Biblical teaching.

help distrusting the midnight; one has confidence in a purpose formed on such a morning as this."

Light—the light by which men discern, discriminate, and distinguish—was the ideal of the Jew. No word occurs more frequently or impressively in the ancient Hebrew scriptures. It is the keynote of prophetic literature. "Thy light shall break forth as the morning." "Thy light shall rise in obscurity." And so on; every page is peppered with such passages. And the sacred books of a later dispensation perpetuate the same thought. "I am the Light of the World; he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life."

Clearly, the supreme and ultimate end of all revelation is to illumine. As with physical and intellectual illumination, the value of the light lies in the power of discrimination that it confers. The man who basks in that celestial brightness will see all things in their true colours, in their real character, and in their just perspective.—The Australian Baptist

Treasurer's Financial Report

November 1, 1952—July 31, 1953

The following report is the best ever made by this office at the three-quarter stage. The period November 1, 1952 through July 31, 1953 represents three-fourths of the present Convention Year. Cooperative Program receipts for this period are approximately $10,500.00 less than three-fourths of our $2,000,000.00 goal for the year. With a little extra giving during August, September and October, Tennessee Baptists could go to the Convention in November having achieved a $2,000,000.00 Cooperative Program Goal.

During the nine months of the present Convention Year Cooperative Program receipts amounted to $1,489,533.67 which is a gain of $145,928.58 over the same period last year. Designated gifts amounted to $392,962.47 which is a gain of $42,964.73 over last year. Total Cooperative Program, Designated and Foundation gifts amounted to $1,981,282.51.
