"We can put the Cooperative Program in the Church

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

TO ALL SOUTHERN BAPTISTS

Re: Increasing the Cooperative Program

Dear Friends:

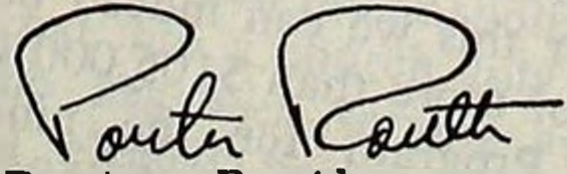

There are two ways we can join in increasing the amount of funds available for missions through the Cooperative Program during this year:

1. We can be more effective in our own personal stewardship. On an average Southern Baptists give less than 2-1/3 per cent of their income. Everything we have comes from God. Jesus gave himself for us. We can give at least a tithe as an expression of our gratitude to God.

2. We can put the Cooperative Program in the church budget on the basis of a definite percentage. Also, we can help plan our church budget to make possible a larger percentage of total gifts for missions through the Cooperative Program. Missions is the business of every Baptist Church.

Please prayerfully and earnestly join with me in taking these two steps this fall.

With World Concern,

Porter Routh
Executive Secretary

Budget on the basis of a definite Percentage."

Porter Routh is executive secretary of the Executive Committee and treasurer of the Southern Baptist Convention. He is a layman of great personal dedication, a journalist in background and a man who has a personal commitment to missions. His office is in Nashville, Tennessee.

Observations

HERE AND THERE

It is good to note that there is vigor in our Baptist life. This I have observed during the past week in visiting several associations. Holston, oldest of the 64 associations in Tennessee, at its 171st annual meeting, had good reports from its 113 churches and received four new churches. An enlarged program of local missions will be inaugurated by the association.

Nolachucky Association gave serious discussion to its mission work and to the employment of an associational missionary. This matter received democratic discussion by messengers from the churches.

Chilhowee Association received encouraging reports of an increase in baptisms well above last year's. The time of next year's meeting was changed from August to October. The work is well organized in Chilhowee. While in Maryville we had the pleasure of viewing First Church's beautiful new edifice which they will enter Aug. 25. It is a most imposing building on a new six acre lot.

Campbell County Association celebrated their 50th anniversary this year, with their meeting presided over by Moderator Vern Powers.

Sequatchie Valley Association, in its annual meeting October 15, reported mission gifts of $15,156.96 and total gifts of $106,745.63. There were 205 baptisms, an increase of 39 over last year. The 26-church association withdrew fellowship from First Church, Pikeville, "for lack of cooperation with association, failure to report, receiving members by alien immersion, and for voting to withdraw support from association, Tennessee Baptist Convention, and Southern Baptist Convention". First Southern Baptist Church, Pikeville, was recognized as a cooperating church and its members seated. The association also withdrew fellowship from Layne's Chapel Church "for practices not followed by missionary Baptist churches, failure to report, and failure to cooperate" according to the association. Wayne Bassette, pastor of First Church, Dunlap, was elected moderator for the coming year. The association set the next meeting at First Church, Jasper, October 23-24, 1958.

Many other associations will be meeting in the weeks ahead. It is encouraging to note the growth expressed in numbers, the increase in the number of baptisms, the new churches, and the enlarged support that is being given to our mission, educational, and benevolent work through the Cooperative Program.

The treasurer's report for the first nine months of this State Convention year is carried in this issue, beginning on page 8. Cooperative Program receipts gained $105,387.07 above the same period last year; also there is a gain of $84,248.65 in designated receipts, while receipts from the campaign for Tennessee Baptist schools revealed a loss of $25,699.74.

Total receipts of $3,147,511.48 are the best that Tennessee Baptists have ever reported. For this we can indeed be grateful. The gain of more than $105,000 in the Cooperative Program for the nine months, however, will call for nearly $95,000 additional giving above last year's amounts, before October 31, if Tennessee Baptists reach their $2,800,000 goal—a $200,000 increase this year in the Cooperative Program.

Nearly all pastors in Tipton County took a stand and joined in a vigorous campaign which defeated the return of legalized liquor by a vote of three to one. The wets had called for the referendum which went against them in what was reported by the Covington Leader as the most one-sided liquor balloting ever taken in Tipton County. Pastor D. P. McFarland of First Church, Covington and Pastor R. Y. Gerrard of Liberty Church were active among local leadership in which nearly all churches were united in fighting liquor legalization. Valuable aid was given local leadership by the United Tennessee League and the American Temperance Society.

Central Avenue Church, Memphis, secures the services of Hewitt Slack Aug. 25 as minister of education, a place filled the past five months in an interim capacity by the Rev. Earl Whitsitt. Mr. Slack comes from First Church, Newport, Ky. Recently we had the privilege of being with this Memphis church whose pastor, Dr. George E Stewart, is leading in a great ministry assisted by a fine staff. In July the church voted to sponsor a new work in the Glen Park subdivision at Quince and W. Hayne Road on a four acre lot. Until a building can be constructed services are being held in the Sea Isle School. The mission is to be known as Glen Park Baptist Chapel. Rev. Billy J. Turner is mission pastor.

First Church, Murfreesboro, has received the keys of its new three story educational unit. This well-planned structure, costing $167,000, will house departments from the beginner through the intermediate age groups. Dr. Robert Palmer is the pastor.

First Church, Smyrna, had an informal reception for new pastor Jack Altman Jr., and family. The hospitality committee of the church arranged this Sunday afternoon Aug. 18 in the Tea Room of the historic Sam Davis home.

Pastor Fred O. Ponton reports a very successful Youth-led revival in Oak Street Church, Elizabethton with Guy Patterson student at Southern Seminary as evangelist and Stanley Johnson, student at E. Tenn. College leading the singing.

Rev. Clyde Jones is supply pastor at Sylvan Heights Church, 1224 Chelsea Avenue, Memphis, Tennessee, since the resignation June 1 of F. W. Gillespie, according to a statement received from M. L. Douglas, chairman of the deacons.

Troy G. Young announces that Union University alumni will meet during the First National Conference for Southern Baptist Men at Oklahoma City Sept. 19. The meeting will be in the YMCA Cafeteria (two blocks from the auditorium) at 5 P. M.

At the evening service at Forest Hill Church, Maryville, July 21, a nine-year-old lad dedicated his life to the ministry. He is Don (Tinker) Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Webb. Harley Smiley is pastor of the Forest Hill Church.

A book is the product of mind and yearning, spread patiently across long centuries. It is the sign and symbol of man's culture and understanding. It prevents the loss of good thinking and it expands man's highest moments into permanency. It is the carrier and distributor of the germinations of the mind. It will not permit noble visions to fade or great dreams to wither. It breathes vitality into the past and brightens the eyes that search the future. It makes indelible the record of the generations.—Editorial, Peabody Journal of Education.

In our spirit of compromise, the Rev. Vance Havner of North Carolina likens us to the uncertain soldier in our un-Civil War who, figuring to play it safe, dressed himself in a blue coat and gray pants and tiptoed out onto the field of battle. He got shot from both directions!

Prof. Francis A. Allen, professor of law at Harvard, sounds this warning and gives parents cause for thought: "In recent years a whole literature has appeared, written chiefly by sociologists, which attempts to describe what has happened and what is happening to the individual in modern American society. We are told, among other things, we are victims of mass communications. We look at the same television programs, laugh at the same jokes, read the same books . . . Our children, say the sociologists, are becoming elaborate antennae, chiefly sensitive to the reactions and feelings of people around them. Group approval, they warn, has become the most important modern value."—Justa Lee Allen, "Attitudes Are Important." Church & Home.

Do you have a Youth Director's Card of Accreditation?

If so, you will want to convert it into an age-group leadership card. (In the suggested local W.M.U. By-Laws, the Youth Director is replaced by three—a Y.W.A. Director, a G.A. Director and a Sunbeam Band Director.)

What can you do to convert your Youth Director's card?

You have two choices:

1. Send your Youth Director's card to Miss Margaret Bruce, 600 North Twentieth Street, Birmingham 3, Alabama, with letter giving your current address and stating which card of accreditation you desire: Y.W.A., G.A., or Sunbeam Band. The designated card will be issued with the same expiration date as your Youth Director's card.

Baruch: Dependable Worker

TEXTS: Jeremiah 36 (Larger)—Jer. 36:4-8, 22-26, 32 (Printed)—Colossians 3:23 (Golden).

The Outlines of the International Bible Lessons for Christian Teaching, Uniform Series, are copyrighted by the International Council of Religious Education. Used by permission.

The accent should fall on one word found in the Golden Text. It is the word "heartily". If what we do is truly done "as to the Lord" every deed of ours will be, or at least should be, done heartily (the Greek word from which this is derived furnishes the prefix to our word "psychology" and suggests "vitality"). In another part of the prophecy from which our lesson text comes, Jeremiah 48:10, we read: "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully (marg., negligently)". While the topic assigned centers upon Baruch, who was indeed a dependable worker, two others deserve attention as we note in particular the printed text: Jehoiakim, the king; and Jeremiah, the prophet.

The kingdom of Judah was approaching subjugation and captivity. The time was around 600 B.C. Not many years later, the invader would arrive and Judah's glory would depart. The days were and had been evil. God was warning the people to return to Him and righteousness but to no avail. On the surface all was well, but underneath was presumptuous sinfulness. With all three persons before us, then, what may we observe here?

A FAITHFUL SCRIBE (vv. 4-8)

Cadmus, of the Phoenicians, has been called the giver of the alphabet to the West and the father of writing. This may or may not be true. But of this we can be positive, the written word has been one of man's best gifts. So long as we continue to learn more than nine-tenths through the eye, the written page will remain tremendously important. In order to make writing helpful, men owe much to the right kind of writers; men like Baruch. Here was a scribe, or writer, who was altogether faithful to his task. He wrote as Jeremiah directed and Jeremiah was directed of the Lord. Then he was also faithful in transmitting the message to the people even as Jeremiah requested. Let us ever be grateful for those who write concerning holy matters, drawing their thoughts directly or indirectly from the Bible. Let us at the same time beware those writers and writings that appear from time to time that either ignore or seek to contradict the writings of God that are found in what we refer to as the Holy Bible. The final test as to the value of mere human writings must be determined with harmony of that Word.

A RUTHLESS DESTROYER (vv. 22-26)

King Jehoiakim appears in no more pathetic light than here in his attempts to destroy the Word of the Lord as given by Jeremiah and delivered by Baruch. He was responsible for its deliberate burning, hoping in this manner to get rid of it forever.

But in this he was utterly mistaken. Men, in other ages and under different circumstances, have imagined that they could destroy the Bible merely by burning it. How puny their imaginations! Was it Voltaire who once proudly predicted that the time would arrive when the Bible would no longer be printed? It is said that on this exact spot, where the prediction was made, there now rests a publishing house for the Bible. Men like Ingersoll mouthed similar predictions but they have been completely negated by the facts of history. The Bible will live and thrive, the foolish predictions of little minds to the contrary notwithstanding.

A DILIGENT PROPHET (v. 32)

Jeremiah, with courageous diligence, repeated the words which the king had burned and even added unto them. Neither he nor Baruch would be intimidated by the veiled threats of the enraged and ruthless Jehoiakim. After all it was God's message coming through them, and therefore demanded transmission. Who were they to be careless or afraid? Jeremiah realized his responsibility both to God and the people. A diligent spokesman for Him is priceless.

How many different hobbies are mentioned in today's letters. How many of the friends share the same interests? How many are nearly the same age?

My hobbies are playing the piano and swimming.

My birthday is September 23. I will be in the fifth grade when school starts. I would like to have pen pals any age.

From Brenda Mullins, Route 1, Indian Mound, Tenn.:

I am 13 years of age and am a member of the Cross Creek Baptist Church. My hobbies are riding horses and playing baseball and basketball.

I want pen pals ages 12-15 and promise to answer every letter I get.

Don't forget about that back-to-school letter you are planning to send me! Mail it as soon as possible!

AUNT POLLY

Belcourt at Sixteenth Ave., S.
Nashville, Tenn.

A merry heart doeth good like a medicine
Prov. 17:22

This is the way it was told to us . . .

Joe told his girl he was a go-getter, but she was looking for an already-gotter.

Whistling the woman driver to a stop, the traffic cop plodded over to the car and said wearily, "Lady, can't you see all of those one-way signs on this street?"

"Why, of course, officer," said the matron innocently, "but I was going only one way!"

Inflation could be halted if means could be devised and used to lower the temperature of money in people's pockets.

A young British career diplomat was tooling along a local parkway in his right-hand-drive Humber at 30 mph the other day when a motorcycle cop motioned him to one side of the road. He couldn't imagine what was wrong, but having been advised by American friends never to argue with a policeman, he kept his trap shut as he handed over his driver's license and his proof of diplomatic immunity. These the officer received as in a daze, staring the while in a hypnotized way at his quarry's 7-year-old son, who was sitting beside him in the front seat. "Couldn't figure out how a boy that age could be driving," the cop said, and returned the credentials unread.

Albert was taking part in a local concert. He was only 7 years old, but recited so well that he was encored.

"Well, Albert, and how did you get on?" asked the proud father when he returned home.

"Why, I thought I did all right," replied the youngster, "but they made me do it again."

Said the proud mother, "My daughter has arranged a little piece for the piano."

"Good!" replied the honest neighbor. "It's time we had a little peace."

The cub scouts were building bird houses. Since the size of the entrance hole varies with the type of bird desired, each cub was to decide the kind of bird family he wanted to occupy his house, then take it home and have his father drill the holes accordingly.

Bobby returned to the next meeting, bird house in hand, but still lacking the required opening. "Couldn't you make up your mind," the den mother asked, "the kind of bird you want to live in your house?"

"Sure," replied Bobby confidently, "It's for a redheaded woodpecker. He can peck his own hole!"

Third Quarterly Report Of The Treasurer

OF THE

Tennessee Baptist Convention

FOR THE

FISCAL YEAR, Nov. 1, 1956 Through October 31, 1957

We are submitting the third quarterly report of the Treasurer of the Tennessee Baptist Convention. This report includes the months from November 1, 1956 through July 31, 1957. Funds which were mailed prior to November 1 but which did not reach our offices until after that date are included. Funds mailed in July but which did not reach this office until after August 1st are not included but will be included in the next report.

The three columns include gifts to the Cooperative Program, the Foundation and Designated gifts, and gifts to the Campaign for Schools. Church treasurers will please compare these figures with their records and if there are differences report them to us at once. In making this comparison, the dates given above should be kept in mind. Designated gifts cannot be counted as Cooperative Program even though they are designated to causes also supported by the Cooperative Program.

Below is a table showing the comparison for the nine months in 1956 with this same nine months in 1957.—W. Fred Kendall, Treasurer

Ten Great Days In Coaching Clinics

The ten associational Sunday School Officers' Coaching Clinics at Carson and Linden were a great success. The attendance was made up of the sixteen general and age group associational superintendents and group workers who had been elected or selected for the new Sunday school year, October 1, 1957-September 30, 1958.

General and specific plans were studied as to how a well balanced program of Sunday school work can be projected into each church in Tennessee through a well organized and functioning associational organization.

All sixteen general and age group associational superintendents were urged to complete their teams at the earliest possible date, then train their associational group members in the fine points of their phase of Sunday school work.

The associational group workers were urged to complete their teams as soon as possible by selecting local church Key Workers to assist them in carrying into the churches the best known plans for promoting their phase of Sunday school work.

General and specific plans are to be continued in Associational Planning Meetings.

Good Days At Linden And Carson Sunday School Assemblies

The cooperation of each association in attendance for the Sunday School Assembly for both Linden and Carson manifested a good team spirit throughout our planning days there. And not only for those days, but we can see great things ahead for us in associational planning for Sunday School work.

I want to express my deep appreciation for all efforts on the part of each worker who came and joined in so wholeheartedly. Each one of you had a great part in the success of the two assemblies.

I especially want to thank all the Cradle Roll, Nursery, Beginner and Primary Associational Superintendents and group workers for these age groups for your splendid part in our conferences and your deep interest in helping to get the work of these departments to the last church in your association.

I believe we can work through this fine program to get a Cradle Roll Department in every church and two or more Nursery Departments in every church in the association. It will take plenty of team work but I believe we can do it. Thank you for your part.

The ten one-day coaching clinics for associational Sunday school officers were, as their name implies "coaching clinics".

There were the coaches—sixteen of them! There were the teams—Sunday school officers from the different associations, coming for a day of training.

There were needed materials—a new Associational Sunday School Organization Chart to help each team member find his own place and relationships on the team; multilith sheets to further acquaint each team member with his own position, his responsibilities, and his training opportunities; the training course book, Associational Sunday School Work by J. N. Barnette; printed literature on the various phases of associational and local church Sunday school work.

There were suggested procedures for carrying out a planned program of work, with new work-charts for use in recording progress. There were demonstrations to suggest how to enlist workers, how to conduct meetings, how to use the work-charts, etc.

There was team spirit—an enthusiasm and determination caught from the coaches and from each other that should mean victory in the year ahead.

Miss Pitts Hughes Joins State Student Department

On August 15, Miss Pitts Hughes assumed her responsibilities as an associate, in the Department of Student Work of the Tennessee Baptist Convention. She will do field work throughout the state of Tennessee, assisting Mr. Roselle, the department head and the directors on the local campuses. However, her special responsibility will be the campuses of Tennessee, that have Baptist students but have not previously had any kind of Baptist student work. There are many such campuses with small groups of Baptist students. Miss Hughes will visit these campuses and set up organizations where possible. Upon invitation, she will assist the churches in these college towns in setting up a program of student enlistment. Miss Hughes will be available for conferences, speaking engagements on these campuses and in the churches adjacent to them.

Miss Hughes comes to the Department from Cookeville, Tennessee, where she had been Baptist Student Director at Tennessee Tech. Under her leadership the student work there has made considerable growth. She has vast experience in student work having served in student positions in Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, as well as Tennessee. Her work as a local student director has been on various types of campuses such as hospital training schools, Baptist colleges, state universities and state women's colleges. She is a native of South Carolina and was educated at Furman University and the Women's Missionary Training School.

Miss Peggy Ott Hackler Leaves Murfreesboro

The Student Department of the Tennessee Baptist Convention announces that Miss Peggy Ott Hackler has resigned from her position as Baptist Student Director of Middle Tennessee State College to assume a new position as manuscript editor with the Baptist Sunday School Board. Miss Hackler has served in Middle Tennessee State College for over four years. During that time has done a commendable piece of work. Tennessee Baptists are grateful to Miss Hackler and her loyal service to the denomination. Her work had been jointly supported by this Student Department of the Tennessee Baptist Convention and the First Baptist Church of Murfreesboro.

There was inspiration as each team member returned to his home with Bob Patterson's challenge to realize the missionary opportunity of an associational Sunday school officer ringing in his ears.

"The Army Was Never Like This," Says Colonel Turned Evangelist

CULPEPPER COUNTY, Virginia, March, 1765—(BP)—Samuel Harriss, a Baptist preacher who formerly served as a colonel in the militia, has reason to wonder if military life is not less hazardous than the ministry. During recent visits to this county, where opposition to the Established Church is angrily persecuted, Harriss twice has been the object of mob violence and was arrested once.

Invited to preach in the home of a Baptist in Culpepper County recently, Harriss conducted his first meeting here without interference. He announced a second meeting for the following day and was met by a mob carrying sticks, whips, and clubs. The evangelist moved his meetings to another county to avoid violence.

On another occasion when Harriss attempted to preach in Culpepper, the leader of a gang came up and announced that the Baptist could not hold a meeting. When one of the preacher's friends objected to the interruption, a free-for-all broke out.

Fearing that the preacher might suffer serious injury in the ensuing melee, friends spirited Harriss away to a house and posted a guard at the door. Those who opposed the meeting followed, however, battered down the door, and might have harmed Harriss if his followers had not come to his aid. The gang succeeded in turning the meeting into a brawl.

Harriss has been opposed by both the lawless and the law. Culpepper authorities had the preacher arrested at another time for "disturbing the peace," charging him with being "a vagabond, a heretic, a schismatic, and a mover of sedition everywhere." At his trial he was ordered not to preach again in the county within twelve months under penalty of a prison sentence.

Harriss is one of the most prominent men of Pittsylvania County, Virginia, having served as church warden, colonel of the militia, captain of Fort Mayo, sheriff, justice of the peace, and in other influential positions. He was baptized in 1758 by Daniel Marshall, a pioneer itinerant Baptist evangelist in the South.

The former colonel has given himself without reservation to the Baptist cause. In addition to preaching with great boldness, he has turned his comfortable home into a meetinghouse for Baptists and has generously shared his wealth with less prosperous neighbors and others in need.

THE COMMISSION IS A MAGAZINE FOR THE FAMILY . . . FOR EVERY FAMILY IN YOUR CHURCH

Through reading "The Commission" the families of your church can gain a new understanding of other nations and other peoples. They will be informed of what Southern Baptist missionaries are doing — also where and how. Properly used, "The Commission" becomes a stimulator of ideas, a mine of information, a treasury of illustrations, and a provider of enrichment for the vital task of helping your church measure its size by its concern for a world of people.

In addition to bringing you articles and news from the thirty-eight countries where Southern Baptist missionaries serve and articles of inspiration and general mission interest, "The Commission" brings you letters from missionaries and information on new appointees and the whereabouts of other missionaries, pages and columns calling attention to books, audio-visual aids, and pamphlets on missions, and editorials and discussions by the executive secretary of the Foreign Mission Board to keep you abreast of missionary thinking and denominational developments.

Talk with your budget committee members NOW and ask them to be sure to plan for and provide "The Commission" in the church's 1958 budget. It costs only 88 cents per family per year and payments may be made monthly, quarterly, or yearly, according to the wishes of your church. To take advantage of this plan, just send in the list of families represented in your church, with complete addresses. Do it NOW!
